New Developments in Competition Law and Economics Klaus Mathis, Avishalom Tor, 2019-03-18 This book further develops both the traditional and the behavioural approach to competition law and applies these approaches to a variety of timely issues It discusses several fundamental questions regarding competition law and economics and explores the applications of competition law and economics In turn the book analyses the interplay of intellectual property rights and patents in various aspects of competition law and investigates the impacts that developments in information technology such as big data analytics have on competition law The book also discusses the impact of energy law reforms on energy markets from a competition law perspective Competition law is a classic field of economic analysis This is largely due to the fact that competition law uses terms such as market price and competition and must therefore rely on economic know how and analyses In the United States economic analysis has greatly influenced not just the scholarship on antitrust law but also judicial decisions and agency enforcement Antitrust law and economics are based on the traditional paradigm of neoclassical economics which relies on the assumption that the market players i e consumers and producers are rational This approach to competition law was later received in Europe under the banner of a more economic approach For the past two decades behavioural law and economics which seeks to generate better insights into legal phenomena by providing more realistic psychological foundations for economic models and to offer a multitude of applications in legislation and legal adjudication has challenged the traditional economic approach to law in general and more recently to competition law specifically

Orsam Rapor Sayı:40 / International Trade Performances and Exchange Rate Policies of the MENA Countries Savaş Kaptan, 2022-12-22 Besides too many political problems in the MENA region many economic issues affect the region's stability remarkably The trade deficit problem is one of these economic issues When we exclude petroleum exports almost all the countries in the region have a deficit in other words they import more than their exports and they commonly struggle to find foreign funds to finance this deficit Because many countries in the region have big political crises and domestic wars like those in Syria Yemen Palestine etc which substantially affect almost all the economies in the region Besides these politically unstable countries there are others with chronic economic and financial problems which create region wide economic instabilities These political and economic instabilities directly reduce the credibility and damage the financial soundness of the MENA economies Consequently this economic and political structure diminishes foreign investments and capital inflows which makes financing the trade deficit highly difficult This deficit financing problem frequently creates currency shocks which cause substantial damage to these economies by causing a balance of payments crisis When the current account balance reaches a high level the need for foreign currency rises and the exchange rate goes up which directly increases the debt paying ability of companies and the government This in turn deteriorates the expectations of foreign investors about the country and companies are unable to find enough foreign currency to pay import bills which results in a balance of payment crisis Of the region's economies Lebanon recently faced the same type of crisis The country reached a record level of current account deficit which is 25 percent of its gross domestic product GDP The balance of payment crisis occurred and the country faced a sovereign default in March 2020 Furthermore sudden shocks in the exchange rate deriving from uncontrollable trade deficits considerably damage the pricing behavior of firms and households and cause a chronic inflation problem that is highly common in the region. Especially the regional economies having an import dependent structure struggle to stabilize inflation since the prices directly go up as the domestic currency loses substantial value with the sudden shocks in the currency markets. As these shocks happen frequently the price increases become permanent and a chronic inflation problem occurs. Türkiye's economy is currently facing this problem as a result of its current account deficit problem ongoing for decades. Besides these problems if the region's economies do not control international trade they will face structural economic problems in the future. A negative trade balance means higher demand for foreign goods and services relative to domestic goods and services. Therefore the domestic industry lost revenue and the production declined as the demand went to foreign production. This causes permanent damage to the domestic industry and lowers the long run economic growth of the country. There are studies in the literature proving this relationship between exports and economic growth. To overcome these economic and financial problems reducing the trade deficit is important. In the literature on this topic many studies reveal that an overvalued domestic currency raises the trade deficit and an undervalued currency lowers it. In parallel to this literature we analyzed a sample of regional economies in terms of their trade balances and exchange rates and found that their trade balances improve as their currencies lose value against the reserve currency the USD. In this report we made a historical and technical analysis showing the relationship between trade balances and exchange rates of the region's economies. We used graphical analysis to examine the movements in exchange rates and trade balances to find out how much their currencies affect their trade balances. Based upon the literature and our analysis we undoubtedly suggested that the region's countries should implement controlled exchange rate devaluation policies to limit imports of foreign goods and services and increase exports to reduce trade deficits, avoid sudden shocks in the currency and support the domestic industry. In addition to the exchange rate policy suggestion we also proposed critical fiscal policy actions supporting the domestic industry and helping the region's economies narrow their trade deficits. In the report we first examine the region's trade deficit problem which includes almost all of the countries of the region. Both recent and historical developments are considered. After that we make a detailed technical analysis covering a selected sample of MENA countries consisting of Algeria, Saudi Arabia, Egypt, Lebanon, Türkiye and Morocco. The reason for selecting these countries is data availability which is a big problem for the region's economies. Some of the MENA countries do not have enough exchange rate statistics to make a comprehensive analysis.

The Economics of Exchange Rates Lucio

Sarno, Mark P. Taylor, 2003-01-09 In the last few decades exchange rate economics has seen a number of developments with substantial contributions to both the theory and empirics of exchange rate determination Important developments in econometrics and the increasingly large availability of high quality data have also been responsible for stimulating the large amount of empirical work on exchange rates in this period Nonetheless while our understanding of exchange rates has significantly improved a number of challenges and open questions remain in the exchange rate debate enhanced by events including the launch of the Euro and the large number of recent currency crises This volume provides a selective coverage of the literature on exchange rates focusing on developments from within the last fifteen years Clear explanations of theories are offered alongside an appraisal of the literature and suggestions for further research and analysis
