Lindsey-Billingsley,2019-12-13 The author T Lindsey Billingsley has compiled a no nonsense philosophical study guide exploring racial origins the African origins of humanity and prehistoric Kemetic influence throughout the world The main focus of these studies is on the anthropological and physiological makeup of racial groups with indepth research into both the Out of Africa theories and divine creationism myths Billingsley supplies concrete evidence to support her conclusions on the true human experience in lieu of popular speculation and theory devoid of logic and sound proof In this and subsequent volumes the author will establish a new perspective of thinking that will tempt you to challenge the validity of theological creationism and evolution whilst substantiating a strong position on intelligent design and extraterrestrial intervention

Directory of World Cinema: Africa Sheila Petty, 2014-01-01 Eschewing the postcolonial hubris that suggests Africa could only define itself in relation to its colonizers a problem plaguing many studies published in the West on African cinema this entry in the Directory of World Cinema series instead looks at African film as representing Africa for its own sake values and artistic choices With a film industry divided by linguistic heritage African directors do not have the luxury of producing comedies thrillers horror films or even love stories except perhaps as DVDs that do not travel far outside their country of production Instead African directors tend to cover serious sociopolitical ground even under the cover of comedy in the hopes of finding funds outside Africa Contributors to this volume draw on filmic representations of the continent to consider the economic role of women rural exodus economic migration refugees and diasporas culture religion and magic as well as representations of children music languages and symbols A survey of national cinemas in one volume Directory of World Cinema Africa is a necessary addition to the bookshelf of any cinephile and world traveller The Last Lost World Lydia Pyne, Stephen J. Pyne, 2012-06-14 An enlightening investigation of the Pleistocene's dual character as a geologic time and as a cultural idea The Pleistocene is the epoch of geologic time closest to our own It's a time of ice ages global migrations and mass extinctions of woolly rhinos mammoths giant ground sloths and not least early species of Homo It's the world that created ours But outside that environmental story there exists a parallel narrative that describes how our ideas about the Pleistocene have emerged This story explains the place of the Pleistocene in shaping intellectual culture and the role of a rapidly evolving culture in creating the idea of the Pleistocene and in establishing its dimensions This second story addresses how the epoch its Earth shaping events and its creatures both those that survived and those that disappeared helped kindle new sciences and a new origins story as the sciences split from the humanities as a way of looking at the past Ultimately it is the story of how the dominant creature to emerge from the frost and fire world of the Pleistocene came to understand its place in the scheme of things A remarkable synthesis of science and history The Last Lost World describes the world that made our modern one Hollywood and Africa Opio Dokotum, 2020-02-05 Hollywood and Africa recycling the Dark Continent myth from 1908 2020 is a study of over a century of stereotypical Hollywood film productions about Africa It argues that the myth of the Dark Continent continues to influence Western cultural productions about Africa as a cognitive based system of knowledge especially in history literature and film Hollywood and Africa identifies the colonial mastertext of the Dark Continent mythos by providing a historiographic genealogy and context for the terms development and consolidation An array of literary and paraliterary film adaptation theories are employed to analyse the deep genetic strands of Hollywood Africa film adaptations The mutations of the Dark Continent mythos across time and space are then tracked through the classical neoclassical and new wave HollywoodAfrica phases in order to illustrate how Hollywood productions about Africa recycle revise reframe reinforce transpose interrogate and even critique these tropes of Darkest Africa while sustaining the colonial mastertext and rising cyberactivism against Hollywoods whitewashing of African history

Transgressing Boundaries. Elizabeth F. Oldfield, 2013 Fictions written between 1939 and 2005 by indigenous and white post colonial women writers emerging from an African European cultural experience form the focus of this study Their voyages into the European diasporic space in Africa are important for conveying how African women's literature is situated in relation to colonialism Notwithstanding the centrality of African literature in the new postcolonial literatures in English the accomplishments of the indigenous writer Grace Ogot have been eclipsed by the critical attention given to her male counterparts while Elspeth Huxley Barbara Kimenye and Marjorie Oludhe Macgoye who are of Western cultural provenance but adopt an African perspective are not accommodated by the genre of expatriate literature. The present study of both indigenous and white post colonial women's narratives that are common to both categories fills this gap. Focused on the representation of gender identity culture and the Other, the texts selected are set in Kenya and Uganda and a main concern is with the extent to which they are influenced by setting and intercultural influences. The African woman's creation of textuality is at once the expression of female individualities and a transgression of boundaries. The particular category of fiction for children as written by Kimenye and Macgoye reveals the configuration of a voice and identity for the female Other and writer which enables a subversive renegotiation of identity in the face of patriarchal traditions.

Religion and Politics in South Africa Abdulkader Tayob, Wolfram Weisse, Contemporary India and South Africa Sujata Patel, Tina Uys, 2013-11-12. This book deals with the legacies of the Indian experiences of migration and diaspora in South Africa. It highlights the social imaginaries of the migrants and citizens as they negotiate between a reconstructed notion of India and their real present and future in the country of citizenship. Both South Africa and India have had a long history of group based identity movements against exploitation around caste and race intersecting with class, gender, language, religion and region. The combined history has allowed them to participate in novel ways in the global arena as regional powers. The book suggests that the question of identity concerns itself with exploitation and oppression of excluded groups in both countries. The authors are particularly attentive to the manner in which the two democratic states have confronted the challenges of history together with contemporary demands of inclusion and discuss the dilemmas involved in resolving them. The volume also raises questions regarding future roles especially in the fields of education and the environment. It will be of interest to those in the fields of sociology, political science, international relations, history, migration and diaspora studies as well as to the general reader.
