Interpreting Historic House Museums Jessica Foy Donnelly, 2002-11-23 Times are changing at historic house museums, and no one is more aware of this than the fourteen contributors to Interpreting Historic House Museums. These respected museum professionals consider the history of house museums and the need to look at familiar issues from new perspectives and using new methods. If your site isn't using a comprehensive interpretive plan, how can you create one? While doing so, how do you address contemporary issues like race and gender? Don't forget the physical: either does your property need a landscape plan as well as a furnishings plan? And when your visitors arrive to see all your hard work, how accessible is your property? If the answer is not very, what can and should you be doing to address that? Once inside, how good are your tours and guides, and does your furnishings plan allow visitors to maximize their experiences in areas without guides? Interpreting Historic House Museums captures the big picture and the important details. Its discussion of contemporary issues and successful programs, its practical guidelines and information, up-to-date references, and lively illustrations will make it useful and relevant for both students and practicing professionals.

Consuming History Jerome de Groot, 2009-01-13 Non-academic history, public history is a complex, dynamic entity which impacts on the popular understanding of the past at all levels. In Consuming History, Jerome de Groot examines how society consumes history and how a reading of this consumption can help us understand popular culture and issues of representation. This book analyzes a wide range of cultural entities from computer games to daytime television, from blockbuster fictional narratives such as Da Vinci Code to DNA genealogical tools to analyze how history works in contemporary popular culture. Jerome de Groot probes how museums have responded to the heritage debate and the way in which new technologies have brought about a shift in access to history from online game playing to internet genealogy. He discusses the often conflicted relationship between public and academic history and raises important questions about the theory and practice of history as a discipline.
