Mrs Saville Ted Morrissey,2018-08-29 Margaret Saville's husband has been away on business for weeks and has stopped replying to her letters Her brother Robert Walton has suddenly returned after three years at sea having barely survived his exploratory voyage to the northern pole She still grieves the death of her youngest child as she does her best to raise her surviving children Felix and Agatha The depth of her brother's trauma becomes clear so that she must add his health and sanity to her list of cares A bright spot seems to be a new friendship with a young woman who has just returned to England from the Continent but Margaret soon discovers that her friend Mary Shelley has difficulties of her own including an eccentric poet husband Percy and a book she is struggling to write Margaret's story unfolds in a series of letters to her absent husband desperate for him to return or at least to acknowledge her epistles and confirm that he is well She is lonely grief stricken and afraid yet in these darkest of times a spirit of independence begins to awaken Mrs Saville begins where Mary Shelley's Frankenstein ends This paperback edition includes the short story A Wintering Place and an Afterword by the author We Have Never Been Postmodern Steve Redhead,2011-06-29 Is it possible that various disciplines theorists and cultural commentators have been hurtling down a blind alley in the last thirty years searching for the holy grail of the postmodern What if after all we have never have been postmodern Or what if we are instead now living after postmodernity As global culture rushes off the cliff of catastrophe with its neo liberal neo conservative ideologies mangled in the process this book provides theory at the speed of light designed to capture the fast flickering images of the real gone before you can blink in today's accelerated culture theory the task taken up in A Dialogue of Voices The original essays in this book combine feminism and Bakhtin in unique ways and by interpreting texts through these two lenses arrive at new theoretical approaches Together these essays point to a new direction for feminist theory that originates in Bakhtin one that would lead to a feminine tre rather than a feminine critique Focusing on feminist theorists such as Hélène Cixous Teresa de Lauretis Julia Kristeva and Monique Wittig in conjunction with Bakhtin's concepts of dialogism heteroglossia and chronotope the authors offer close readings of texts from a wide range of multicultural genres including nature writing sermon composition nineteenth century British women's fiction the contemporary romance novel Irish and French lyric poetry and Latin American film The result is a unique dialogue in which authors of both sexes from several countries and different eras speak against for and with one another in ways that reveal their works anew as well as the critical matrices surrounding them Karen Hohne is an independent scholar and artist living in Moorhead Minnesota Helen Wussow is an assistant professor of English at Memphis State University

Literature's Children Louise Joy, 2019-02-21 Literature's Children offers a new way of thinking about how literature for children functions didactically It analyzes the nature of the practical critical activity which the child reader carries out emphasizing what the child does to the text rather than what he or she receives from it Through close readings of a range of works for children which have shaped our understanding of what children's literature entails including works by Isaac Watts John Newbery Kate Greenaway E Nesbit Kenneth Grahame J R R Tolkien and Malcolm Saville it demonstrates how the critical child resists the processes of idealization in operation in and through such texts Bringing into dialogue ideas from literary theory and the philosophy of education drawing in particular on the work of the philosopher John Dewey it provides a compelling new account of the complex relations between literary aesthetics and literary didacticism Silver Fork
