

A person is standing on a rocky shore, looking out at the ocean. The sun is setting, creating a warm, golden glow over the water and the person's silhouette. The sky is a mix of orange and grey, and the mountains in the background are dark and hazy.

Be patient.
Things will change.
It will be better.

Latina Evangélicas Loida Martell-Otero, Zaida Maldonado Pérez, Elizabeth Conde-Frazier, 2013-01-15 Latina Evangelicas A Theological Survey from the Margins is a constructive and postcolonial examination of the theology of Protestant Latinas who reside in the United States Written by three Latinas who have pastored and who teach in Latina communities the book seeks to expand beyond Latina feminist and mujerista voices to include those whose perspectives have not yet been heard It thus introduces an important theological perspective to a wider audience and provides an important resource that has been lacking for evangelicas and other marginalized groups who study in various theological programs Key terminology such as evangelica is defined throughout and a glossary is included for non Spanish speaking readers Each chapter considers theological themes important to the Latina Protestant worshipping community beginning with a constructive discussion of the doctrine of the Holy Spirit and followed by the doctrines of salvation and Jesus Christ the Trinity the church Scripture and the last things eschatology Given that one of the characteristics of Latina o theologies is their dialogical and collaborative nature the book concludes with a conversation among the three authors about the theological thinking that took place in its composition Study questions are included at the end of each chapter Keeping It Real Jeffrey Talton, 2015-03-10 The book is a passionate journey through varied emotions experienced in human life and I m just keeping it real Lying Down in the Ever-Falling Snow Wendy Austin, E. benefits if they set aside their antiauthoritarian aspirations and become part of the system. However, co-optation does not always neutralize former adversaries and even seemingly domesticated opponents can turn on their rulers. Co-optation does weaken opposition but it is not as simple, reliable, or transactional as existing theories claim. Shouting in a Cage offers new ways to understand co-optation's power and its limits by examining two co-opted parties: the Wafd Party in Egypt and the Istiqlal Party in Morocco. Sofia Fenner argues that co-optation is less a corrupt bargain than a discursive contest, a clash of competing interpretations. Co-opted parties conjure up imagined futures in which their short-term choices will lead to the realization of their long-term democratic goals. Meanwhile, other actors point to the disconnect between these parties' antiauthoritarian aspirations and their participation in authoritarian systems. Fenner demonstrates that co-opted parties come to look hypocritical precisely because they refuse to give up their oppositional commitments. Their credibility sapped, they become unappealing allies and eventually political afterthoughts. However, such parties retain a surprising capacity for opposition rooted in the literal and metaphorical idea of party as family. Based on extensive archival research and ethnographic fieldwork in North Africa, Shouting in a Cage broadens our understanding of political behavior under authoritarianism.
