My Relation Of My Imprisonment:

My Prisons Silvio Pellico, 1868 The Relation of My Imprisonment Russell Banks, 1983 The Relation of My Imprisonment a work of fiction utilizing a form invented in the seventeenth century by imprisoned Puritan divines Designed to be exemplary works of this type were aimed at brethren outside the prison walls and functioned primarily as figurative dramatization of the test of fait all true believers must endure These relation framed by scripture and by a sermon explicating the text were usually read aloud in weekly or monthly installments during religious services Utterly sincere and detailed recounting of suffering they were nonetheless highly artificial To use the form self consciously as Russell Banks has done is not to parody it so much as to argue good humoredly with the mind it embodies to explore and if possible to map the limits of that mind the more intelligently to love it Prisons, Punishment, and the Family Rachel Condry, Peter Scharff Smith, 2018 Every year millions of families are affected by the imprisonment of a family member Children of imprisoned parents alone can be counted in millions in the USA and in Europe It is a bewildering fact that while we have had prisons for centuries and the deprivation of liberty has been a central pillar in the Western mode of punishment since the early nineteenth century we have only relatively recently embarked upon a serious discussion of the severe effects of imprisonment for the families and relatives of offenders and the implications this has for society This book draws together some of the excellent research that addresses the impact of criminal justice and incarceration in particular upon the families of offenders It assembles examples of recent and ongoing studies from eight different countries in order to not only learn about the secondary effects and collateral consequences of imprisonment but also to understand what the experiences and lived realities of prisoners families means for the sociology of punishment and our broader understanding of criminal justice systems While punishment and society scholarship has gained significant ground in recent years it has often remained silent on the ways in which the families of prisoners are affected by our practices of punishment This book provides evidence of the importance of including families within this scholarship and explores themes of legitimacy citizenship human rights marginalization exclusion and inequality My German Prisons Horace Gray Gilliland, 1919 The Friends' Library, 1850 Recapturing Freedom Dot Goulding, 2007 Recapturing Freedom is about the experience of long term prisoners as they prepare for release Dot Goulding shows the connection between the institutionalisation that strips inmates of their identity in order to make them tractable and their subsequent all too common failure to cope with life on the outside Her book is based on extensive in depth interviews with male and female prisoners Recurring themes are the relentless surveillance and control to which prisoners are subjected and the centrality of violence and brutalisation in the prison experience group violence sexual violence and according to the interviewees violence which is officially sanctioned Recapturing Freedom shows why most long term prisoners find freedom so hard to recapture physically free but mentally still locked into a subculture of brutality isolation and deprivation it is most often prison that recaptures them Goulding finishes her book with suggestions on how taking account of the actual experiences of prisoners this endless cycle of recidivism might be stopped Human Rights in Prisons A. Jefferson, L. Gaborit, 2015-03-23 Drawing on participatory action research conducted in Sierra Leone Kosovo and the Philippines Human Rights in Prisons analyses encounters between rights based non governmental organisations and prisons It explores the previously under researched perspectives of prison staff and prisoners on their lives and relationships
