It was his responsibility to anticipate German applications of science to warfare so that their new weapons could be countered before they were used. Much of his work had to do with radio navigation as in the Battle of the Beams with radar as in the Allied Bomber Offensive and in the preparations for D Day and in the war at sea. He was also in charge of intelligence against the V 1 flying bomb and the V 2 rocket retaliation weapons and although the Germans were some distance behind from success against their nuclear developments

Silver Images A. D. Bensusan,1966 Games & Puzzles ,1979 Rorke's Drift and Isandlwana Ian F. W. Beckett,2019-01-03 This volume recounts the battles of Isandlwana and Rorke's Drift exploring how they were fought how they have been remembered and what they mean for us today. The battle of Isandlwana on 22 January 1879 the first major battle in the Anglo Zulu war witnessed the worst single day's loss of British troops between the battle of Waterloo in 1815 and the opening campaignns of the First World War in August 1914. Moreover decisive defeat at the hands of the Zulu came as an immense shock to a Victorian public that had become used to easy victories over less technologically advanced indigenous foes in an expanding empire. The successful defence of Rorke's Drift which immediately followed the encounter at Isandlwana and for which 11 Victoria Crosses were awarded averted military disaster and went some way to restore wounded British pride but the sobering memory of defeat at Isandlwana lingered for many years while the legendary tale of the defence of Rorke's Drift was reawakened for a new generation in the epic 1964 film Zulu starring Michael Caine In this new volume in the Great Battles series Ian F W Beckett tells the story of both battles investigating not only their immediate military significance but also providing the first overarching account of their continuing cultural impact and legacy in the years since 1879 not just in Britain but also from the once largely inaccessible and overlooked Zulu perspective
