Rebekah's Diary:

Rebekah's Diary Rebekah Pearl, 1997 The Science of Character S. Pearl Brilmyer, 2022-01-11 The Science of Character makes a bold new claim for the power of the literary by showing how Victorian novelists used fiction to theorize how character forms In 1843 the Victorian philosopher John Stuart Mill called for the establishment of a new science the science of the formation of character Although Mill's proposal failed as scientific practice S Pearl Brilmyer maintains that it found its true home in realist fiction of the period which employed the literary figure of character to investigate the nature of embodied experience Bringing to life Mill's unrealized dream of a science of character novelists such as George Eliot Thomas Hardy and Olive Schreiner turned to narrative to explore how traits and behaviors in organisms emerge and develop and how aesthetic features shapes colors and gestures come to take on cultural meaning through certain categories such as race and sex Engaged with materialist science and philosophy these authors transformed character from the liberal notion of the inner truth of an individual into a materially determined figuration produced through shifts in the boundaries between the body's inside and outside In their hands Brilmyer argues literature became a science not in the sense that its claims were falsifiable or even systematically articulated but in its commitment to uncovering through a fictional staging of realistic events the laws governing physical and affective life The Science of Character redraws late Victorian literary history to show how women and feminist novelists pushed realism to its aesthetic and philosophical limits in the crucial span between 1870 and 1920

Olive Schreiner and African Modernism Jade Munslow Ong, 2017-10-20 This book works across established categories of modernism and postcolonialism in order to radically revise the periods, places and topics traditionally associated with anti-colonialism and aesthetic experimentation in African literature. The book is the first account of Olive Schreiner as a theorist and practitioner of modernist form, advancing towards an emergent postcolonialism. The book draws on and broadens discussions in and around the blossoming field of global modernist studies by interrogating the conventionally accepted genealogy of development that positions Europe and America as the sites of innovation. It provides an original examination of the relationships between metaphor, postcolonialism and modernist experimentation by showing how politically and aesthetically innovative African forms rely on allegorical structures in contrast to the symbolism dominant in Euro-American modernism. An original theoretical concept of the role of primitivism and allegory within the context of modernism and associated critical theory is proposed through the integration of postcolonial Marxist and ecocritical approaches to literature. The book provides original readings of Schreiner's three novels: Undine, The Story of An African Farm and From Man to Man in light of the new theory of primitivism in African literature by directly addressing the issue of narrative form. This argument is contextualised in relation to the work of other Southern African authors in whose writings the impact of Schreiner's politics and aesthetics can be traced. These authors include J. M. Coetzee, Nadine Gordimer, Doris Lessing, Solomon T. Plaatje and Zoe Wicomb, amongst others. This book brings the most current debates in modernist studies, ecocriticism and primitivism into the field of postcolonial studies and contributes to a widening of the debates surrounding gender, race, empire and modernism. Narrative, 1996 Rebekah's Diary of Awesomeness 2020 Awesome Diary Publishing Company, 2019-12-18
