Latinos and the New Immigrant Church David A. Badillo, 2006-06-19 Latin Americans make up the largest new immigrant population in the United States and Latino Catholics are the fastest growing sector of the Catholic Church in America In this book historian David A Badillo offers a history of Latino Catholicism in the United States by looking at its growth in San Antonio Chicago New York and Miami Focusing on twentieth century Latino urbanism Badillo contrasts broad historic commonalities of Catholic religious tradition with variations of Latino ethnicity in various locales He emphasizes the contours of day to day life as well as various aspects of institutional and lived Catholicism The story of Catholicism goes beyond clergy and laity it entails the entire urban experience of neighborhoods downtown power seekers archdiocesan movers and shakers and a range of organizations and associations linked to parishes Although parishes remain the key site for Latino efforts to build individual and cultural identities Badillo argues that one must consider simultaneously the triad of parish city and ethnicity to fully comprehend the influence of various Latino populations on both Catholicism and the urban environment in the United States By contrasting the development of three distinctive Latino communities the Mexican Americans Puerto Ricans and Cuban Americans Badillo challenges the popular concept of an overarching Latino experience and offers instead an integrative approach to understanding the scope depth and complexity of the Latino contribution to the character of America s urban landscapes throughout the book his critiques of static space modern urban planning knowledge alienation in everyday life and his emphasis on a method that underscores the importance of movement and rhythm Fraser compellingly shows how each of these aspects of Lefebvre's work relates to the others just as he ties together canonical and non traditional cultural products from Madrid and Barcelona
