Thomas, 1999-11-01 This book provides a broad overview of basic multilevel modeling issues and illustrates techniques building analyses around several organizational data sets Although the focus is primarily on educational and organizational settings the examples will help the reader discover other applications for these techniques Two basic classes of multilevel models are developed multilevel regression models and multilevel models for covariance structures are used to develop the rationale behind these models and provide an introduction to the design and analysis of research studies using two multilevel analytic techniques hierarchical linear modeling and structural equation modeling

Fiscal Determinants of Domestic Sovereign Bond Yields in Emerging Market and Developing Economies Manabu Nose, Jeta Menkulasi, 2025-03-28 Domestic sovereign bonds have become a growing source of government financing in Emerging Market and Developing Economies EMDEs This paper investigates the role of fiscal policies in determining domestic bond yields and how this relationship varies depending on the debt structure Specifically the analysis highlights the interaction of fiscal policy with banking sector leverage and foreign investor holdings for government debt A 1 percentage point increase in expected primary deficits results in a persistent increase in 10 year domestic bond yield by around 36 basis points over 2.5 years with larger effects observed during the COVID 19 pandemic This contrasts with external bond spreads which are more sensitive to external and global risk factors The greater the reliance on domestic banks for deficit financing the stronger the impact of loose fiscal policy on domestic bond yields The shift in domestic debt financing towards domestic banks after the pandemic implies that sovereign yields have been increasingly interlinked with domestic banks investment behavior implying potential financial sector risks in major EMDEs

As it applies to the curriculum research and career opportunities data science is a fast growing field Contributors from both academics and industry present their views on these opportunities and how to advantage them Frontiers of Statistical Decision Making and Bayesian Analysis Ming-Hui Chen, Peter Müller, Dongchu Sun, Keying Ye, Dipak K. Dey, 2010-07-24 Research in Bayesian analysis and statistical decision theory is rapidly expanding and diversifying making it increasingly more difficult for any single researcher to stay up to date on all current research frontiers This book provides a review of current research challenges and opportunities While the book can not exhaustively cover all current research areas it does include some exemplary discussion of most research frontiers Topics include objective Bayesian inference shrinkage estimation and other decision based estimation model selection and testing nonparametric Bayes the interface of Bayesian and frequentist inference data mining and machine learning methods for categorical and spatio temporal data analysis and posterior simulation methods Several major application areas are covered computer models Bayesian clinical trial design epidemiology phylogenetics bioinformatics climate modeling and applications in political science finance and marketing As a review of current research in Bayesian analysis the book presents a balance between theory and applications The lack of a clear demarcation between theoretical and applied research is a reflection of the highly interdisciplinary and often applied nature of research in Bayesian statistics The book is intended as an update for researchers in Bayesian statistics including non statisticians who make use of Bayesian inference to address substantive research questions in other fields It would also be useful for graduate students and research scholars in statistics or biostatistics who wish to acquaint themselves with current research frontiers Educational Services Brochure and Schedule of Courses United States. Paloscia, 2023-06-14 This book contains a selection of refereed papers presented at the 6 Specialist Meeting on Microwave Radiometry and Remote Sensing of the Environment held in Florence Italy on March 15 18 1999 Over the last two decades passive microwave remote sensing has made considerable progress and has achieved significant results in the study of the Earth's surface and atmosphere Many years of observations with ground based and satellite borne sensors have made an important contribution to improving our knowledge of many geophysical processes of the Earth's environment and of global changes The evolution in microwave radiometers aboard satellites has increased steadily over recent years At the same time many investigations have been carried out both to improve the algorithms for the retrieval of geophysical parameters and to develop new technologies The book is divided into four main sections three of these are devoted to the observation of the Earth's surface and atmosphere and the fourth to future missions and new technologies The first section deals with the study of sea and land surfaces and reports recent advances in remote sensing of ocean wind sea ice soil moisture and vegetation biomass including electromagnetic modelling and the assimilation of radiometric data in models of land surface processes The following two sections are devoted to the measurement of atmospheric quantities which are of fundamental importance in climatology and meteorology and since they influence radio wave propagation they also impact on several other fields including geodesy navigational satellite and radioastronomy The last section presents an overview of new technologies and plans for future missions

Redox and Nitrosative Signaling in Cardiovascular System: from Physiological Response to Disease Mariarosaria Santillo, Pasquale Pagliaro, 2019-01-22 The role of ROS RNS signaling in cardiovascular functions and diseases is increasingly emerging in the last decades The involvement of ROS RNS in the control of a large number of cardiovascular functions like the regulation of the vascular tone the control of blood pressure or myocyte excitation contraction coupling and force development has been broadly investigated and in part clarified On the other hand many efforts have been focused in clarifying the redox mechanisms involved in cardiovascular diseases like ischemia reperfusion injury diabetes associated cardiovascular dysfunctions atherosclerosis or hypertension just to mention the major ones However in most cases the two levels of investigation remain separate and not interlaced failing in the attempt to provide a unified vision of the pathophysiologic mechanisms of cardiovascular diseases The major aim of the Research Topic has been to collect original papers and review articles dealing with the issue from basic to translation research point of views The topic includes contributions that highlight different interesting aspects of cardiovascular biology with an integrated approach useful for the development of new ideas and advancements in the field of redox signaling in the control of normal cardiovascular functions and their disruption in diseases
