Department of State Wireless Bulletin U.S. Dept. of State,1947 The Decision to Employ Nuclear Weapons at Hiroshima and Nagasaki Joe

Majerus,2013-05-23 Throughout human history there may hardly be found any other single decision that still causes such high amounts of scholarly debate as does the dropping of Atomic Bombs upon the Japanese city of Hiroshima in August 6th 1945 and respectively three days later upon the city of Nagasaki These events have caused close to 100 000 casualties in the civilian population and yet it does not include all of those persons who would later succumb to radiation sickness or severe birth deformations Historians still debate the alleged plurality of motives underlying this momentous decision The debate s result is a polarized scholarly discord which by now virtually abounds in a multitude of different theories and competing suppositions On the one hand there are those scholars who argue that the decision rested solely on grounds of military expediency foremost on the necessity to shorten a gruelling war and to save the lives of American soldiers On the other hand historians offer the explanation that American policy makers above all wanted to exhibit their country s enormous military potency and therefore Hiroshima and Nagasaki should demonstrate the vast destructive potential which presently solely the United States had at its command and so counter post war ambitions of the Soviet Union The author of this study analyses the contextual circumstances in the spring and summer of 1945 and moreover the principal motives of the key American government officials Accordingly the author offers his own substantive and conclusive answer to the question that concerns the primary factors and or ostensibly ulterior motives that led American decision makers to issue the consequential order to detonate Atomic Bombs over Hiroshima and Nagasaki First and foremost the findings rest upon a critical and comprehensive engagement and are based on the available documentary evidence from this time Madam Secretary Thomas

Grunden, 2005 Grunden's analysis of this fundamental flaw in the Japanese war effort seamlessly weaves together science technology and military history to provide an entirely unique look at a crucial but understudied aspect of World War II Comparing the science and weapons programs of all the major combatants he demonstrates that Japan's failure was nearly inevitable given its paucity of strategic resources an inadequate industrial base the absence of effective centralized management to coordinate research military hostility toward civilian scientists and bitter interservice rivalries In the end Japan could not overcome these obstacles and thus failed to make the transition to the kind of Big Science it needed to ward off its enemies and dominate the Far East BOOK JACKET
