Hadrian's Wall Matthew Symonds, 2020-12-10 Over its venerable history Hadrian s Wall has had an undeniable influence in shaping the British landscape both literally and figuratively Once thought to be a soft border recent research has implicated it in the collapse of a farming civilisation centuries in the making and in fuelling an insurgency characterised by violent upheaval Examining the everyday impact of the Wall over the three centuries it was in operation Matthew Symonds sheds new light on its underexplored human story by discussing how the evidence speaks of a hard border scything through a previously open landscape and bringing dramatic change in its wake The Roman soldiers posted to Hadrian's Wall were overwhelmingly recruits from the empire's occupied territories and for them the frontier could be a place of fear and magic where supernatural protection was invoked during spells of guard duty Since antiquity the Wall has been exploited by powers craving the legitimacy that came with being accepted as the heirs of Rome it helped forge notions of English and Scottish nationhood and even provided a model of selfless cultural collaboration when the British Empire needed reassurance It has also inspired creatives for centuries appearing in a more or less recognisable guise in works ranging from Rudyard Kipling's Puck of Pook's Hill to George R R Martin's A Game of Thrones Combining an archaeological analysis of the monument itself and an examination of its rich legacy and contemporary relevance this volume presents a reliable modern perspective on the Wall

The Victorian Geopolitical Aesthetic Lauren M. E. Goodlad, 2015-01-22 How did realist fiction alter in the effort to craft forms and genres receptive to the dynamism of an expanding empire and globalizing world Do these nineteenth century variations on the geopolitical aesthetic continue to resonate today Crossing literary criticism political theory and longue durée history The Victorian Geopolitical Aesthetic explores these questions from the standpoint of nineteenth century novelists such as Wilkie Collins George Eliot Gustave Flaubert and Anthony Trollope as well as successors including E M Forster and the creators of recent television serials By looking at the category of sovereignty at multiple scales and in diverse contexts Lauren M E Goodlad shows that the ideological crucible for high realism was not a hegemonic liberalism It was rather a clash of modern liberal ideals struggling to distinguish themselves from a powerful conservative vision of empire while striving to negotiate the inequalities of power which a supposedly universalistic liberalism had helped to generate The material occasion for the Victorian era's rich realist experiments was the long transition from an informal empire of trade that could be celebrated as liberal to a neo feudal imperialism that only Tories could warmly embrace The book places realism's geopolitical aesthetic at the heart of recurring modern experiences of breached sovereignty forgotten history and subjective exile The Coda titled The Way We Historicize Now concludes the study with connections to recent debates about surface reading distant reading and the hermeneutics of suspicion

Bringing History to Life through Film Kathryn Anne Morey, 2013-12-12 Whether re-creating an actual event or simply being set in a bygone era films have long taken liberties with the truth While some members of the audience can appreciate a movie without being distracted by historical inaccuracies other viewers are more discerning From revered classics like Gone with the Wind to recent award winners like Argo Hollywood films often are taken to task for their loose adherence to the facts But what obligation do filmmakers have to the truth when trying to create a two hour piece of entertainment In Bringing History to Life through Film The Art of Cinematic Storytelling Kathryn Anne Morey brings together essays that explore the controversial issue of film as a purveyor of history Examining a range of films including highly regarded features like The Last of the Mohicans and Pan's Labyrinth as well as blockbuster franchises like Pirates of the Caribbean chapters demonstrate that the debate surrounding the role of history on film is still as raw as ever Organized in five sections these essays discuss the myths and realities of history as they are portrayed on film from Nostalgic Utopias to Myths and Fairy Tales The fourteen chapters shed light on how films both convey and distort historical realities to capture the essence of the past rather than the past itself Ultimately they consider what role cinema plays as the quintessential historical storyteller In addition to cinema and media studies this book will appeal to scholars of history and fans of a wide range of cinematic genres

Gunyah, Goondie + Wurley Paul Memmott, 2007. When Europeans first reached Australian shores, a long-held and expedient perception developed that Australian Aboriginal people did not have houses or settlements; that they occupied temporary camps, sheltering in makeshift huts or lean-tos of grass and bark. This book redresses that notion, exploring the range and complexity of Aboriginal designed structures, spaces, and territorial behaviour, from minimalist shelters to permanent houses and villages. Gunyah, Goondie + Wurley encompasses Australian Aboriginal Architecture from the time of European contact to the work of the first Aboriginal graduates of university-based courses in architecture, bringing together in one place a wealth of images and research.
