Second Language Vocabulary Acquisition James Coady, Thomas N. Huckin, 1997 Educating for Advanced Foreign Language Capacities Heidi Byrnes, Heather D. Weger, Katherine A. Sprang, 2006-10-06 Advanced language learning has only recently begun to capture the interest and attention of applied linguists and professionals in language education in the United States In this breakthrough volume experts in the field lay the groundwork for approaching the increasingly important role of advanced language learning in the larger context of multilingual societies globalization and security This volume presents both general and theoretical insights and language specific considerations in college classrooms spanning a range of languages from the commonly taught languages of English French and German to the less commonly taught Farsi Korean Norwegian and Russian Among theoretical frameworks likely to be conducive to imagining and fostering instructed advancedness in a second language this volume highlights a cognitive semantic approach The theoretical and data based findings make clear that advanced learners in particular are characterized by the capacity to make situated choices from across the entire language system from vocabulary and grammar to discourse features which suggests the need for a text oriented meaning driven approach to language teaching learning and research This volume also considers whether and how information structuring in second language composition reveals first language preferences of grammaticized concepts Other topics include curricular and instructional approaches to narrativity vocabulary expansion the demands on instructed programs for efficiency and effectiveness in order to assure advanced levels and learners ability to function in professional contexts with their diverse oral and written genre requirements Finally the volume probes the role and nature of assessment as a measurement tool for both researching and assessing advanced language learning and as an essential component of improving programs

Evaluating Second Language Vocabulary and Grammar Instruction Frank Boers, 2021-03-14 Providing a much needed critical synthesis of research on teaching vocabulary and grammar to students of a second or foreign language this book puts the research into perspective in order to distil recommendations for language teaching Boers evaluates a comprehensive range of both well established and lesser known research strands and classroom practices to draw out the most effective instructional approaches to teaching words multiword expressions and grammar patterns Chapters discuss learning as a by product of communicative activities language focused instruction diverse types of exercises mnemonic techniques and more with a view to building bridges between the available research on such instructional approaches and how they are commonly implemented in actual language courses and textbooks This book helps teachers make research informed decisions regarding their instructional approaches to words phrases and patterns and direct researchers to specific areas in need of further inquiry Boers not only demonstrates how research findings can inform effective teaching but also calls for a deeper appreciation on the part of researchers of the realities of the teaching profession making this a worthwhile text for preservice teachers teacher educators graduate students and scholars
