Narrative Comprehension And Film:

Narrative Comprehension and Film Edward Branigan, 2013-06-17 Narrative is one of the ways we organise and understand the world. It is found everywhere not only in films and books but also in everyday conversations and in the nonfictional discourses of journalists, historians, educators, psychologists, attorneys and many others. Edward Branigan presents a telling exploration of the basic concepts of narrative theory and its relation to film and literary analysis, bringing together theories from linguistics and cognitive science and applying them to the screen. Individual analyses of classical narratives form the basis of a complex study of every aspect of filmic fiction, exploring for example subjectivity in Lady in the Lake, multiplicity in Letter from an Unknown Woman, post modernism and documentary in Sans Soleil. Narrative Comprehension and Film, 2013

Narrative Comprehension and Film Edward Branigan, 1992 Narrative is one of the ways we organize and understand the world. It is found everywhere not only in films and books but also in everyday conversations and in the non-fictional discourses of journalists, historians, educators, psychologists, attorneys and many others. Edward Branigan presents a telling exploration of the basic concepts of narrative theory and its relation to film and literary analysis, bringing together theories from linguistics and cognitive science and applying them to the screen. Individual analyses of classical narratives form the basis of a complex study of every aspect of filmic fiction, exploring for example subjectivity in Lady in the Lake, multiplicity in Letter from an Unknown Woman, post modernism and documentary in Sans Soleil. Through his exploration of film, Branigan expresses how narratology should be viewed as a distinctive strategy for recognizing, isolating and articulating the fundamental role which narrative plays in our response to the world as a whole. Narrative and Narration Warren Buckland, 2020-12-15 From mainstream blockbusters to art house cinema, narrative and narration are the driving forces that organize a film. Yet attempts to explain these forces are often mired in notoriously complex terminology and dense theory. Warren Buckland provides a clear and accessible introduction that explains how narrative and narration work using straightforward language. Narrative and Narration distills the basic components of cinematic storytelling into a set of core concepts: narrative structure, processes of narration and narrative agents. The book opens with a discussion of the emergence of narrative and narration in early cinema and proceeds to illustrate key ideas through numerous case studies. Each chapter guides readers through different methods that they can use to analyze cinematic storytelling. Buckland also discusses how departures from traditional modes such as feminist narratives, art cinema and unreliable narrators can complicate and corroborate the book's understanding of narrative and narration. Examples include mainstream films, both classic and contemporary, art house films of every stripe and two relatively new styles of cinematic storytelling: the puzzle film and those driven by a narrative logic derived from video games. Narrative and Narration is a concise introduction that provides readers with fundamental tools to understand cinematic storytelling. Emotion and the Structure of Narrative Film Ed S. Tan, 2013-10-16 Introduced one hundred years ago, film has since become part of our lives. For the past century however the experience offered by fiction films has remained a mystery Questions such as why adult viewers cry and shiver and why they care at all about fictional characters while aware that they contemplate an entirely staged scene are still unresolved In addition it is unknown why spectators find some film experiences entertaining that have a clearly aversive nature outside the cinema These and other questions make the psychological status of emotions allegedly induced by the fiction film highly problematic Earlier attempts to answer these questions have been limited to a few genre studies In recent years film criticism and the theory of film structure have made use of psychoanalytic concepts which have proven insufficient in accounting for the diversity of film induced affect In contrast academic psychology during the century of its existence has made extensive study of emotional responses provoked by viewing fiction film but has taken the role of film as a natural stimulus completely for granted The present volume bridges the gap between critical theories of film on the one hand and recent psychological theory and research of human emotion on the other in an attempt to explain the emotions provoked by fiction film This book integrates insights on the narrative structure of fiction film including its themes plot structure and characters with recent knowledge on the cognitive processing of natural events and narrative and person information It develops a theoretical framework for systematically describing emotion in the film viewer The question whether or not film produces genuine emotion is answered by comparing affect in the viewer with emotion in the real world experienced by persons witnessing events that have personal significance to them Current understanding of the psychology of emotions provides the basis for identifying critical features of the fiction film that trigger the general emotion system Individual emotions are classified according to their position in the affect structure of a film a larger system of emotions produced by one particular film as a whole Along the way a series of problematic issues is dealt with notably the reality of the emotional stimulus in film the identification of the viewer with protagonists on screen and the necessity of the viewer's cooperation in arriving at a genuine emotion Finally it is argued that film produced emotions are genuine emotions in response to an artificial stimulus Film can be regarded as a fine tuned machine for a continuous stream of emotions that are entertaining after all The work paves the way for understanding and in principle predicting emotions in the film viewer using existing psychological instruments of investigation Dealing with the problems of film induced affect and rendering them accessible to formal modeling and experimental method serves a wider interest of understanding aesthetic emotion the feelings that man made products and especially works of art can evoke in the beholder

The Routledge Encyclopedia of Film Theory Edward Branigan, Warren Buckland, 2013-12-04 The Routledge Encyclopedia of Film Theory is an international reference work representing the essential ideas and concepts at the centre of film theory from the beginning of the twentieth century to the beginning of the twenty first When first encountering film theory students are often confronted with a dense interlocking set of texts full of arcane terminology inexact formulations sliding definitions and abstract generalities The Routledge Encyclopedia of Film Theory challenges these first impressions by aiming to make film theory accessible and open to new readers Edward Branigan and Warren Buckland have commissioned over 50 scholars from around the globe to address the difficult formulations and propositions in each theory by reducing these difficult formulations to straightforward propositions. The result is a highly accessible volume that clearly defines and analyzes step by step many of the fundamental concepts in film theory ranging from familiar concepts such as Apparatus Gaze Genre and Identification to less well known and understood but equally important concepts such as Alain Badiou's Inaesthetics Gilles Deleuze's Time Image and Jean Luc Nancy's Evidence. The Routledge Encyclopedia of Film Theory is an ideal reference book for undergraduates of film studies as well as graduate students new to the discipline.

Puzzle Films Warren Buckland, 2009-01-12 Drawing upon the expertise of film scholars from around the world Puzzle Films investigates a number of films that sport complex storytelling from Memento Old Boy and Run Lola Run to the Infernal Affairs trilogy and In the Mood for Love. Unites American independent cinema the European and International Art film and certain modes of avant garde filmmaking on the basis of their shared storytelling complexity. Draws upon the expertise of film scholars from North America Britain China Poland Holland Italy Greece New Zealand and Australia.

Film Theory Philip Simpson, Andrew Utterson, Karen J. Shepherdson, 2004 This major new collection identifies the critical and theoretical concepts which have been most significant in the study of film and presents a historical and intellectual context for the material examined.

Film Theory: The Basics Kevin McDonald, 2022-05-11 Fully updated and expanded throughout this second edition of Film Theory The Basics provides an accessible introduction to the key theorists concepts and debates that have shaped the study of moving images. The book examines film theory from its emergence in the early twentieth century to its study in the present day and explores why film has drawn special attention as a medium as a form of representation and as a focal point in the rise of modern visual culture. It also emphasizes how film theory has developed as a historically contingent discourse one that has evolved and changed in conjunction with different social political and intellectual factors. This second edition offers a detailed account of new theoretical directions at the forefront of film studies in the twenty first century and draws additional attention to how theory engages with today's most pressing questions about digital technologies the environment and racial justice. Complete with questions for discussion and a glossary of both key terms and key theorists this book is an invaluable resource for those new to film theory and for anyone else interested in the history and significance of critical thinking in relation to the moving image.

Cinema and Narrative Complexity Steffen Hven, 2025-10-01 Since the mid 1990s a number of films from international filmmakers have experimented with increasingly complicated narrative strategies including such hits as Run Lola Run 21 Grams and Memento. This book sets those films and others in context with earlier works that tried new narrative approaches including Stage Fright and Hiroshima Mon Amour to show how they reveal the limitations of most of our usual tools for analysing film. In light of that Steffen Hven argues for the deployment of an embodied reconfiguration of the cinematic experience one that allows us to rethink such core constituents of narrative understanding as cognition emotion and affect This book considers films that have experimented with new increasingly complicated narrative approaches including Stage Fright and Hiroshima Mon Amour to show how they reveal the limitations of most of our usual tools for analysing film

Wag the Dog: A Study on Film and Reality in the Digital Age Eleftheria Thanouli, 2013-08-01 Wag the Dog is a film that became a media event and a cultural icon because it inadvertently short circuited the distance that is supposed to separate reality and fiction The film's narration challenges the established boundaries between the fiction and nonfiction tradition as Barry Levinson the director embeds his interest in documentary filmmaking and complicates the issue of narrative agency in the way he frames the story The examination of the historical and social context in which it was produced exhibited and received worldwide enables the author to illuminate a series of changes in the way a fiction film reflects and interacts with reality urging us to reconsider some of our central and long standing concepts or even paradigms in film theory Eleftheria Thanouli provides new insights into a series of issues from both classical and contemporary film theory like the conceptual and ontological stakes in the use of digital technology the impact of mass media on public memory and the political role of cinema in a globalized and conglomerated world

Aesthetics and Film Katherine

Thomson-Jones, 2008-10-23 Aesthetics and Film is a philosophical study of the art of film Its motivation is the recent surge of interest among analytic philosophers in the philosophical implications of central issues in film theory and the application of general issues in aesthetics to the specific case of film Of particular interest are questions concerning the distinctive representational capacities of film art particularly in relation to realism and narration the influence of the literary paradigm in understanding film authorship and interpretation and our imaginative and affective engagement with film For all of these questions Katherine Thomson Jones critically compares the most compelling answers driving home key points with a wide range of film examples including Wiene's The Cabinet of Doctor Caligari Eisenstein's October Hitchcock's Rear Window Kubrick's The Shining and Sluizer's The Vanishing Students and scholars of aesthetics and cinema will find this an illuminating accessible and highly enjoyable investigation into the nature and power of a technologically evolving art form

The Philosophy of Documentary Film David LaRocca, 2016-12-20 The spirit that founded the volume and guided its development is radically inter and transdisciplinary Dispatches have arrived from anthropology communications English film studies including theory history criticism literary studies including theory history criticism media and screen studies cognitive cultural studies narratology philosophy poetics politics and political theory and as a special aspect of the volume theorist filmmakers make their thoughts known as well Consequently the critical reflections gathered here are decidedly pluralistic and heterogeneous inviting not bracketing or partitioning the dynamism and diversity of the arts humanities social sciences and even natural sciences in so far as we are biological beings who are trying to track our cognitive and perceptual understanding of a nonbiological thing namely film whether celluloid based or in digital form these disciplines so habitually cordoned off from one another are brought together into a shared conversation about a common object and domain of investigation This book will be of interest to theorists and practitioners of nonfiction film to emerging and established scholars contributing to the secondary literature and to those who are intrigued by the kinds of questions and claims that seem native to nonfiction film and who may wish to explore some critical responses to them written in engaging language

The Film Experience Timothy Corrigan, Patricia White, 2012-01-03 A comprehensive introduction to film that recognizes students as movie fans and helps them understand the art form's full scope The authors situate their strong coverage of the medium's formal elements within the larger cultural contexts that inform the ways we watch film from economics and exhibition to marketing and the star system Blackwells

Film Theory Thomas Elsaesser, Malte Hagener, 2015-03-12 What is the relationship between cinema and spectator This is the key question for film theory and one that Thomas Elsaesser and Malte Hagener put at the center of their insightful and engaging book now revised from its popular first edition Every kind of cinema and every film theory first imagines an ideal spectator and then maps certain dynamic interactions between the screen and the spectator's mind body and senses Using seven distinctive configurations of spectator and screen that move progressively from exterior to interior relationships the authors retrace the most important stages of film theory from its beginnings to the present from neo realist and modernist theories to psychoanalytic apparatus phenomenological and cognitivist theories and including recent cross overs with philosophy and neurology This new and updated edition of Film Theory An Introduction through the Senses has been extensively revised and rewritten throughout incorporating discussion of contemporary films like Her and Gravity and including a greatly expanded final chapter which brings film theory fully into the digital age

Drawing multimodality's bigger picture: Metalanguages and corpora for multimodal analyses Janina Wildfeuer, Claudia Lehmann, 2024-07-30 Multimodality has most recently been described no longer as a research field or discipline on its own but rather as a stage of development within a field Bateman 2022a 49 The realization that 1 many different fields and disciplines now enter their own multimodal phase with new interest in multimodal phenomena and that 2 these disciplines all commit to the development of multimodality research with their own theoretical principles and methodological tools brings with it not only an immense breadth of potential analytical objects but also many new meta methodological issues We need to find ways of combining insights from the variously imported theoretical and methodological backgrounds brought along by previous non multimodal stages of any contributing disciplines Bateman 2022a 49 At the same time the search for a meta methodology for multimodal analyses is pushed further by the recent trend towards more empirical approaches to multimodal phenomena and the development and use of larger multimodal corpora that just as well require theoretical and methodological refinements We need to develop ways of strengthening claims with robustly applicable methods which nevertheless remain firmly anchored theoretically Bateman 2022b 64 For a productive handling of these issues disciplinary triangulation and finding a common language or metalanguage Maton newest results from data collection methods and multimodal corpus analyses that expand the current quantitative work by e.g. applying existing theories and methods to larger datasets or exploring the newest communication technologies We are particularly interested in seeing how works addressing these aspects contribute to finding ways of productive triangulation and integration for and within a meta methodology for multimodality research This Research Topic aims to bring together scholars from a variety of disciplines interested in multimodality research to review explore and advance the contributions that John Bateman as one of the key figures in multimodality research has made to both theory and method building as well as to the driving forward of multimodal empirical and corpus analyses We welcome contributions that for example critically address the theoretical and methodological advancements that John Bateman has made with regard to the notions of semiotic mode discourse semantics genre textuality etc apply one of the many approaches that John Bateman has developed for the empirical analysis of multimodal artefacts e g the GeM model for page based documents his work on multimodal film and audio visual analysis and the discourse semantics and or annotation approach to visual narratives to larger corpora or currently newly developing communicative situations expand on one of the abovementioned aspects with new ideas and insights from disciplines that have not yet been included in multimodality research Wittgenstein, Theory and the Arts Richard Allen, Malcolm Turvey, 2011-02-25 This is the first full exploration of the implications of Wittgenstein s philosophy for understanding the arts and cultural criticism These original essays by philosophers and critics address key philosophical topics in the study of the arts and culture such as humanism criticism psychology painting film and ethics All exemplify Wittgenstein s method of conceptual investigation and highlight his notion of philosophy as a cure Spanish Prisoner Yannis Tzioumakis, 2009-04-24 Despite more than a passing nod to such crowdpleasing classics as Hitchcock s North by Northwest playwright turned independent filmmaker David Mamet s The Spanish Prisoner is a particularly idiosyncratic film that betrays its origin outside the Hollywood mainstream Featuring a convoluted narrative an excessive often anti classical visual style and belonging to the generic category of the con game film which often challenges the spectator s cognitive skills The Spanish Prisoner is a film that bridges genre filmmaking with personal visual style independent film production with niche distribution and mainstream subject matter with unconventional filmic techniques This book discusses The Spanish Prisoner as an example of contemporary American independent cinema while also using the film as a vehicle to explore several key ideas in film studies especially in terms of aesthetics narrative style spectatorship genre and industry
