

Autobiographical Narrative In My Life

Autobiographical Narrative

An incident that occurred in my life was accepting Jesus into it. This to me was a great achievement, because it made me a better person. Growing up I always went to church on Sundays, it made your momma happy and kept you out of trouble for a few hours. I never payed attention, I just bowed when it was time to pray and stand when it was time to worship. As I was growing older, I had started moving away a little towards going to church and just did me. Was it my best idea, no. But at the time, I thought it was. I always got in trouble church or not. I was always a low-key kind of person. Just did me, and try not to get myself in deeper waters then I am already in. I always kept to myself unless someone wanted to...show more content...

I already got money on my head, and came close to my afterlife. Right when I thought things couldn't get worse I had to take in my niece, because her daddy couldn't take care of her. Me and my momma parted ways because of the stress, so I was out on the streets. Life for me couldn't become lower, Romans 8:28 reminds us that "all things work together for good." That's an easy verse to believe when the sun is shining, but it's something else entirely in the darkness of tragedy. I was living with my friend's time to time, but I didn't want to be a burden so I just did me. At my lowest I asked God for his mercy and grace. It wouldn't hurt asking for some help from him, so I did. I started going to church, trying to get right with myself. Gaining knowledge in the Lord, and understanding the word. I reaccepted Christ into my life and started thinking positive about the bad that has happened. Suffering applies a force that either pushes us away from God or pulls us toward him. If we base our faith on the lack of sickness, your faith lives on the edge of extinction and will fall apart easily. It took me at my worst, but God knew that was the best time to show his love. God blesses us not by what we do, but by the attitude we do it with. Even David, a man after God's own heart, was quite sinful (seduction, murder...) yet God blessed him. Why? Because David always returned to God, asking forgiveness, praising God's mercy. God knows we are
