Hamburger, 2002-09-26 Throughout the Middle Ages

John the Evangelist identified as the author of both the Book of Revelation and the most profound and theologically informed of the four Gospels provided monks and nuns with a figure of inspiration and an exemplar of vision and virginity Rather than the historical apostle this book s protagonist is a persona of the Evangelist established in theology the liturgy and devotional practice the model mystic who by virtue of his penetrating insight was seen as having become a mirror image of Christ In St John the Divine Jeffrey Hamburger identifies a remarkable set of images from the ninth to the fifteenth centuries that identify the inspired Evangelist so closely with the deity that he appears as his living image and embodiment Hamburger explores the ways these representations of St John in the guise of Christ elucidate the significance of images as such in medieval theology and mysticism Above all he shows how these artworks presented together for the first time epitomize the relationship between the visible and the invisible between ideas however abstract and the concrete images that medieval Christians applies for other writings that were not included in the Jewish and Christian Bibles and nor in other sacred collections of Scripture like Rabbinics and Patristics Most of these ancient writings functioned to some degree as sacred texts or scripture sacra scriptura in the communities in which they were produced and in others to which they circulated This volume focuses on how some of these forgotten voices were heard within numerous early religious communities helping to remove the distressing silence in many areas of the ancient world
