My Life In The Moslem East:

Life in the Moslem East Pierre Ponafidine, 2015-06-11 Excerpt from Life in the Moslem East It is with much diffidence that I give the translation of my husband's book to the English speaking public and I hope they will deal leniently with my share of the work The book itself I feel needs no apology It is not a pretentious history nor an exhaustive treatise on the countries upon which it touches It is more a series of studies of certain phases of the life religion and customs of people among whom my husband has passed the thirty six years of his service people for whom he has learned to have a deep sympathy and often affection and whom he has striven to present impartially The fact of his having been for some years Secretary of Legation in Teheran acting Consul General in Tabriz five years Consul in Bagdad five years Consul General in Meshed two years on a special mission to Tashkent and the Pamirs and for the last seven years Consul General in Constantinople is a guarantee for his personal acquaintance with the subjects treated It is the English part of the work that calls forth these lines for it has been done under various difficulties Being my first attempt in translating I have not always found it easy to preserve as I have endeavoured to do something of the style and individuality of the author in the original and yet render it in good English A second difficulty is one always met with in such works and that is the English spelling of Oriental names In dealing with this problem I have followed such writers as have seemed to me to give the most correct rendering of Eastern names and words even though they are not always the most popularly accepted forms About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Life in the Moslem East Pierre Ponafidine, 1911 *My Life in the Moslem East, Etc. the Balkan Wars World War One the British occupation of Constantinople the demise of the Ottoman Empire and the founding of the Turkish Republic Just as the late Ottoman Empire underwent extraordinary changes so did Patrick transform herself and the Constantinople College to meet the demands of a twentieth century Muslim state ultimately sacrificing her cosmopolitan heterogeneous student body to an ethnically homogeneous one that reflected the newly racialized nationalism of the Turkish Republic Mary Mills Patrick s Cosmopolitan Mission and the Constantinople Woman s College explores Patrick s career from the 1870s to the 1930s tracking her personal religious struggle and her professional transformation from Protestant evangelist to feminist educator to advocate for Muslim women to finally supporter of Turkish nationalism Life in the Moslem East Ponafidine Pierre,2022-10-27 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant Women and Gender in Central and Eastern Europe, Russia, and Eurasia Mary Zirin,Irina Livezeanu,Christine D.
