Recent Advances in Indo-Pacific Prehistory Misra,Bellwood,2023-07-17 Prehistory of the Indo-Malaysian Archipelago Peter Bellwood,2007-03-01 Since its publication in 1985 Peter Bellwood s Prehistory of the Indo Malaysian Archipelago has been hailed as the sole authoritative work on the subject by the leading expert in the field Now that work has been fully revised and includes a complete up to date summary of the archaeology of the region and relevant neighboring areas of China and Oceania as well as a comprehensive discussion of new and important issues such as the Eve Garden of Eden hypothesis and its relevance to the Indo Malaysian region and recent advances in macrofamily linguistic classification Moving north to south from northern Peninsular Malaysia to Timor and west to east from Sumatra to the Moluccas Bellwood describes human prehistory from initial hominid settlement more than one million years ago to the eve of historical Hindu Buddhist and Islamic cultures of the region The archaeological record provides the central focus but chapters also incorporate essential information from the paleoenvironmental sciences biological anthropology linguistics and social anthropology Bellwood approaches questions about past cultural and biological developments in the region from a multidisciplinary perspective Historical issues given extended treatment include the significance of the Homo erectus populations of Java the dispersal of the present Austronesian speaking peoples of the region within the past 4 000 years and the spread of metallurgy since 500 B C Bellwood also discusses relationships between the prehistoric populations of the archipelago and those of neighboring regions such as Australia New Guinea and mainland Asia New Perspectives in Southeast Asian and Pacific Prehistory Philip J. Piper,Hirofumi Matsumura,David Bulbeck,2017-03-24 This volume brings together a diversity of international scholars unified in the theme of expanding scientific knowledge about humanity s past in the Asia Pacific region The contents in total encompass a deep time range concerning the origins and dispersals of anatomically modern humans the lifestyles of Pleistocene and early Holocene Palaeolithic hunter gatherers the emergence of Neolithic farming communities and the development of Iron Age societies These core enduring issues continue to be explored throughout the vast region covered here accordingly with a richness of results as shown by the authors Befitting of the grand scope of this volume the individual contributions articulate perspectives from multiple study areas and lines of evidence Many of the chapters showcase new primary field data from archaeological sites in Southeast Asia Equally important other chapters provide updated regional summaries of research in archaeology linguistics and human biology from East Asia through to the Western Pacific Mike T Carson Associate Professor of Archaeology Micronesian Area Research Center University of Guam The Cambridge History of Southeast Asia: From early times to c. 1800 Nicholas Tarling,1992 The Cambridge History of Southeast Asia is a multi authored treatment of the whole of mainland and island Southeast Asia from Burma to Indonesia Unlike other histories of the region it is not divided on a country by country basis and is not structured purely chronologically but rather takes a thematic and regional approach to Southeast Asia s history aiming to present the current state of historical research on Southeast Asia as well as stimulating further thought and investigation

Publisher description A Comprehensive History of India, 2025-10-27 The prehistoric phase forms the longest period in human history covering a few millennia whereas the knowledge of writing which could be used for the reconstruction of history was acquired by man only five thousand years ago The development of human culture can be properly understood only by studying the prehistoric past The antiquity of man now goes back to 3.6 million years and since then man has been progressing in the face of all odds Man the hunted became man the hunter later acquired the technique of food production which further led to sedentary existence fashioned artefacts to cope with environment learnt the use of metals and established trading contacts finally leading to urbanization In India the first Stone Age tools were discovered in Tamil Nadu which have recently been dated to 1.5 million years but could not be included in the present volume as it was too late The proper study of prehistory received a boost in the post Independence period Hundreds of pre historic sites have since been discovered almost all over the country even in the north east which was archaeologically a terra incognita till now Systematic excavations have been carried out and the data scientifically analysed stages of evolution of culture from food gathering to food producing have been traced and the further development into the glorious Indus Harappan civilization has also been critically reviewed The volume includes contributions from acknowledged experts in the field Greater emphasis has been laid on scientific evidence which brings out the role of environment in the evolution of cultures The study ends with the advent of Aryans which is one of the knottiest of issues in human history

01I Encyclopedia the major tradition entry Rethinking Agriculture Timothy P Denham, José Iriarte, Luc Vrydaghs, 2016-07-01 Although the need to study agriculture in different parts of the world on its own terms has long been recognized and reaffirmed a tendency persists to evaluate agriculture across the globe using concepts lines of evidence and methods derived from Eurasian research However researchers working in different regions are becoming increasingly aware of fundamental differences in the nature of and methods employed to study agriculture and plant exploitation practices in the past Contributions to this volume rethink agriculture whether in terms of existing regional chronologies in terms of techniques employed or in terms of the concepts that frame our interpretations This volume highlights new archaeological and ethnoarchaeological research on early agriculture in understudied non Eurasian regions including Island Southeast Asia and the Pacific the Americas and Africa to present a more balanced view of the origins and development of agricultural practices around the globe The Peopling of East Asia Roger Blench,Laurent Sagart,Alicia Sanchez-Mazas,2005-03-20 Recent findings in the fields of East Asian archaeology linguistics and genetics are collected together here making this an ideal reference tool for scholars in all disciplines working on the reconstruction of the East Asian past Routledge Handbook of Agricultural Biodiversity Danny Hunter,Luigi Guarino,Charles Spillane,Peter C. McKeown,2017-10-03 The world relies on very few crop and animal species for agriculture and to supply its food needs In recent decades there has been increased appreciation of the risk this implies for food security and quality especially in times of environmental change As a result agricultural biodiversity has moved to the top of research and policy agendas This Handbook presents a comprehensive overview of our current knowledge of agricultural biodiversity in a series of specially commissioned chapters It draws on multiple disciplines including plant and animal genetics ecology crop and animal science food studies and nutrition as well as social science subjects which explore the socio economic cultural institutional legal and policy aspects of agricultural biodiversity It focuses not only on the core requirements to deliver a sustainable agriculture and food supply but also highlights the additional ecosystem services provided by a diverse and resilient agricultural landscape and farming practices The book provides an indispensable reference textbook for a wide range of courses in agriculture ecology biodiversity conservation and environmental studies Archaeology Barry W. Cunliffe,Wendy Davies,Colin Renfrew,2002 Twenty six leading scholars from around the world have come together to celebrate the strengths the energies and the sheer intellectual excitement of their discipline They unashamedly proclaim that over the last hundred years archaeology has transformed itself from a genteel antiquarianpursuit deeply rooted in the classical tradition to a rigorous and demanding discipline spanning the humanities and the sciences yet at the same time one widely accessible to the public at large The contributors show how our understanding of the past has changed reveal the exciting ideas under current debate and offer their visions of the future The result is a remarkable overview of world archaeology focusing on new and unexpected themes at the cutting edge of the discipline The Emergence of Agriculture Peter White,Timothy Denham,2020-10-25 This volume the first in the One World Archaeology series is a compendium of key papers by leaders in the field of the emergence of agriculture in different parts of the world Each is supplemented by a review of developments in the field since its publication Contributions cover the better known regions of early and independent agricultural development such as Southwest Asia and the Americas as well as lesser known locales such as Africa and New Guinea Other contributions examine the dispersal of agricultural practices into a region such as India and Japan and how introduced crops became incorporated into pre existing forms of food production This reader is intended for students of the archaeology of agriculture and will also prove a valuable and handy resource for scholars and researchers in the area

Tropical Forests in Prehistory, History, and Modernity Patrick Roberts,2019-01-03 In popular discourse tropical forests are synonymous with nature and wilderness battlegrounds between apparently pristine floral faunal and human communities and the unrelenting industrial and urban powers of the modern world It is rarely publicly understood that the extent of human adaptation to and alteration of tropical forest environments extends across archaeological historical and anthropological timescales This book is the first attempt to bring together evidence for the nature of human interactions with tropical forests on a global scale from the emergence of hominins in the tropical forests of Africa to modern conservation issues Following a review of the natural history and variability of tropical forest ecosystems this book takes a tour of human and human ancestor occupation and use of tropical forest environments through time Far from being pristine primordial ecosystems this book illustrates how our species has inhabited and modified tropical forests from the earliest stages of its evolution While agricultural strategies and vast urban networks emerged in tropical forests long prior to the arrival of European colonial powers and later industrialization this should not be taken as justification for the massive deforestation and biodiversity threats imposed on tropical forest ecosystems in the 21st century Rather such a long term perspective highlights the ongoing challenges of sustainability faced by forager agricultural and urban societies in these environments setting the stage for more integrated approaches to conservation and policy making and the protection of millennia of ecological and cultural heritage bound up in these habitats

Ancient Southeast Asia John Norman Miksic,Goh Geok Yian,2016-10-14 Ancient Southeast Asia provides readers with a much needed synthesis of the latest discoveries and research in the archaeology of the region presenting the evolution of complex societies in Southeast Asia from the protohistoric period beginning around 500BC to the arrival of British and Dutch colonists in 1600 Well illustrated throughout this comprehensive account explores the factors which established Southeast Asia as an area of unique cultural fusion Miksic and Goh explore how the local population exploited the abundant resources available developing maritime transport routes which resulted in economic and cultural wealth including some of the most elaborate art styles and monumental complexes ever constructed The book s broad geographical and temporal coverage including a chapter on the natural environment provides readers with the context needed to understand this staggeringly diverse region It utilizes French Dutch Chinese Malay Indonesian and Burmese sources and synthesizes interdisciplinary theoretical perspectives and data from archaeology history and art history Offering key opportunities for comparative research with other centres of early socio economic complexity Ancient Southeast Asia establishes the area s importance in world history

Pre- and Protohistoric Andhra Pradesh Up to 500 B.C. M. L. K. Murty,2003 This volume traces archaeological research undertaken in Andhra Pradesh going back to the nineteenth century when the cultures of the region were explored and documented In the 1950s scholars conducted culture historic research across the physiographical regions of Andhra Pradesh following trends in India and Old World 1970s saw a shift from the historic approach to the development of models for the contextual study of sites and the explanation of the archaeological record in terms of the adaptive behaviour of past societies

Sharma, 2010-05-27 During the last nine millennia or so man has improved the rice plant increased its productivity and has found various uses of its parts The story of rice differs from region to region and has been different in different periods of time There was a time when tax was collected in the form of rice in Japan the Southeast Asian kingdoms created hyd The Origins And Spread Of Agriculture And Pastoralism In Eurasia David R. Harris, 2024-11-01 As the first book to examine the origins and spread of agriculture and pastoralism in Europe and Asia as a whole this major contribution should be essential reading for archaeologists anthropologists biologists and geographers Adopting a novel approach to the subject the authors examine it first in terms of seven different disciplinary perspectives social ecological genetic linguistic biomolecular epidemiological and geographical Then 20 case studies are presented which are based primarily on archaeological and biological evidence and which relate to three major regions Southwest Asia Europe and Central Asia to the Pacific The book concludes with an overview of Eurasia as a whole The transition from hunting and gathering to agriculture had revolutionary consequences for human society It led to the emergence of urban civilizations and ultimately to humanity's almost complete dependence on relatively few domesticated animals and plants The subject has been much studied but the results have tended to be interpreted largely in terms of local cultural sequences with insufficient comparison made with evidence from other areas In contrast this book provides a continental scale framework with its scope extended to pastoralism because in Eurasia both the raising of livestock and the cultivation of crops were integral components of the agricultural revolution from its inception some 10 000 years ago Comprehensive and authoritative The Origins and Spread of Agriculture and Pastoralism in Eurasia should appeal strongly to the wide readership of students and specialists concerned with the prehistoric antecedents of modern civilization Ten Thousand Years of Cultivation at Kuk Swamp in the Highlands of Papua New Guinea

Jack Golson, Tim Denham, Philip Hughes, Pamela Swadling, John Muke, 2017-07-07 Kuk is a settlement at c 1600 m altitude in the upper Wahgi Valley of the Western Highlands Province of Papua New Guinea near Mount Hagen the provincial capital. The site forms part of the highland spine that runs for more than 2500 km from the western head of the island of New Guinea to the end of its eastern tail. Until the early 1930s when the region was first explored by European outsiders it was thought to be a single uninhabited mountain chain. Instead it was found to be a complex area of valleys and basins inhabited by large populations of people and pigs supported by the intensive cultivation of the tropical American sweet potato on the slopes above swampy valley bottoms. With the end of World War II the area with others became a focus for the development of coffee and tea plantations of which the establishment of Kuk Research Station was a result. Large scale drainage of the swamps produced abundant evidence in the form of stone axes and preserved wooden digging sticks and spades for their past use in cultivation. Investigations in 1966 at a tea plantation in the upper Wahgi Valley by a small team from The Australian National University yielded a date of over 2000 years ago for a wooden stick collected from the bottom of a prehistoric ditch. The establishment of Kuk Research Station a few kilometres away shortly afterwards provided an ideal opportunity for a research project.

Migration History in World History ,2010-03-25 Migration is the talk of the town. On the whole however the current situation is seen as resulting from unique political upheavals. Such a historical interpretation ignores the fact that migration is a fundamental phenomenon in human societies from the beginning and plays a crucial role in the cultural economic political and social developments and innovations. So far however most studies are limited to the last four centuries largely ignoring the spectacular advances made in other disciplines which study the deep past like anthropology archaeology population genetics and linguistics and that reach back as far as 80 000 years ago. This is the first book that offers an overview of the state of the art in these disciplines and shows how historians and social scientists working in the recent past can profit from their insights.

Tracing Early Agriculture in the Highlands of New Guinea Tim Denham,2018-06-28 In this book historical narratives chart how people created forms of agriculture in the highlands of New Guinea and how these practices were transformed through time. The intention is twofold to clearly establish New Guinea as a region of early agricultural development and plant domestication and to develop a contingent practice based interpretation of early agriculture that has broader application to other regions of the world. The multi disciplinary record from the highlands has the potential to challenge and change long held assumptions regarding early agriculture globally which are usually based on domestication. Early agriculture in the highlands is charted by an exposition of the practices of plant exploitation and cultivation. Practices are ontologically prior because they ultimately produce the phenotypic and genotypic changes in plant species characterised as domestication as well as the social and environmental transformations associated with agriculture. They are also methodologically prior because they enplace plants in specific historico geographic contexts.
