Nurses on the Move Mireille Kingma, 2018-07-05 South African nurses care for patients in London hospitals recruit Filipino nurses to Los Angeles and Chinese nurses practice their profession in Ireland In every industrialized country of the world patients today increasingly find that the nurses who care for them come from a vast array of countries In the first book on international nurse migration Mireille Kingma investigates one of today's most important health care trends The personal stories of migrant nurses that fill this book contrast the nightmarish existences of some with the successes of others Health systems in industrialized countries now depend on nurses from the developing world to address their nursing shortages This situation raises a host of thorny questions What causes nurses to decide to migrate Is this migration voluntary or in some way coerced When developing countries are faced with nurse vacancy rates of more than 40 percent is recruitment by industrialized countries fair play in a competitive market or a new form of colonialization What happens to these workers and the patients left behind when they migrate What safeguards will protect nurses and the patients they find in their new workplaces Highlighting the complexity of the international rules and regulations now being constructed to facilitate the lucrative trade in human services Kingma presents a new way to think about the migration of skilled health sector labor as well as the strategies needed to make migration work for individuals patients and the health systems on which they depend

Migration, Education and Socio-Economic Mobility Nitya Rao, 2014-06-11 The primacy of education in development agendas is unquestioned With the gradual acknowledgement of the potential benefits that migration can hold for development the relationship between migration and education is a growing area of research Migration Education and Socio Economic Mobility explores how the decisions people make in terms of both their migration choices and educational investments mediated as they are by gender class caste and nationality can potentially contribute to earning incomes building social and symbolic capital or reshaping gender relations all elements contributing to the process of economic and social mobility Much of the existing literature examining the links between migration and education focuses either on the investment of migrant remittances in the education of their children back home or on brain drain that refers to the migration of skilled workers from the developing to the developed world Most of these discussions are firmly rooted in materialist arguments and while undeniably important tend to underplay the social processes through which migration and education interact to shape people's lives identities and status in society Along with economic security people also aspire to social mobility and status enhancement The ideas presented in this book take a more varied and nuanced view of the relationship between education and migration This book was originally published as a special issue of Compare A Journal of Comparative and International Education

Applying Linguistics in Illness and Healthcare Contexts Zsófia Demjén, 2020-04-16 All aspects of illness and healthcare are mediated by language. Experiences of illness, death and healthcare provision are talked and written about face to face or online while medical consultations, research interviews, public health communications and even some diagnostic instruments are all inherently linguistic in nature. How we talk to about and for each other in such a sensitive context has consequences for our relationships our sense of self how we understand and reason about our health as well as for the quality care we receive Yet linguistic analysis has been conspicuously absent from the mainstream of medical education health communication training and even the medical or health humanities The chapters in this volume bring together applied linguistic work using discourse analysis corpus methods conversation analysis metaphor analysis cognitive linguistics multiculturalism research interactional sociolinguistics narrative analysis and im politeness to make sense of a variety of international healthcare contexts and situations These include clinician patient interactions receptionist patient interactions online support forums online counselling public health communication media representations medical accounts diagnostic tools and definitions research interviews with doctors and patients The volume demonstrates how linguistic analysis can not only improve understandings of the lived experience of different illnesses but also has implications for communications training disease prevention treatment and self management the effectiveness of public health messaging access to appropriate care professional mobility and professional terminology among others

The Question of Skill in Cross-Border Labour Mobilities Gracia Liu-Farrer,Brenda S.A. Yeoh,Michiel Baas,2023-03-31 Selecting migrants based on skill has become a widely practised migration policy in many countries around the world Since the late 20th century research on skilled and highly skilled migration has raised important questions about the value and ethics of skill based labour mobility More recent research has begun to question the concept of skill and skill categorisation in both government policy and academic research Taking the view that skills are socially constructed categories and highly malleable concepts in practice this edited volume centres the discussion on the following questions Who are the arbitrators of skill What constitutes skill And how is skill constructed in the migration process and in turn how does skill affect the mobility The empirical studies in this volume show that diverse actors are involved in the process of identifying evaluating and shaping migrant skill The interpretation of migrants skill is frequently distorted by their ascriptive characteristics such as race ethnicity gender and nationality reflecting the influence of colonial legacy global inequality as well as social stratification Finally this edited volume emphasises the complex and frequently reciprocal relationship between skill and mobility This book will be of interest to researchers and advanced students of Sociology Human Geography Politics Social Anthropology Economics and Social Work It was originally published as a special issue of intra EU such as UK France Switzerland Germany and Spain but also into countries with historical links such as the USA and Canada and to Portuguese speaking countries such as Brazil Angola and Mozambique as well as the processes of return In addition to the dynamics of movement the book provides an in depth analysis of the heterogeneity of this emigration It deepens the multifaceted identities concerning social and professional pathways among highly skilled and less skilled emigrants The labour market continues to be the main regulatory force of Portuguese emigration which helps to explain the outflow and the processes of settlement and return Nonetheless this book demonstrates that non economic factors have likewise been of great importance in the decision to emigrate As such this book will be a valuable read to policy makers students and scholars in migration
