Mozingo, 2016-05-27 How business appropriated the pastoral landscape as seen in the corporate campus the corporate estate and the office park By the end of the twentieth century America's suburbs contained more office space than its central cities Many of these corporate workplaces were surrounded somewhat incongruously by verdant vistas of broad lawns and leafy trees In Pastoral Capitalism Louise Mozingo describes the evolution of these central but often ignored features of postwar urbanism in the context of the modern capitalist enterprise These new suburban corporate landscapes emerged from a historical moment when corporations reconceived their management structures the city decentralized and dispersed into low density auto dependent peripheries and the pastoral in the form of leafy residential suburbs triumphed as an American ideal Greenness writes Mozingo was associated with goodness and pastoral capitalism appropriated the suburb's aesthetics and moral code Like the lawn proud suburban homeowner corporations understood a pastoral landscape's capacity to communicate identity status and right mindedness Mozingo distinguishes among three forms of corporate landscapes the corporate campus the corporate estate and the office park and examines suburban corporate landscapes built and inhabited by such companies as Bell Labs General Motors Deere Company and Microsoft She also considers the globalization of pastoral capitalism in Europe and the developing world including Singapore India and China Mozingo argues that even as it is proliferating pastoral capitalism needs redesign as do many of our metropolitan forms for pressing social cultural political and environmental reasons Future transformations are impossible however unless we understand the past Pastoral Capitalism offers an indispensable chapter in urban history examining not only the design of corporate landscapes but also the economic social and cultural models that determined their form Rafael Viñoly Rafael Viñoly, 2002-11-21 Rafael Viñoly became famous as the architect of the stunning Tokyo International Forum 1989 1996 In Japan where land is at a premium and public spaces are rare the Forum with its 2.7 hectares and unusual design of public space was widely admired Originating in Uruguay Viñoly heads an architectural office with an impressive list of projects in the areas of

Architecture as the Ethics of Climate Jin Baek,2016-06-10 At a time when climate and ethics have become so important to architectural debate this book proposes an entirely new way for architects to engage with these core issues Drawing on Tetsuro Watsuji s 1889 1960 philosophy the book illuminates climate not as a collection of objective natural phenomena but as a concrete form of bond in which who we are the subjective human experience is indivisibly intertwined with the natural phenomena The book further elucidates the inter personal nature of climatic experiences criticizing a view that sees atmospheric effects of climate under the guise of personal experientialism and reinforcing the linkage between climate and ethos as the appropriateness of a setting for human affairs This ethical premise of climate stretches the horizon of sustainability as pertaining not only to man s solitary relationship with natural phenomena a predominant trend in contemporary discourse of sustainability but also to man s relationship with man Overcoming climatic determinism regional determinism too and expanding the ethics of the inter personal to the level where the whole and particulars are joined through the dialectics of the mutually negating opposites Jin Baek develops a new thesis engaging with the very urgent issues inherent in sustainable architecture Crucially the book explores examples that join climate and the dynamics of the inter personal including Japanese vernacular residential architecture the white residential architecture of Richard Neutra contemporary architectural works and urban artifacts by Tadao Ando and Aldo Rossi Beautifully illustrated this book is an important contribution to the discourse which surrounds architecture climate and ethics and encourages the reader to think more broadly about how to respond to the current challenges facing the profession

Constellations Georges Teyssot,2013-02-22 The threshold as both boundary and bridge investigations of spaces public and private local and global Today spaces no longer represent a bourgeois haven nor are they the sites of a classical harmony between work and leisure private and public the local and the global The house is not merely a home but a position for negotiations with multiple spheres the technological as well as the physical and the psychological In A Topology of Everyday Constellations Georges Teyssot considers the intrusion of the public sphere into private space and the blurring of notions of interior privacy and intimacy in our societies He proposes that we rethink design in terms of a new definition of the practices of everyday life Teyssot considers the door the window the mirror and the screen as thresholds or interstitial spaces that divide the world in two the outside and the inside Thresholds he suggests work both as markers of boundaries and as bridges to the exterior The stark choice between boundary and bridge creates a middle space an in between that holds the possibility of exchanges and encounters If the threshold no longer separates public from private and if we can no longer think of the house as a bastion of privacy Teyssot asks does the body still inhabit the house or does the house evolving into a series of microdevices inhabit the body
