Literature Search National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1984 Promoting Healthy Aging Across the Lifespan Elena Carrillo-Alvarez, Miriam Rodriguez-Monforte,Jordi Vilaró, Katherine Simone McGilton,2024-12-26 Worldwide there is a generalized trend toward aged societies Between 2015 and 2050 the proportion of the world s population over 60 years will nearly double from 12% to 22% As life expectancy continues to increase and natality rates lower not only the composition of countries will change but also its health landscape However an increased life expectancy does not necessarily mean a healthy life In most high income countries more than 20% of those years are lived in ill health due to chronic conditions caused by non communicable diseases which compromises functional ability and well being key components of healthy aging In this way not only people s lives but also societal structures are being affected Based on the life course approach to healthy aging aging starts from conception In this regard the promotion of healthy aging requires preventive strategies that enhance capacities during growth and development maintain them for as long as possible after maturity and slow down their rate of decline Moreover considering healthy aging across the lifespan entails focusing on different factors life opportunities and choices that might significantly influence health status lifestyle as well as health and social inequalities in older age and challenges the focus of most research on the topic which exclusively investigates the effect of influences operating in the later stages of life APAIS 1994: Australian public affairs information service ,

Metabolic Diseases and Healthy Aging: Prevention and Public Health Policy Based on Risk Factors Yun Gao ,Xiao Tan,Xiaohan Tanner Zhang,2024-11-06 Healthy aging is defined as the process of developing and maintaining the functional ability that enables well being in older age As population aging accelerates rapidly worldwide healthy aging has become a major public health challenge However in later life several metabolic diseases such as diabetes and hypertension and their complications cardiovascular and renal diseases et al impose significant barriers to healthy aging These conditions are influenced by various metabolic risk factors such as smoking high calorie diet and obesity Moreover these risk factors can also affect the aging process itself by disrupting the balance of metabolic regulation in the body Therefore understanding the complex interactions between aging and metabolic diseases is essential for improving public health outcomes in older populations This Research Topic aims to explore the links between metabolic risk factors chronic and metabolic diseases and healthy aging We wish to unveil evidence on how to prevent treat and manage metabolic risk factors and diseases in older adults in order to offer recommendations for future research and policy interventions toward healthy aging and public health National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1988
