Specialty Competencies in Couple and Family Psychology Mark Stanton, Robert Welsh, 2011-05-05 Couples and family psychology is a broad and general specialty in professional psychology that is founded on an understanding of the human experience in a systems context For the public the terms couples and family provide a user friendly translation but underestimate the multifaceted perspectives required of the specialty Specialists in couples and family psychology have developed unique assessment and treatment methods that impact behavioral and dynamic factors across individuals couples families and larger social systems In Specialty Competencies in Couple and Family Psychology Mark Stanton and Robert Welsh provide a comprehensive explanation of the competencies involved in the specialty and illustrates how complexity reciprocity interdependence adaptation and self organization are important aspects of the epistemology of a couples and family approach As the authors underscore for the reader the specialty of couple and family psychology is not confined to marital or family therapy but encompasses a broad orientation to human behavior that occurs in the context of relationships as well as larger macrosystemic dynamics The conceptualization and the application of systemic concepts to human behavior includes a body of knowledge and evidence based interventions that require specialty training and competence This is a must read for all those interested in pursuing couples and family psychology specialty practice Series in Specialty Competencies in Professional Psychology Series Editors Arthur M Nezu and Christine Maguth Nezu As the field of psychology continues to grow and new specialty areas emerge and achieve recognition it has become increasingly important to define the standards of professional specialty practice Developed and conceived in response to this need for practical guidelines this series presents methods strategies and techniques for conducting day to day practice in any given psychology specialty The topical volumes address best practices across the functional and foundational competencies that characterize the various psychology specialties including clinical psychology cognitive and behavioral psychology school psychology geropsychology forensic psychology clinical neuropsychology couples and family psychology and more Functional competencies include common practice activities like assessment and intervention while foundational competencies represent core knowledge areas such as ethical and legal issues cultural diversity and professional identification In addition to describing these competencies each volume provides a definition description and development timeline of a particular specialty including its essential and characteristic pattern of activities as well as its distinctive and unique features Written by recognized experts in their respective fields volumes are comprehensive up to date and accessible These volumes offer invaluable guidance to not only practicing mental health professionals but those training for specialty practice as well

The Social Science Encyclopedia Adam Kuper, 2003-12-16 The Social Science Encyclopedia first published in 1985 to acclaim from social scientists librarians and students was thoroughly revised in 1996 when reviewers began to describe it as a classic This third edition has been radically recast Over half the entries are new or have been entirely rewritten and most of the balance have been substantially revised Written by an international team of contributors the Encyclopedia offers a global perspective on the key issues within the social sciences Some 500 entries cover a variety of enduring and newly vital areas of study and research methods Experts review theoretical debates from neo evolutionism and rational choice theory to poststructuralism and address the great questions that cut across the social sciences What is the influence of genes on behaviour What is the nature of consciousness and cognition What are the causes of poverty and wealth What are the roots of conflict wars revolutions and genocidal violence This authoritative reference work is aimed at anyone with a serious interest in contemporary academic thinking about the individual in society

The Psychological Assessment of Abused and Traumatized Children Francis D. Kelly, 1999-03-01 The past decade has seen more and more clinicians involved in the assessment and treatment of abused and traumatized children They have contributed to an impressively large body of literature on the impact of abuse and trauma at all ages the focus of which has been the short and long term sequelae apparent in the child s behavior emotional experience and social interaction But there have been few efforts to investigate the ways in which abuse and trauma damage the intrapsychic systems and structures that often guide direct and inform the child s manifest adjustment and functioning The need to redress the balance was the major impetus for this book Kelly offers a clinical paradigm for the personality assessment of abused or traumatized children via projective instruments the TAT and Rorschach and shows how various projective measures and indices can be utilized as sensitive barometers of changes in self object and ego functioning following therapeutic interventions and other corrective experiences But further integrating the tenets of trauma theory and those of psychoanalytic theory he sets this clinical paradigm in a meaningful theoretical context and draws on both theory and clinical experience to develop a comprehensive psychological composite of the child who has been maltreated Part I provides an overview of theoretical models relevant to the assessment and diagnosis of the maltreated child Contemporary psychoanalytic theory serves as one frame and is discussed first with particular emphasis on object relations and ego functions Equal attention is devoted to developmental psychology as another frame Part II reviews relevant research The Mutuality of Autonomy Scale MOA and the Social Cognition and Object Relations Scale SCORS are introduced as examples of reliable and valid instruments readily employed to assess the impact of abuse or trauma on a child s object relations functioning Additional Rorschach indices boundary disturbance measures thought disorder indices trauma markers and defensive functions measures are discussed as measures of the impact on different facets of ego functioning These various projective measures can be utilized as sensitive barometers of changes in self object and ego functioning following therapeutic interventions and other corrective experiences Part III includes a variety of extended clinical illustrations Seven cases of boys and girls subjected to varying degrees of abuse and trauma are presented to demonstrate the clinical utility of projective material for assessment diagnosis and treatment planning For the clinician who takes the idiographical phenomenological approach appropriate given the uniqueness of each situation of abuse or trauma and the frequent brevity and barrenness of the protocol such material can open a window onto a rich vista of the child's psychological terrain. The resulting map can point the way to wise decisions about type, timing, and level of therapeutic intervention, the resolution of such process issues as transference and countertransference, plus additional questions. Two cases of adult women who were abused as children and find themselves continuing to struggle with enduring unresolved issues vis-à-vis their own children are also presented. These cases underscore the value of TAT and Rorschach material and object relations measures in assessing and understanding the abusive and potentially abusive parent.
