Variation and the Bilingual Advantage - Factors that Modulate the Effect of Bilingualism on Cognitive Control and Cognitive Reserve Maurits Van den Noort, Peggy Bosch, Esli Struys, 2020-02-11 The number of bilingual and multilingual speakers around the world is steadily growing leading to the questions How do bilinguals manage two or more language systems in their daily interactions and how does being bilingual multilingual affect brain functioning and vice versa Previous research has shown that cognitive control plays a key role in bilingual language management This hypothesis is further supported by the fact that foreign languages have been found to affect not only the expected linguistic domains but surprisingly other non linguistic domains such as cognitive control attention inhibition and working memory Somehow learning languages seems to affect executive brain functioning In the literature this is referred to as the bilingual advantage meaning that people who learn two or more languages seem to outperform monolinguals in executive functioning skills In this Special Issue we first present studies that investigate the bilingual advantage We also go one step further by focusing on factors that modulate the effect of bilingualism on cognitive control In the second smaller part of our Special Issue we focus on the cognitive reserve hypothesis with the aim of addressing the following questions Does the daily use of two or more languages protect the aging individual against cognitive decline Does lifelong bilingualism protect against brain diseases such as dementia later in life New approaches to how bilingualism shapes cognition and the brain across the lifespan: Beyond the false dichotomy of advantage versus no advantage Mark Antoniou,Christos Pliatsikas,Scott R. Schroeder,2023-04-18 Heritage Languages at the Crossroads: Cultural Contexts, Individual Differences, and Methodologies Brechje Antonet Van Osch,Alicia Luque,Jason Rothman,Selim Tiryakiol,Nadine Kolb,2025-02-10 This Research Topic focuses on heritage languages at the crossroads by approaching heritage language bilingualism in an interdisciplinary way A language qualifies as a heritage language if it is a minority language spoken at home in a majority language context Any language can be the societal majority language in one context and the heritage language in another While the number of empirical studies on language acquisition and processing in heritage language bilingualism has increased in recent years heritage language bilinguals are an understudied subgroup of bilinguals When examined as adults heritage speaker bilinguals tend to show significant differences in their heritage language performance use and competence grammatical knowledge from one another This variation is particularly unusual because heritage speakers like monolinguals are native speakers of the heritage language Technical Report ,1952 Adult and Continuing Education: Liberal adult education (part 1) Peter Jarvis,Colin Griffin,2003 Depicting the ways that adult education has evolved as society has changed and how it has been incorporated into lifelong learning this is a truly unique set that puts a stamp on an exciting field and important far reaching issues These five volumes represent a great advance to scholars as this is the first comprehensive overview of the field The set draws on books journals reports and historical papers to map the vast field of education for adults The writings included in the set have influenced the development of both the practice and the study of adult education from the Guilds to vocational education distance learning and leisure learning The collection also covers the recent emergence of corporations as new providers of education for adults with the corporate classroom corporate universities and consultancies A detailed index and new introduction by the editor will help the reader navigate this wealth of diverse material A Parametric Study of Language Training in the Peace Corps Harvard University. Laboratory for Research in Instruction,John Bissell Carroll,1966 The Cambridge Handbook of Corrective Feedback in Second Language Learning and Teaching Hossein Nassaji,Eva Kartchava,2021-03-11 Corrective feedback is a vital pedagogical tool in language learning This is the first volume to provide an in depth analysis and discussion of the role of corrective feedback in second and foreign language learning and teaching Written by leading scholars it assembles cutting edge research and state of the art articles that address recent developments in core areas of corrective feedback including oral written computer mediated nonverbal and peer feedback The chapters are a combination of both theme based and original empirical studies carried out in diverse second and foreign language contexts Each chapter provides a concise review of its own topic discusses theoretical and empirical issues not adequately addressed before and identifies their implications for classroom instruction and future research It will be an essential resource for all those interested in the role of corrective feedback in second and foreign language learning and how they can be used to enhance classroom teaching Learner-directed Assessment in Esl Glayol V. Ekbatani, Herbert D. Pierson, 2012-10-12 This text integrates the theory and practice of learner based assessment Written in response to two recent movements in language teaching learner centered teaching and a renewed interest in authenticity in language testing it examines the relationship between the language learner and language assessment processes and promotes approaches to assessment that involve the learner in the testing process Particular attention is given to issues of reliability and validity Grounded in current pedagogical applications of authentic assessment measures this volume is intended for and eminently accessible to classroom teachers and program directors looking for ways to include their students in the evaluation process graduate students and professional language testers seeking authenticity in assessment and desiring to create more interactive evaluation tools
