capital theories and consumerism The next step in his exploration of the politics of knowledge was to examine these issues in the context of globalization leading to a proposed educational rights amendment to national constitutions and a new paradigm for education both of which might ensure that schools are protected from ideological management by economic and political elites Spring s indigenous background has strongly shaped his interest in the political and economic goals of schooling particularly the attempts of those in power to use schools to destroy indigenous languages and cultures In this collection Spring brings together 10 of his key writings providing an overview not just of his own career but the larger contexts in which it is situated In the Introduction he reviews the evolution and scope of his work and his earlier arguments and reflects on its central themes which are reflected in the writings selected for this volume In the World Library of Educationalists international scholars themselves compile career long collections of what they judge to be their finest pieces extracts from books key articles salient research findings major theoretical and practical contributions so the world can read them in a single manageable volume Readers will be able to follow the themes and strands of their work and see their contribution to the development of a field as well as the development of the field itself Contributors to the series include Michael Apple James A Banks Stephen J Ball Elliot Eisner Howard Gardner John Gilbert Ivor F Goodson Peter Jarvis

Pluralism and Progressives Rivka Shpak Lissak, 1989-11-09 The settlement house movement launched at the end of the nineteenth century by men and women of the upper middle class began as an attempt to understand and improve the social conditions of the working class. It gradually came to focus on the new immigrants mainly Italians, Slavs, Greeks, and Jews who figured so prominently in this changing working class. Hull House, one of the first and best known settlement houses in the United States, was founded in September 1889 on Chicago's West Side by Jane Addams and Ellen G. Starr. In a major new study of this famous institution and its place in the movement, Rivka Shpak Lissak reassesses the impact of Hull House on the nationwide debate over the place of immigrants in American society.

The Eclipse of Morality Lawrence Busch, Using the works of Bacon, Hobbes, and Adam Smith as well as historical examples drawn from the last two centuries, Busch shows how the ideas initially proposed by these thinkers became reified as scientism, statism, and marketism, systems of belief that a single mode of ordering could solve the riddle of society and thereby supplant moral responsibility. Busch contrasts this approach with concrete examples of successful attempts to extend democracy into these areas to create multiple orderings so that moral responsibility is neither crushingly heavy on individuals nor unbearably light on society.
