Nuclear Forces In Europe:

Nuclear Forces in Europe Leon V. Sigal, 1984 En analyse af den omfattende debat NATOs 1979 beslutning om opstilling af Cruise og Pershing II missiler medførte NATOs begrundelse med de strategiske og tekniske fordele og reaktioner hos de europaiske NATO lande samt nedrustningsforhandlingerne Nuclear Weapons in Europe Andrew J. Pierre, 1984 From the John Holmes Library collection Tactical Nuclear Weapons Stockholm International Peace Research Institute, 2020-11-19 In the 1970s tactical nuclear warfare was a topical issue The introduction of the new generation of tactical nuclear weapons into Europe could have had disastrous consequences These new weapons had already been developed by nuclear weapon laboratories and pressures were growing for their deployment On first sight smaller and more accurate nuclear weapons may seem more humane and militarily preferable to the relatively high yield tactical nuclear weapons currently deployed But some of these new types of weapons would blur the distinction between nuclear and conventional weapons and their use would make escalation to strategic nuclear war extremely likely Indeed the argument for these new weapons is that their use in wartime is more credible and therefore acceptable than current types of tactical nuclear weapons This perception could easily lead to the exceedingly dangerous idea that some types of tactical nuclear war were winnable The fact has to be faced that any use of nuclear weapons is almost certain to escalate until all available weapons are used To believe otherwise is to believe that one side will surrender before it has used all the weapons in its arsenal History shows that this is most unlikely to happen Because of its importance SIPRI organized a meeting to discuss the whole question Originally published in 1978 this book is the outcome of that meeting Alternative Conventional Defense Postures In The European Theater Hans G. Brauch, Robert F. Jr. Kennedy, 2018-10-24 First published in 1993 This volume edited jointly by the American strategic expert Robert Kennedy and the German peace researcher Hans Giinter Brauch takes up conceptual ideas developed by Horst Afheldt and Carl Friedrich von Weizsacker as well as others on both sides of the Atlantic since the 1960s Our aim has been to contribute to the development of concepts that would reduce the danger of a third world war by the creation of more stable structures in the context of a defensively oriented conventional defense posture In this volume a variety of alternative approaches to European conventional defense driven for the most part by similar strategic considerations are presented by German and American experts to a larger international audience

Between Scylla and Charybdis Carl William Dossel, 1985 This thesis which examines the issue of nuclear weapons in Europe is divided into two major parts The first traces the history of nuclear weapons and doctrine associated with NATO and the Warsaw Pact from 1945 through 1985 Drawing on this historical perspective the second part critically examines current conventional and nuclear force structure and doctrine Briefly it concludes that NATO's approach to nuclear force structure and doctrine might be charitably labeled ad hoc In view of present and projected Warsaw Pact conventional and nuclear capabilities the credibility of flexible response suffers accordingly To remedy this situation a series of recommendations are made the gist of which are adoption of a mobile conventional defense removal of battlefield nuclear weapons from Europe and the enhancement of the survivability of theater strategic systems while seeking the ultimate elimination of theater nuclear weapons on both sides through arms control talks
