Meditations on African Literature Dubem Okafor, 2001-02-28 While African literature is presently enjoying much attention from the scholarly community its heritage and identity are becoming less clearly defined While Africa has a rich oral tradition African writers find themselves writing in the languages of their colonial oppressors So too many of the best African writers now live outside Africa particularly in North America Much of the criticism of African literature is written by American professors African writers sometimes teach their literature at American universities and American publishers issue African literary works At the same time the political climate of many African countries has been detrimental to literacy and writing This book explores many of the issues currently facing African literature Each chapter is written by an expert contributor to provide the volume with a broad coverage of numerous topics related to the present state of African literature The opening chapters examine issues of language and postcoloniality in African literary works Later chapters discuss such concerns as the formation of an African literary canon representations of history and ideology in African writing the role of women in African literature and African ritual theater Through its various chapters the volume makes clear that African writers continue to engage pressing social and political issues and that they are intellectuals rather than entertainers

Jones, 1994 Nwanyiibu Phaniel Akubueze Egejuru, Ketu H. Katrak, 1997 Women, Literature and Development in Africa Anthonia C. Kalu, 2019-12-09 This book is a powerful exploration of the role of women in the evolution of African thinking and narratives on development from the precolonial period right through to the modern day Whilst the book identifies women's oppression and marginalization as significant challenges to contemporary Africa's advancement it also explores how new written narratives draw on traditional African knowledge systems to bring deep rooted and sometimes radical approaches to progress The book asserts that Africans must tell their own stories expressed through the complex meanings and nuances of African languages and often conveyed through oral traditions and storytelling in which women play an important role The book's close examination of language and meaning in the African narrative tradition advances the illumination and elevation of African storytelling as part of a viable and valid knowledge base in its own right rather than as an extension of European paradigms and methods Anthonia C Kalu's new edition of this important book fully revised throughout will also include fresh analysis of the role of digital media education and religion in African narratives At a time when the prominence and participation of African women in development and sociopolitical debates is growing this book's exploration of their lived experiences and narrative contribution will be of interest to students of African literature gender studies development history and sociology Feminism in African Literature Helen Chukwuma, 1994 African Literature Safoura Salami-Boukari, 2012 How do we resolve the insider outsider interpreting conundrum Why do readers from different parts of the world read interpret or understand foreign literatures the way they do What drives peculiar critical reactions canon formations and such issues which determine the survival of cultural productions or their

The Politics of (M)Othering Obioma Nnaemeka, 2005-08-04 This collection is a study of African literature framed by the central and multi faceted idea of mother motherland mothertongue motherwit motherhood mothering looking at the paradoxical location of m other as both central and marginal Whilst the volume stands as a sustained feminist analysis it engages feminist theory itself by showing how issues in feminism are in African literature recast in different and complex ways

Overcoming Women's Subordination in the Igbo African Culture and in the Catholic Church Rose N. Uchem, 2001 When African scholars lament over the near destruction of African cultures they do not reflect the reality of African women's historical traditions of empowerment and inclusion in pre colonial pre Christian African societies which were also lost in the same process of Western Christian cultural imperialism Similarly most male Church theologians writing or speaking about inculturation do not address the deeper cultural issues which impact heavily on African women from back cover

Perspectives on Women in African Literature Ciarunji Chesaina, 1994

Male Daughters, Female Husbands Professor Ifi Amadiume, 2015-03-12 In 1987 more than a decade before the dawn of queer theory Ifi Amadiume wrote Male Daughters Female Husbands to critical acclaim This compelling and highly original book frees the subject position of husband from its affiliation with men and goes on to do the same for other masculine attributes dislocating sex gender and sexual orientation Boldly arguing that the notion of gender as constructed in Western feminist discourse did not exist in Africa before the colonial imposition of a dichotomous understanding of sexual difference Male Daughters Female Husbands examines the structures in African society that enabled people to achieve power showing that roles were not rigidly masculinized nor feminized At a time when gender and queer theory are viewed by some as being stuck in an identity politics rut this outstanding study not only warns against the danger of projecting a very specific Western notion of difference onto other cultures but calls us to question the very concept of gender itself

Ogoni Women's Activism Domale Dube, 2025-04-22 In 1995 Nigeria's dictatorial government executed nine Ogoni

leaders fighting for civil rights and against Shell Oil's depredations of Ogoni land. Domale Dube draws on interviews and participant observation to tell the long ignored story of how women carved out a role in the Ogoni pursuit of justice. Dube's account examines and documents the issues that drew women into the movement from concerns for themselves and their communities to grander visions for the Ogoni. As she shows, these issues not only influenced organizing in Nigeria but also the diaspora in general and the United States in particular. Ogoni women relied upon nonviolent protest to realize their aims. Dube looks at their campaigns and how their actions reflected their concerns, values, interests, and priorities. The result is a rare account of Black women and transnational organizing for women's climate and environmental justice that merges a history of their involvement with an in-depth analysis of the racial, gender, and ethnic dimensions of the Ogoni Struggle.
