films that often focused on an ideal masculine image and an anarchic manic acting out of the inability to assume this image. Films such as The Bellboy, The Errand Boy, Three on a Couch and The Big Mouth present a series of thematic variations on this tension in which such questions as how to be a man, how to be popular and how to maintain relationships are posed within frameworks that set up a liberating and exhilarating confusion of roles and norms. The Nutty Professor and The Patsy are especially profound and painful examinations of the difficulty experienced by Lewis's character in reconciling loving himself and being loved by others. With sharp concise observations, Chris Fujiwara examines this visionary director of self-referential comedic masterpieces. The book also includes an enlightening interview with Lewis that offers unique commentary on the creation and study of comedy. Book Review Index, 2004. After the Flash Linda Rosenbery, 2020-11-15. This historical narrative reveals the life of Linda, a young woman struggling to come to grips with her rudderless existence, of her stumbling back to her hometown after a failed marriage and having to face the judgments of a stoic Japanese mother. Chieko's life is in stark contrast, having survived the most horrific last days of World War II and having come of age in occupied Japan where she made a living working in a hostess club serving drinks and dancing with servicemen. Linda wants to write her mother's story and Chieko always says no. But then something happens between Chieko and Linda as they begin to bond through Linda's apprenticeship in Chieko's flower garden. On those gardening days after the work is done they sit at the kitchen table where Chieko quite openly weaves for her daughter the threads of her life including her determination to survive. Linda at times feels traumatized by her mother Chieko's descriptions of the war and most of the time Linda ends her kitchen table talks and heads to the local bar to get drunk. One spring day in the fourth year of their kitchen table talks Chieko says to Linda as they sip scotch: If you really must tell my story, tell it like the playwright Eugene O'Neill because he knew sadness. Even though Linda hears it in her mother's voice each time she speaks about her life, the sorrow in her tone routinely breaks Linda down. But Chieko is funny too with stories of coming of age at a time in Japan when most believed romance and life in paradise was a promise made in American films brought in by the occupation. Chieko's hopes and dreams of life in the States with a handsome hero are penned on a photograph of herself that she gives to her American lover as he heads back to the States. It is a simple note that reads: I promise my eternal love. Of all the lovely traits mothers and daughters can have in common, one of theirs isn't so lovely: They both don't keep promises. Dig David Nichols, 2016-10-11. David Nichols tells the story of Australian rock and pop music.

from 1960 to 1985 formative years in which the nation cast off its colonial cultural shackles and took on the world Generously illustrated and scrupulously researched Dig combines scholarly accuracy with populist flair Nichols is an unfailingly witty and engaging guide surveying the fertile and varied landscape of Australian popular music in seven broad historical chapters interspersed with shorter chapters on some of the more significant figures of each period The result is a compelling portrait of a music scene that evolves in dynamic interaction with those in the United States and the UK yet has always retained a strong sense of its own identity and continues to deliver new stars and cult heroes to a worldwide audience Dig is a unique achievement The few general histories to date have been highlight reels heavy on illustration and short on detail And while there have been many excellent books on individual artists scenes and periods and a couple of first rate encyclopedias there s never been a book that told the whole story of the irresistible growth and sweep of a national music culture Until now

The Incurables Mark Brazaitis,2012-08-13 In his latest collection of literary fiction Mark Brazaitis evokes with sympathy insight and humor the lives of characters in a small Ohio town The ten short stories of The Incurables limn the mental landscape of people facing conditions they believe are insolvable from the oppressive horrors of mental illness to the beguiling and baffling complexities of romantic and familial love In the book s opening story The Bridge a new sheriff must confront a suicide epidemic as well as his own deteriorating mental health In Classmates a man sets off to visit the wife of a classmate who has killed himself Is he hoping to write a story about his classmate or to observe the aftermath of what his own suicide attempt if successful would have been like In the title story a down on his luck porn actor returns to his hometown and winds up in the mental health ward of the local hospital where he meets a captivating woman Other stories in the collection include A Map of the Forbidden about a straight laced man who is tempted to cheat on his wife after his adulterous father dies and The Boy behind the Tree about a problematic father son relationship made more so by the arrival on the scene of a young man the son s age In I Return a father narrates a story from the afterlife discovering as he does so that he is not as indispensable to his family as he had believed
