Realism Modern Literatures In Perspective:

Concepts of Realism Luc Herman, 1996 Examination of the critical discourse on the literary movement of realism Concepts of Realism surveys the central episodes in the development of the discourse surrounding realism from its inception with substantial reference to developments in the United States It concentrates on modernism and the avant garde as hostile to the realist movement but more positive critics of the concept such as Erich Auerbach and Joseph Stern also receive ample treatment

Realism Lilian R. Furst, 1992 Realism is one of the most common terms in the critical vocabulary yet has been described as a monster with many heads desperately in need of disentangling Professor Furst's collection is ideally placed to help the student understand its complexities and the range of responses it has evoked She begins with the reflections of such classic realist writers as Balzac and Henry James which provide a context for a series of major twentieth century readings After this overture the curtain is raised with contributions from humanist Marxist structuralist rhetorical reader oriented psychoanalytic deconstructionist and feminist criticism including excerpts from an international range of critics such as George Lukacs Roland Barthes David Lodge and J Hillis Miller A substantial Introduction Headnotes and a Glossary of Terms provide a wider context for the essays and explain terms that may be unfamiliar to the student A selective annotated Bibliography provides a guide to further reading Back cover

Literature and the Touch of the Real David Schalkwyk, 2004 It uses the Wittgensteinian notions of samples and criteria to show that language is involved in the appropriation of aspects of the world through the historically contingent activities of linguistic practice and it uses Wittgenstein's analysis of aspect perception to forge a new account of the ideological role of the literary and its relation to the real Jacket

Critical Perspectives on Literature and Culture in the New World Order Washima Che Dan, Jason Sanjeev Ganesan, Noritah Omar, 2012-11-15 The fifteen chapters in this volume explore both new and tested theoretical perspectives on literature and culture at large this multiplicity of discourses is a reflection of the implicit discontent in conforming to the New World Order and a contestation against hierarchical relationships between countries which inform the social cultural and political climates of weaker nations With the political and economic hegemony of stronger nations weaker nations run the risk of being dominated or at the very least having their own national identity and sovereignty steeped in ambivalence in the face of a globalised culture This volume hopes to bring together critical views in relation to the construction of cultural studies in the Western framework the application of literary theory in the readings of vernacular literature contestation of the mainstream scientific methodology of cultural evaluation the role of English literature in Asian cultures the application of postcolonial theory in literature literary ethics in relation to

Islamic literature as well as the Islamic and Western conceptions of democracy More than half of the articles in this collection centre on Islam as a guiding principle or as a context through which critical perspectives are made on literature and culture in today's globalised world order This inadvertent foregrounding of Islam reflects a continuing dialogue on and with Islam and its significant impact on existing academic discourses founded upon Western style scholarship

Contemporary Perspectives on Architectural Organicism Gary Huafan He, Skender Luarasi, 2023-06-07 This project is born out of similar questions and discussions on the topic of organicism emergent from two critical strands regarding the discourse of organic self generation one dealing with the problem of stopping in the design processes in history and the other with the organic legacy of style in the nineteenth century as a preeminent form of aesthetic ideology The epistemologies of self generation outlined by enlightenment and critical philosophy provided the model for the discursive formations of modern urban planning and architecture The form of the organism was thought to calibrate modernism's infinite extension The architectural organicism of today does not take on the language of the biological sciences as they did in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries but rather the image of complex systems be they computational informational geo ecological or even ontological aesthetic networks What is retained from the modernity of yesterday is the ideology of endless self generation Revisiting such a topic feels relevant now in a time when the idea of endless generation is rendered more suspect than ever amid an ever increasing speed and complexity of artificial intelligence AI networks The essays collected in this book offer a variety of critiques of the modernist idea of endless growth in the fields of architecture literature philosophy and the history of science They range in scope from theoretical and speculative to analytic and critical and from studies of the history of modernity to reflections of our contemporary world Far from advocating a return to the romantic forms of nineteenth century naturphilosophie this project focuses on probing organicism for new forms of critique and emergent subjectivities in a contemporary post pandemic constellation of neo naturalism in design climate change complex systems and information networks This book will be of interest to a broad range of researchers and professionals in architecture and art history historians of science visual artists and scholars in the humanities more generally

Theoretical Perspectives on Human Rights and Literature Elizabeth Swanson Goldberg, Alexandra Schultheis Moore, 2013-03-01 What can literary theory reveal about discourses and practices of human rights and how can human rights frameworks help to make sense of literature How have human rights concerns shaped the literary marketplace and how can literature impact human rights concerns Essays in this volume theorize how both literature and reading literarily can shape understanding of human rights in productive ways Contributors to Theoretical Perspectives
