The Oxford Guide to the Languages of the Central Andes Matthias Urban, 2025-03-27 This volume presents the most comprehensive overview in English of the languages of the Central Andes spoken primarily in Peru and Bolivia Efforts to describe and document Central Andean languages as well as philological research into colonial documentation and texts have blossomed in recent decades here the major protagonists and drivers of these exciting developments are given the opportunity to showcase their research achievements in one volume Following an introductory part providing background information on the region and its cultural and linguistic diversity chapters in Part II provide extensive descriptions of individual languages that not only reflect current knowledge but also add to our understanding of their phonological and grammatical structures The third part offers substantial typological comparative analyses that reflect the pivotal role Central Andean languages have played in investigations into topics of current theoretical interest such as the notions of linguistic complexity and evidentiality Part IV explores topics relating to the history of the language from early prehistory to the colonial period while chapters in the final part shed light on the cultural geographic and sociolinguistic settings in which Central Andean languages are spoken and discuss language contact situations and language ideologies The Oxford Guide to the Languages of the Central Andes will be of interest not only to students and researchers specializing in Andean languages but also to typologists comparative linguists and linguistic anthropologists

Transfer and Interference in Language Monika Brüggemeier, Dietmar Fütterer, 1984 The topic of this bibliography in its broadest sense is the subject of a wide range of academic disciplines Given these circumstances the particular associations and connotations of the terms transfer and interference in each of these areas are legion with resultant differences in meaning in the disparate literature on these subjects And yet it is in one way or another contact and interaction of languages in the speaker hearer and learner in language acquisition contexts as well as in society in general which is basic to these two concepts throughout the various disciplines The discovery of this basic unitary notion is surely one of the reasons for the new interest in these phenomena In light of all this a bibliography cannot at present avoid being highly selective in order to demarcate an interdisciplinary area of research in its own right and with its own status The establishment of such an area is one of our main aims The focus of interest in this bibliography admittedly is directed towards the psycholinguistics of language contact and interaction
