The Ends of Literature Brett Levinson, 2001 The Ends of Literature analyzes the part played by literature within contemporary Latin American thought and politics above all the politics of neoliberalism The why of contemporary Latin American literature is the book's overarching concern Its wide range includes close readings of the prose of Cortázar Carpentier Paz Valenzuela Piglia and Las Casas of the relationship of the Boom movement and its aftermath of testimonial narrative and of contemporary Chilean and Chicano film The work also investigates in detail various theoretical projects as they intersect with and emerge from Latin American scholarship cultural studies deconstruction psychoanalysis and postcolonial studies Latin American literature both as a vehicle of conservatism and as an agent of subversion is bound from its inception to the rise of the state Literature's nature role and status are therefore altered when the Latin American nation state succumbs to the process of neoliberalism as the too strong state dictatorship yields to the too weak state the market and as the various practices of civil society and public life are replaced by private or privatized endeavors However neither the end of literature nor the end of the state can be assumed The end of literature in Latin America is in fact the call for more literature it is the call of literature in particular that of the Boom The end of the state likewise is the demand upon this state The book then analyzes the ends in question as at once their purpose direction future and conclusion Also key to the study is the notion of transition Within much recent Latin American political discussion la transición refers to the passage from dictatorship to democracy as well as to the failure of this shift the failure of post dictatorship The author argues that the movement from literary to cultural studies while issuing from intellectual and aesthetic circles is an integral component of this same transition The thematization of the bind between these two displacements hence of Latin America s voyage into post transition forms a fundamental portion of the text

Displaying Reciprocity Jun Xu, 2016-10-03 This book is intended to address students researchers and teachers of spoken language It presents an empirical study of task oriented language data in which coparticipants display levels of reciprocity through reactive tokens An in depth investigation of displaying reciprocity is of interest primarily to conversation analysts and pragmaticians involved in the research on talk in interaction in general and Mandarin Chinese conversations in particular The communicative aspect makes this book relevant to the areas of language use While previous research has shown that one single reactive token has different discourse functions in different conversational environments this study shows that participants collaborative orientation to each other s status of displayed reciprocity seems decisive for the selection of reactive tokens rather than one specific reactive token being employed for specific conversational purposes in varying interactional contexts This book also contributes to fields in linguistics pragmatics and sociology which specialize in the investigation of spontaneous human communication

Bradbury and other literary greats Guardian There is no such thing as a false step Every time we walk we are going somewhere Especially if we are going nowhere Moving around the modern city is not a way of getting from A to B but of understanding who and where we are In a series of riveting intellectual rambles Matthew Beaumont retraces episodes in the history of the walker since the mid 19th century From Dickens s insomniac night rambles to restless excursions through the faceless monuments of today s neoliberal city the act of walking is one of self discovery and self escape of disappearances and secret subversions Pacing stride for stride alongside literary ambler and thinkers such as Edgar Allan Poe Andr Breton H G Wells Virginia Woolf Jean Rhys and Ray Bradbury Beaumont explores the relationship between the metropolis and its pedestrian life Through these writings Beaumont asks Can you get lost in a crowd What are the consequences of using your smartphone in the street What differentiates the nocturnal metropolis from the city of daylight What connects walking philosophy and the big toe And can we save the city or ourselves by taking to the pavement Improvised Continent

Richard Cándida Smith, 2017-08-25 How does a country in the process of becoming a world power prepare its citizens for the responsibilities of global leadership In Improvised Continent Richard Cándida Smith answers this question by illuminating the forgotten story of how over the course of the twentieth century cultural exchange programs some run by the government and others by philanthropies and major cultural institutions brought many of the most important artists and writers of Latin America to live and work in the United States Improvised Continent is the first book to focus on cultural exchange inside the United States and how Americans responded to Latin American writers and artists Moving masterfully between the history of ideas biography institutional history and politics and international relations and engaging works in French German Spanish and Portuguese Cándida Smith synthesizes over seventy years of Pan American cultural activity in the United States The stories behind Diego Rivera s murals the movies of Alejandro G I rritu the poetry of Gabriela Mistral the photography of Genevieve Naylor and the novels of Carlos Fuentes these works and artists along with many others challenged U S citizens about their place in the world and about the kind of global relations the country s interests could allow Improvised Continent provides a profoundly compassionate portrayal of the Latin American artists and writers who believed their practices might create a more humane world
