Jasper Johns Catherine Craft, 2015-09-15 At a time when the dominant mode of painting Abstract Expressionism emphasised expressive drama through bold brushwork and largely abstract compositions Johns paintings of the American flag targets numbers and the alphabet demonstrated a decided departure from convention Despite being painted with obvious care they seemed emotionally reticent cool and quiet far from the emotional fireworks then fashionable It all began with my painting a picture of an American flag Using this design took care of a great deal for me because I didn't have to design it So I went on to similar things like the targets things the mind already knows That gave me room to work on other levels For instance I've always thought of painting as a surface painting it in one color made this very clear Then I decided that looking at a painting should not require a special kind of focus like going to church A picture ought to be looked at the same way you look at a radiator Unlike most artists statements in New York during the 1950s Johns remarks contained none of the familiar talk of doubt and angst and his selection of subject matter appeared deliberate thoughtful and far removed from emotional attachments and desires To younger artists his art seemed not so much cold and unfeeling as clear eyed and honest after the excesses of Abstract Expressionism Furthermore in selecting recognisable subjects Johns seemed to reject prevailing abstract modes of painting yet his subjects themselves flags targets numbers each possessed a vital characteristic of classic abstraction namely a flatness rendering them all but indistinguishable from the picture plane itself This book underlines how Johns's work made the polarity between abstraction and representation that had dominated debates about modern art for decades seem suddenly obsolete opening up other ways of thinking about art's relation to the world It also tries to understand why since his first exhibition at the Leo Castelli Gallery at the age of twenty seven he has remained one of the major artists of the contemporary artistic scene

Exhibitionist Richard Dormont, 2016-08-22 100 sumptuously produced essays by Britain's leading art critic US born Richard Dormont They cover exhibitions of historic and contemporary art world wide interpreting and critiquing many of the most important shows of the last 30 years They offer in a highly accessible form the fundamental elements of a history of art and a beguiling review of recent cultural trends

Past Things and Present, 2003 Cette exposition explore le travail réalisé par Jasper Johns durant ces 20 dernières années travers une sélection de peintures gravures et dessins Ces travaux récents recitent des images d'objets présents dans son atelier et dans sa maison ainsi que des allusions son enfance

DeRose, Jasper Johns, 2006 Jasper Johns Jasper Johns, Scott Rothkopf, Matthew Marks Gallery, 2005 After completing the installation of his 1996 retrospective at New York's Museum of Modern Art Jasper Johns retreated to his studio in Connecticut to wipe the slate clean beginning a body of work that was a dramatic departure from anything he had made before This volume reproduces for the first time the complete series of those magnificent works that Johns one of our greatest living artists has made over the last eight years The first painting in this new series included a string hanging from upper right to lower left generating a curve called a catenary and this curve became the compositional backbone of the entire series Johns produced a total of 61 paintings drawings and prints based on the catenary theme all of which are reproduced in this volume The work is saturated with autobiographical references both transparent and opaque while it simultaneously encourages multiple layers of meaning Sensual surfaces fragile constructions and formal rigor meet allusions to key moments in the history of modern art and motifs from Johns's earlier work The poetry of Johns's catenary series is explored in an illustrated essay by the scholar Scott Rothkopf published alongside the catalogue's 51 color plates Jasper Johns Gary Garrels, 2012 An eloquent accessible survey of the work of the iconic American artist The Abstract Impulse Marshall N. The Fourth Dimension and Non-Euclidean Geometry in Modern Art, revised edition Linda Dalrymple Henderson, 2018-05-18 The long awaited new edition of a groundbreaking work on the impact of alternative concepts of space on modern art In this groundbreaking study first published in 1983 and unavailable for over a decade Linda Dalrymple Henderson demonstrates that two concepts of space beyond immediate perception the curved spaces of non Euclidean geometry and most important a higher fourth dimension of space were central to the development of modern art The possibility of a spatial fourth dimension suggested that our world might be merely a shadow or section of a higher dimensional existence That iconoclastic idea encouraged radical innovation by a variety of early twentieth century artists ranging from French Cubists Italian Futurists and Marcel Duchamp to Max Weber Kazimir Malevich and the artists of De Stijl and Surrealism In an extensive new Reintroduction Henderson surveys the impact of interest in higher dimensions of space in art and culture from the 1950s to 2000 Although largely eclipsed by relativity theory beginning in the 1920s the spatial fourth dimension experienced a resurgence during the later 1950s and 1960s In a remarkable turn of events it has returned as an important theme in contemporary culture in the wake of the emergence in the 1980s of both string theory in physics with its ten or eleven dimensional universes and computer graphics Henderson demonstrates the importance of this new conception of space for figures ranging from Buckminster Fuller Robert Smithson and the Park Place Gallery group in the 1960s to Tony Robbin and digital architect Marcos Novak Nocturnes Joan Rothfuss, A prominent figure in the Twin Cities art scene Chris Faust marks the essence of the changing Midwestern landscape by documenting common scenes in an uncommon way Known for his spectacular panoramic work Faust is also increasingly admired for his unique night
