lifestyle Then came some philosophers and they added not eating meat to the religious rituals so that a person would be proud of being a vegetarian because he was following one particular religious believer and path Many of the religions including Hinduism in the east where they say that vegetarianism is a part of spiritual elevation will be surprised to know that before Hinduism came into existence the people living in that area were definitely meat eaters who enjoyed venison game domesticated poultry and other meat dishes There are many parts of the world where even today the cuisine is totally vegetarian and the people are not meat eaters In many parts of Asia especially in the Indian subcontinent there are areas where people have not eaten meat for millennia because they make do with fruit and vegetables and milk products
