Pacific Asia in the 1990s Masahide Shibusawa, Zakaria Haji Ahmad, Brian Bridges, 2025-03-03
 First published in 1992, Pacific Asia in the 1990s explores the main economic and political trends among the Pacific Asian countries in the second half of the 1980s. It suggests where the potential problems lie and where the opportunities are. This book is an unusual collaborative venture in that it combines the complementary viewpoints of a Japanese author, a Malaysian author, and someone from outside the region. The authors examine the broad patterns of economic interdependence and security linkages both within the region and with external partners, then analyse in detail the political economy of the newly industrializing economies, the patterns of complementarity and competition in Southeast Asia, the dilemma of reform or retrenchment facing China and the smaller regional socialist states, and the paradoxes of Japan's attempts to define its role in the region and the world.

Climate Change and Displacement Jane McAdam, 2010-09-06
 Environmental migration is not new. Nevertheless, the events and processes accompanying global climate change threaten to increase human movement both within states and across international borders. The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change has predicted an increased frequency and severity of climate events such as storms, cyclones, and hurricanes, as well as longer-term sea level rise and desertification, which will impact upon people's ability to survive in certain parts of the world. This book brings together a variety of disciplinary perspectives on the phenomenon of climate-induced displacement. With chapters by leading scholars in their field, it collects in one place a rigorous holistic analysis of the phenomenon, which can better inform academic understanding and policy development alike. Governments have not been prepared to take a leading role in developing responses to the issue in large part due to the absence of strong theoretical frameworks from which sound policy can be constructed. The specialist expertise of the authors in this book means that each chapter identifies key issues that need to be considered in shaping domestic, regional, and international responses, including the complex causes of movement, the conceptualisation of migration responses to climate change, the terminology that should be used to describe those who move, and attitudes to migration that may affect decisions to stay or leave. The book will help to facilitate the creation of principled, research-based responses and establish climate-induced displacement as an important aspect of both the climate change and global migration debates.

The Trans-Pacific Partnership and Canada Scott Sinclair,Stuart Trew,2016-10-01 The Trans Pacific Partnership with its twelve participating countries on three continents is the largest regional trade and investment agreement that Canada has ever negotiated It is also one of the most controversial for good reason Negotiations ended exactly a year ago in October 2015 and the TPP was signed in New Zealand in February 2016 But there is no guarantee it will ever come into effect Opposition to the TPP is strongest in the United States where both 2016 presidential nominees vowed to kill or significantly renegotiate the deal Outgoing President Barack Obama characterized the TPP as a Made in America deal in the hope of getting it passed into law shortly after the November presidential election But is what is good for corporate America good for Canada In this book experts in a dozen policy areas explain what the impact of the TPP agreement would be on Canada Many of the key issues they explore have received little media coverage notably the effect of the TPP on environmental protection health care and other public services Canada s cultural industries the labour market human rights and the democratic decision making process generally Perhaps most controversially the TPP would expand the rights of multinational corporations to sue governments for policies and decisions that interfere with their profits Most public commentary on the TPP in Canada has come from CEOs and business lobbyists with a vested interest in furthering a free trade model that impoverishes democracy and weakens our ability to shape public interest regulation The expert contributors to this book drawn from academia the labour movement and NGO world offer an independent and nuanced account of the real but underreported costs of the TPP
