Mountain Born Mountain Molded:

Mountain Born Mountain Molded Second Edition Larry Morgan, 2016-12-31 Mountain Born Mountain Molded is a tongue in cheek record of Larry Morgan's life in the Nantahala region of western North Carolina during the period of 1945-1955. Larry Morgan's parents raised nine children. In this book, Morgan depicts his family life with love, nostalgia, and humor. Mountain Born Mountain Molded describes how people in the western North Carolina Mountains made their living, their clothes, houses, and household furnishings, as well as their education and medical care. It also tells us about their religious beliefs and practices and how they celebrated holidays. A little boy who didn't know he was poor and who, without the benefit of expensive toys, found hours of entertainment in the mountains tells the story. Mountain Born, Mountain Molded Larry G. Morgan, 2002. The author describes his growing up in the Nantahala region of western North Carolina. He describes social conditions such as housing, education, and religion of the mountain folk.

The Social Construction of Educational Leadership Anna Hicks McFadden, Penny Smith, 2004. Most historical and theoretical work on school administration choice has focused on the importance of race and class, with increased attention to gender during the past two decades. Rarely has geography been a consideration, and when it appears at all, it is used only to distinguish the unique conditions of urban school settings. The Social Construction of Educational Leadership: Southern Appalachian Ceilings addresses decisions about who is chosen to lead public schools and how they do it. Using their research on senior level public school leaders in the southern mountains of North Carolina as a representative case study, the authors construct an argument for a reconsideration of the role of place both in decisions about who becomes a school leader and in how those leaders behave professionally. The authors describe the changes in a leadership system grounded in race, class, geographic, and gender preferences that dating back to colonial systems of deference, describing the pattern of those changes and exploring their implications for school leadership and the preparation of prospective leaders in the region and elsewhere.

Fishing for Chickens Jim Casada, 2022-07-15. Fishing for Chickens is a well-seasoned blend of memoir and cookbook. It offers the perspective of a Bryson City, North Carolina native on a particular portion of southern Appalachia: the Smokies. Casada serves up a detailed description of the folkways of food as they existed in the Smokies over a span of three generations, beginning early in the twentieth century. Fancy, dancy food magazines and self-ordained cuisine cognoscenti regularly rave about gustatory delights reflecting the Appalachian cooking tradition. Yet they focus on restaurants in regional cities such as Asheville and Nashville, Chattanooga, and Cleveland, or even the bustling metropolis of Atlanta. Simply put, they are missing the boat. At least in Casada's eyes. Peppered with ample anecdotes, personal memories, and experiences, the wisdom of wonderful cooks and recipes reflective of the overall high country culinary experience, Casada's book brings these culinary tales to life. Fishing for Chickens includes dishes that Casada has cooked and eaten, recipes handed down through family or close friends, food memories of an intensely personal nature, and an abiding love for a fast-fading way of life. In addition to twenty-four chapters, focusing on such diverse topics as Yard Bird Nuts and New Year's Fare the author includes nearly two hundred family recipes With his story Casada guides readers through a fast vanishing culinary world that merits not only recollection but preservation Selections from the Editorial Essays of Lemuel Stoughton Potwin Lemuel Stoughton Potwin,1907
