

9/16 Rogier van der Weyden

Recap of Campin

- Work of Robert Campin (1420s) frequently depicted the middle class
- Specifically detailed settings
- Treated things with greater specificity than many other gothic artists
- Less generalized setting
 - Naturalistic setting
 - This specificity is characteristic of compounds
 - Very few shadows being presented - seeing this as if we are looking through a window
- When compared to Jan Van Eyck Campin's paintings are much more localized
 - Jan Van Eyck was much more vast, almost cosmic
 - Campin more modest and more local
- Following river up to scene of birth of Christ
- Symbolism of metallic sun coating real shadows as a reflection of christ coming into the world
- Renovation of Judaism with coming of christ - this was very common (renovation of the old law)
- Merging of visions of bridget of sweden with midwife who believed in birth of christ and midwife who did not
 - Conflation of various sources
 - Scrolls of the angels - ex: "touch the child and you shall be healed"
- Presence of shepherds shows discrimination of social levels
 - Dressed like the poor folk they are
 - The lowest are the most believing - looking on with simple reverence

Notes Toward A History Of Medieval Ren:

Notes Toward a History of Medieval and Renaissance Art Constantine Christofides, 1975 Towards a History of Consciousness Vwadek P. Marciniak, 2006 Towards a History of Consciousness Space Time and Death offers a cogent and compelling discussion of the neglected topic of the history of consciousness An analysis of our postmodern ontology reveals deep but neglected roots What are those roots and how did they grow Is there a self without consciousness What is the relation of the self to the individual Does the recognition of death contribute to the growth of consciousness As a survey of western history this work pushes the boundaries of the understanding of consciousness in intriguing and sometimes provocative directions This integrative study is intended for the serious curious student and thinker Sin and Filth in Medieval Culture Martha Bayless, 2013-07-03 This important new contribution to the history of the body analyzes the role of filth as the material counterpart of sin in medieval thought Using a wide range of texts including theology historical documents and literature from Augustine to Chaucer the book shows how filth was regarded as fundamental to an understanding of human history This theological significance explains the prominence of filth and dung in all genres of medieval writing there is more dung in theology than there is in Chaucer The author also demonstrates the ways in which the religious understanding of filth and sin influenced the secular world from town planning to the execution of traitors As part of this investigation the book looks at the symbolic order of the body and the ways in which the different aspects of the body were assigned moral meanings The book also lays out the realities of medieval sanitation providing the first comprehensive view of real life attempts to cope with filth This book will be essential reading for those interested in medieval religious thought literature and social history Filled with a wealth of entertaining examples it will also appeal to those who simply want to glimpse the medieval world as it really was Toward a Global Middle Ages Bryan C. Keene, 2019-09-03 This important and overdue book examines illuminated manuscripts and other book arts of the Global Middle Ages Illuminated manuscripts and illustrated or decorated books like today's museums preserve a rich array of information about how premodern peoples conceived of and perceived the world its many cultures and everyone's place in it Often a Eurocentric field of study manuscripts are prisms through which we can glimpse the interconnected global history of humanity Toward a Global Middle Ages is the first publication to examine decorated books produced across the globe during the period traditionally known as medieval Through essays and case studies the volume's multidisciplinary contributors expand the historiography chronology and geography of manuscript studies to embrace a diversity of objects individuals narratives and materials from Africa Asia Australasia and the Americas an approach that both engages with and contributes to the emerging field of scholarly inquiry known as the Global Middle Ages Featuring more than 160 color illustrations this wide ranging and provocative collection is intended for all who are interested in engaging in a dialogue about how books and other textual objects contributed to world making strategies from about 400 to 1600 Latin Scientific Literature, 1450-1850 Martin

Korenjak,2023-09-20 During the early modern period the emergence of what ultimately became modern science took place mainly in Latin the international language of educated discourse of the era Hundreds of thousands of scientific texts were published in Latin from the invention of print around 1450 to the demise of Latin as a language of science around 1850 Despite its importance our knowledge of this literature is extremely limited This book aims to provide an overview of this area the first ever to be written It does so not from the perspective of a natural scientist or a historian of science but of a literary scholar Instead of the scientific content or methodology of the respective works it focusses on the genres of scientific literature and their communicative functions Latin Scientific Literature 1450 1850 falls into two main parts The first part Contexts introduces four aspects of early modern intellectual culture which are crucial for an understanding of the scientific literature of the time the development of science the role of Latin the concept of literature and the rise of print Part two Texts offers an overview of Neo Latin scientific literature Subsumed under five communicative functions disclosing sources presenting facts arguing for certain positions summarizing knowledge and publicizing science twenty pertinent genres are discussed Studies on the Spanish Sentimental Romance, 1440-1550 Joseph J. Gwara,E. Michael Gerli,1997 The genre of sentimental romance re examined and redefined Notes Toward a History of Medieval and Renaissance Art Constantine Christofides,1978 A General History of Horology Anthony Turner,James Nye,Jonathan Betts,2022-07-28 A General History of Horology describes instruments used for the finding and measurement of time from Antiquity to the 21st century In geographical scope it ranges from East Asia to the Americas The instruments described are set in their technical and social contexts and there is also discussion of the literature the historiography and the collecting of the subject The book features the use of case studies to represent larger topics that cannot be completely covered in a single book The international body of authors have endeavoured to offer a fully world wide survey accessible to students historians collectors and the general reader based on a firm understanding of the technical basis of the subject At the same time as the work offers a synthesis of current knowledge of the subject it also incorporates the results of some fundamental new and original research Verse and Voice in Byrd's Song Collections of 1588 and 1589 Jeremy L. Smith,2016 The author offers close examination of the English language songs of Byrd published in the late 1580s looking at the music texts politics and other aspects of the songs The Practice and Representation of Reading in England James Raven,Helen Small,Naomi Tadmor,2007-09-27 Developments in cultural history and literary criticism have suggested alternative ways of addressing the interpretation of reading How did people read in the past Where and why did they read How were the manner and purpose of reading envisaged and recorded by contemporaries and why Drawing on fields as diverse as medieval pedagogy textual bibliography the history of science and social and literary history this collection of fourteen essays highlights both the singularity of personal reading experiences and the cultural conventions involved in reading and its perception An introductory essay offers an important critical assessment of the various contributions to the development of the subject in
