Russia The Banking System During Transition:

Changes in the Russian Banking System Martin P. Kühle, 1997-08-26 Inhaltsangabe Abstract This dissertation analyses the structural changes in the Russian banking system and gives insights into the current market situation Starting with a review of theoretical aspects of banking in Western economies and the rationale for the existence of banks the deficiencies of the former socialist banking system are exposed A large section is dedicated to the special role of the banking system during the process of transition and to an evaluation of how far Russian banks rise to the challenges of these tasks The historical process of reforming the central and commercial banking system is described laying emphasis on the legislative changes and the means of supervision The banking system in Russia has been dominated by rapid growth in the last three years due to high profit expectations However many banks granted credits to dubious industrial companies and now face a large amount of uncollectable assets in their credit portfolios The analysis shows that with rising positive real interest rates and growing competition in the banking market a large number of small and medium sized banks will either have to admit bankruptcy or be acquired by expanding banks The emerging interbank bond and equity markets are illustrated with regard to the influence of banks The deficiencies in settlement processes liquidity trading rules and private and commercial law are examined The next urgently required steps in the reform process are listed The future progress of the Russian banking system however is not only dependent on legal and structural changes in related financial and capital markets but based on the critical assumption of peaceful politically stable and socially balanced developments in Russia transition under Tsarism involved the partial break up of the feudal framework of land ownership and the move toward capitalist relations. The second following the Communist revolution of 1917 brought to power a system of state ownership and administration a sui generis type of war economy state capitalism subjecting the economy's development to central commands. The third started in the early 1990s and still unfolding is aiming at reshaping the inherited economic fabric on the basis of private ownership. The three transitions originated within different settings but with a similar primary goal namely the changing of the economy's ownership pattern in the hopes of providing a better basis for subsequent development. The treatment's originality impartiality and historical breadth have cogent economic social and political relevance. Enterprise

Welfens, Evgeny Gavrilencov, 2012-12-06 Russia has embarked upon a difficult process of systemic transformation and economic opening up While the initial strong GDP decline seemed to have ended in 1997 the real development was facing even more difficult problems as output declined sharply after the Ruble and banking crisis of August 1998 inflation started to increase again exports and imports were falling capital flight increasing and unemployment rising There is broad disappointment in Russia regarding the transformation failure in 1998 since so many people had hoped that the end of the Soviet command economy would bring democracy prosperity and international integration While Poland has been able to double per capita income in the 1990s it has fallen by 50% in Russia and this despite considerable IMF involvement and some modest support from other international organizations What were the reasons for transformation failure in the 1990s What are the ingredients for long term sustainable transformation What are the internal and international requirements to avoid a second possibly tragic failure of transformation in Russia An international group of researchers has focussed on these problems during a two year research project financed by the Alfried Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach Foundation A series of papers were presented at workshops in Potsdam Bonn and Moscow in 1999 where this book is devoted to four important issues the Russian transformation crisis the topic of restructuring the need for stabilizing Russia and the requirements for modernizing Russia Real and Financial Economic Dynamics in Russia and Eastern Europe Timothy Lane, Nina Oding, Paul J.J. Welfens, 2012-12-06 Russia and many other transition countries are now facing the challenges of opening up restructuring and modernizing their economies which requires addressing numerous institutional weaknesses and supply side distortions From a regional perspective drawing on the experience of other reforming countries the papers examine these issues Aspects addressed include the implications of trade and capital flows the process of labor market reform financial market development productivity growth and innovation dynamics The dynamics of the reform process are also studied in the context of new political economy models Corporate Governance in Developing Economies Robert W. McGee, 2008-10-15 Much has been written about the economic and political problems of countries that are in the process of changing from centrally planned systems to market systems Most studies have focused on the economic legal political and sociological problems these economies have had to face during the transition period However not much has been written about the dramatic changes that have to be made to the accounting and financial system of a transition economy This book was written to help fill that gap This book is the sixth in a series to examine accounting and financial system reform in transition and developing economies The first book Accounting and Financial System Reform in a Transition Economy A Case Study of Russia used Russia as a case study The second volume in the series Accounting and Financial System Reform in Eastern Europe and Asia examined some additional aspects of the reform in Russia and also looked at the accounting and financial system reform efforts that are being made in Ukraine Bosnia and Herzegovina Armenia Eastern Europe and Central Asia The third volume Taxation and Public Finance in Transition and Developing Economies examined taxation and public finance in transition and developing economies The fourth volume Accounting Reform in Transition and Developing Economies examines accounting reform in transition and developing economies Credit, Currency or Derivatives Michael G.

Hardt,Robert F. Bennett,2015-04-15 The contributors to this volume analyze the present state of the Russian economy and its future prospects which now seem brighter than at any previous time in the country s history The Russian economy is now showing positive GDP growth and a positive balance of payments portending a trend of sustained growth The record of the Putin presidency with respect to the establishment of market friendly legal and administrative environments is substantially positive On the other side of the ledger the contributors identify the persistence of monopolies in energy transportation and agriculture distortions resulting from corruption infrastructural inadequacies and the maldistribution of political power and decision making authority demographic decline and the erosion of human capital as manifested in the health education and welfare of the population Russia s successful development as a democratic society with a market economy is of great importance to its neighbors and to the global economy and specifically to the United States which is why the U S Congress commissioned these studies by expert analysts This edition includes a comprehensive subject index making the volume user friendly Russia's Uncertain Economic Future John Pearce Hardt,2003 The Russian economy is now showing positive GDP growth and a positive balance of payments portending a trend of sustained growth The contributors to this volume analyze the present state of the Russian economy and its future prospects which now seem brighter than ever Lessons from the Russian Meltdown Enrico C. Perotti,2002 On 17 August 1998 Russia abandoned its exchange rate regime defaulted on its domestic public debt and declared a moratorium on banks foreign liabilities This was equivalent to an outright default The depth and speed of the Russian meltdown shocked the international markets and precipitated a period of serious financial instability There are important lessons to be learned from this episode on issues of bank supervision and international stability Enrico Perotti locates the underlying cause of the crisis in the structure of individual incentives in a context of capture of state decisions by special interests The author concludes with a radical policy proposal for a stable banking system for Russia based on a segmented narrow banking sector concentration on commercial banking and a cautious extension of deposit insurance Regionalization and Globalization in the Modern World Economy Alex E. Fernandez Jilberto, Andre Mommen, 2002-01-22 This collection explores the importance of regionalization and globalization to the world economy particularly questioning whether the world economy is characterized by increasing regionalization rather than globalization International contributors explore the processes in the Pacific area the Americas Africa and Europe and make an important contribution to current debates in development economics
