Hollywood Exile, or How I Learned to Love the Blacklist Bernard Gordon, 2013-04-15 In this memoir the American screenwriter recounts his time spent on the Hollywood blacklist in the mid twentieth century The Hollywood blacklist which began in the late 1940s and ran well into the 1960s ended or curtailed the careers of hundreds of people accused of having ties to the Communist Party Bernard Gordon was one of them In this highly readable memoir he tells an engrossing insider's story of what it was like to be

blacklisted and how he and others continued to work uncredited behind the scenes writing and producing many box office hits of the era Gordon describes how the blacklist cut short his screenwriting career in Hollywood and forced him to work in Europe Ironically though his is a success story that includes the films El Cid 55 Days at Peking The Thin Red Line Krakatoa East of Java Day of the Triffids Earth vs the Flying Saucers Horror Express and many others He recounts the making of many movies for which he was the writer and or producer with wonderful anecdotes about stars such as Charlton Heston David Niven Sophia Loren Ava Gardner and James Mason directors Nicholas Ray Frank Capra and Anthony Mann and the producer studio head team of Philip Yordan and Samuel Bronston Gordon's story is one of triumphing over adversity as he managed to make a decent living and live a rather exotic life peopled with colourful characters while maintaining his moral integrity It's an inspiring fascinating read Reel Ink Gordon never pulls his punches in this anecdotal autobiography filled with intimate details and vivid novelistic passages A born storyteller he writes with warmth and humor and there's an emotional edge to his razor sharp recall Publishers Weekly Trotsky, The Passionate Revolutionary Allan Todd, 2022-09-15 Although Trotsky was dramatically assassinated just over eighty years ago he remains a controversial figure He has had many biographers over the decades ranging from the overly sympathetic to the extremely hostile Robert Service his most recent biographer expressed the hope that his book would finish off Trotsky a job he believed the ice axe had failed to do in 1940 This biography as expected deals with those aspects for which Trotsky is noted his passionate and fiery oratory which captivated and inspired huge crowds organising the Bolshevik Revolution of November 1917 masterminding the creation of the Red Army and ensuring its victory during the Civil War becoming the most determined opponent of Stalin's creation of a monolithic party and state being a Marxist theoretician of socialist revolution and combatting fascism and of course being the originator of the very specific brand of revolutionary socialism that as early as 1906 became known as Trotskyism However this biography also explores other aspects of Trotsky's life which are not so well known In particular from a very early age his love of writing the world of books and publishing became his first passion it remained his first love and if revolutionary politics had not taken over his life would have been a very literary one Immediately after the November Revolution he hoped to return to his literary work believing his main practical work as a revolutionary was over His writings on art and literature when compared to the stultifying strictures of the Socialist Realism associated with Stalinism are remarkably sympathetic and open while he also wrote many perceptive articles as a war correspondent covering both the Balkan Wars and the early stages of the First World War Other aspects covered by this biography concern his family life and his relationships with his children Also explored is his love life while it is known he had a brief affair with the Mexican artist Frida Kahlo there are also suggestions he may have had other affairs Whatever the truth of such allegations he certainly maintained a passionate relationship with his long term companion Natalya Sedova and readers should be aware that one proof of that provided towards the end of this book contains very explicit language Making Way for Genius Kathleen Kete, 2012-05-29

Examining the lives and works of three iconic personalities Germaine de Staël, Stendhal, and Georges Cuvier, Kathleen Kete creates a groundbreaking cultural history of ambition in post-Revolutionary France. While in the old regime the traditionalist view of ambition prevailed—that is, ambition as morally wrong unless subsumed into a corporate whole—the new regime was marked by a rising tide of competitive individualism. Greater opportunities for personal advancement, however, were shadowed by lingering doubts about the moral value of ambition. Kete identifies three strategies used to overcome the ethical burden of ambition: romantic genius (Staël), secular vocation (Stendhal), and post-mythic destiny (Cuvier). In each case, success would seem to be driven by forces outside one's control. She concludes by examining the still relevant and still unresolved conundrum of the relationship of individual desires to community needs, which she identifies as a defining characteristic of the modern world.

Liberty, Fraternity, Exile Matthew J. Smith, 2014-10-20 In this moving microhistory of nineteenth-century Haiti and Jamaica, Matthew J. Smith details the intimate connections that illuminate the conjoined histories of both places after slavery. The frequent movement of people between Haiti and Jamaica in the decades following emancipation in the British Caribbean brought the countries into closer contact and influenced discourse about the postemancipation future of the region. In the stories and genealogies of exiles and politicians, abolitionists and diplomats, laborers and merchants, and mothers, fathers, and children, Smith recognizes the significance of nineteenth-century Haiti to regional development. On a broader level, Smith argues that the history of the Caribbean is bound up in the shared experiences of those who crossed the straits and borders between the islands just as much as in the actions of colonial powers. Whereas Caribbean historiography has generally treated linguistic areas separately and emphasized relationships with empires, Smith concludes that such approaches have obscured the equally important interactions among peoples of the Caribbean.

Born in Exile George Gissing, 2024-01-02 Born in Exile through George Gissing delves into the complexities of social and personal identity in overdue 19th-century England. The novel follows the existence of Osmond Waymark, a talented, however impoverished, trainee as he navigates the demanding situations of sophistication, mobility, and intellectual ambition. Osmond unearths himself torn among his preference for achievement within the literary global and his growing attraction to Ida Starr, a spirited young woman from a lower social magnificence. As their relationship deepens, Osmond turns into increasingly aware of the rigid social limitations that stand between them, forcing him to confront his very own experience of privilege and entitlement. Set towards the backdrop of London's literary circles and working-magnificence neighborhoods, Born in Exile explores topics of affection, ambition, and social inequality with Gissing's trademark insight and sensitivity. The novel offers a thought-frightening examination of the tensions among man or woman aspirations and societal expectations dropping mild at the complexities of Victorian society and the human circumstance Through Osmond s adventure of self discovery and moral reckoning Gissing paints a bright portrait of a society in transition grappling with the challenges of modernity and the enduring legacy of sophistication divisions In love and in exile An historical romance setting in Italian Risorgimento Cristina Contilli, European Writers in Exile Robert C. Hauhart, Jeff Birkenstein, 2018-10-26 European Writers in Exile collects a series of original essays that address the writers universal existential dilemma when viewed through the lens of exile who am I where am I from and what do I write and to whom While we often understand the term exile to refer to writers who have either been forced to leave their home country or region or chosen self exile this term need not be defined so narrowly and the contributors to this volume explore a range of interesting and evolving definitions Various countries in Europe have long been both a refuge for people and writers from many countries and a strife torn region which has forced many to flee within the continent or beyond it The phrase in exile involves writers moving across borders in multiple directions and for multiple reasons including for reasons of duress or personal quest and these themes are addressed and critiqued in these essays This volume naturally examines the cataclysmic and near universal exilic experiences relating to the world wars including essays on Thomas Mann Vladimir Nabokov Hannah Arendt and Leo Strauss Additionally essays address the unique early twentieth century experiences of Emile Zola Franz Kafka Joseph Conrad and James Joyce More contemporary essay subjects include Milan Kundera Norman Manea Eva Hoffman Caryl Phillips and W G Sebald This collection of transnational globalized European literature studies envisions understanding the intersection of our contemporary world and various writers in exile in new cultural historical spatial and epistemological frameworks How does literary production in an increasingly globalized world when seen from exile affect a view back towards a country or region left behind Or conversely how does exile push a writer to look outward to new trans nationalized space s These and other questions are important to investigate Taken in sum European Writers in Exile offers an academically rigorous important and cohesive volume The Passionate Mind of Maxine Greene William F. Passion for Place Book II Anna-Teresa Tymieniecka, 2013-06-29 Among the multiple subliminal passions that inspire our life in innumerable ways literature shows us one that seems to play a particularly penetrating role in human concerns This passion which Tymieniecka calls an esoteric passion finds its projection and crystallization in space it is the esoteric passion for space This subliminal passion investigated through literature allows the philosopher to reach beneath the fallacious separations of nature humanness and the cultural world restoring the wholeness of experience that has become lost in the artificial one sidedness of contemporary approaches confined to language as they are The elemental passion for place is investigated here in the literary fruits of creative imagination

Unravelling from the very depths of the primogenital onto poietic unfolding of life the passion for place is revealed as projecting into the flux of life it is a station of life significance This collection presents papers from two conferences of the International Society of Phenomenology and Literature held in Cambridge MA in 1993 4 Shards of Love María Rosa Menocal, 1994 With the Spanish conquest of Islamic Granada and the expulsion of the Jews from Spain the year 1492 marks the exile from Europe of crucial strands of medieval culture It also becomes a symbolic marker for the expulsion of a diversity in language and grammar that was disturbing to the Renaissance sensibility of purity and stability In rewriting Columbus's narrative of his voyage of that year Renaissance historians rewrote history as was often their practice to purge it of an offending vulgarity The cultural fragments left behind following this exile form the core of Shards of Love as Mar a Rosa Menocal confronts the difficulty of writing their history It is in exile that Menocal locates the founding conditions for philology as a discipline that loves origins and for the genre of love songs that philology reveres She crosses the boundaries both temporal and geographical of 1492 to recover the original medieval culture with its Mediterranean mix of European Arabic and Hebrew poetics The result is a form of literary history more lyrical than narrative and Menocal persuasively demonstrates more appropriate to the Middle Ages than to the revisionary legacy of the Renaissance In discussions ranging from Eric Clapton's adaption of Nizami's Layla and Majnun to the uncanny ties between Jim Morrison and Petrarch Shards of Love deepens our sense of how the Middle Ages is tied to our own age as it expands the history and meaning of what we call Romance philology Collected Poems, 1948-1984 Derek Walcott, 1986 Book includes poems selected by the poet a man who has won the Nobel prize in literature French News, 1957 English Benedictine nuns in exile in the seventeenth century Laurence Lux-Sterritt, 2017-03-24 This study of English Benedictine nuns is based upon a wide variety of original manuscripts including chronicles death notices clerical instructions texts of spiritual guidance but also the nuns own collections of notes It highlights the tensions between the contemplative ideal and the nuns personal experiences illustrating the tensions between theory and practice in the ideal of being dead to the world It shows how Benedictine convents were both cut off and enclosed yet very much in touch with the religious and political developments at home but also proposes a different approach to the history of nuns with a study of emotions and the senses in the cloister delving into the textual analysis of the nuns personal and communal documents to explore aspect of a lived spirituality when the body which so often hindered the spirit at times enabled spiritual experience
