Salmon Protection And The B C Coastal Forest Industry:

Salmon Protection and the B.C. Coastal Forest Industry Anthony H. J. Dorsey, Michael W. McPhee, Sam Sydneysmith, Economic Council of Canada, Westwater Research Centre, 1980 The Coastal Zone Kenneth Ruddell, William B. Morgan, James R. Pfafflin, 1988 Regulatory Reform in Canada W. T. Stanbury, Fred Thompson, Institute for Research on Public Policy, 1982 From the Introduction This study examines the nature of and prospects for regulatory reform in Canada In particular we are concerned with the elimination of liberalization of direct regulation in such industries as telecommunications airlines trucking and agriculture In focusing our attention on the prospects for reforming direct regulation in Canada we do not wish to slight the potential value of reforming the regulatory process But most procedural reforms focus on the margin or flow of new regulation while deregulation proper is aimed at reducing the enormous stock already in existence Within the field of direct regulation we have further narrowed our analysis to the role of the federal government as regulator Land and its Uses — Actual and Potential F. T. Last, M. C. B. Hotz, B. G. Bell, 2013-03-08 During its existence the Ecosciences Panel of the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation was constantly concerned with i the communication gap between the generators of ecological environmental information and those who use it and ii the narrow interpretation of environmental which too frequently was taken as being synonymous with pollution Because of this concern and because the panel recognised that land use is perhaps the overriding facet of environmental policy it was decided to arrange the Seminar recorded in this volume Land and its Uses Actual and Potential An Environmental Appraisal The development of this Seminar was chaired by Professor F T Last who was enthusiastically supported by B G Bell U K Drs S Bie Norway O W Heal U K R Herrmann Federal Republic of Germany M C B Hotz formerly of NATO Belgium but now in Canada L Munn Canada and N Yassoglou Greece Together they decided that the participants should include i planners decision makers and ii scientists generating ecological environmental information in the hope that they would gain a better understanding of each others problems and attitudes and as a result identify how information can be prepared in a more usable form

Assessment of Stream Protection Practices in the Interior of the Prince Rupert Forest Region David R. Bustard, 1986 The analysis presented in this report provides a preliminary review of the measures presently incorporated into forestry operations for stream protection in the interior sections of the Prince Rupert Forest Region of British Columbia It also attempts to evaluate the effectiveness of these measures and to identify their weaknesses The analysis is based on interviews field examinations undertaken in summer fall 1985 Introductory sections describe the research methods used summarize the historical development of stream protection measures in the province and reviews studies on the effects of forest harvesting on British Columbia interior streams Section 5 summarizes in two parts the results of the interviews field inspections The first part discusses those measures taken in the immediate streamside zone especially techniques for timber removal at the forest stream interface The second part discusses upslope measures such as road construction maintenance silvicultural prescriptions and rate of cut considerations that influence stream systems The final sections synthesize overall conclusions and make recommendations for further research Global Environmental Forest Policies Constance McDermott, Benjamin Cashore, Peter Kanowski, 2010-08-12 Market globalization and the globalization of environmental concerns have spurred demand for greater international accountability for forest stewardship In response a range of multi lateral governmental and non governmental initiatives have emerged to redefine the rules of global trade and demand verification of the legality and or sustainability of forest products originating from within and outside national boundaries At the same time there is a lack of transparency and shared understanding about the environmental forest policies that already exist within the world s leading forest producing and consuming countries The result is that many stakeholders have developed perceptions about a country s regulatory environment that are not consistent with what is actually taking place This book provides a uniquely detailed and systematic comparison of environmental forest policies and enforcement in twenty countries worldwide covering developed transition and developing economies The goal is to enhance global policy learning and promote well informed and precisely tuned policy solutions Impacts of Forestry Practices on a Coastal Stream Ecosystem, Carnation Creek, British Columbia G.
