Past Caring:

Past Caring Robert Goddard, 2008-05-20 At a lush villa on the sun soaked island of Madeira Martin Radford is given a second chance His life ruined by scandal Martin holds in his hands the leather bound journal of another ruined man former British cabinet minister Edwin Strafford What's more Martin is being offered a job to return to England and investigate the rise and fall of Strafford an ambitious young politician whose downfall in 1910 is as mysterious as the strange deaths that still haunt his family Martin is intrigued by Strafford's story by the man's overwhelming love for a beautiful suffragette by her inexplicable rejection of him and their love affair's political repercussions But as he retraces Strafford's ruination Martin realizes that Strafford did not fall by chance he was pushed Suddenly Martin who has not cared for many people in his life cares desperately about a man's mysterious death and a family's terrible secret about a love beyond reckoning and betrayal beyond imagining Most of all Martin cares because the story he is uncovering is not yet over and among the men and women still caught in its web Martin himself may be the most vulnerable of all Past Caring R. interdisciplinary work political theorist Mihaela Mihai tackles several interrelated questions How do societies remember histories of systemic violence Who is excluded from such histories cast of characters And what are the political costs of selective remembering in the present Building on insights from political theory social epistemology and feminist and critical race theory Mihai argues that a double erasure often structures hegemonic narratives of complex violence of widespread heterogeneous complicity and of impure resistances not easily subsumed to exceptionalist heroic models In dialogue with care ethicists and philosophers of art she then suggests that such narrative reductionism can be disrupted aesthetically through practices of mnemonic care that is through the hermeneutical labor that critical artists deliver thematically and formally within communities space of meaning Empirically the book examines both consecrated and marginalized artists who tackled the memory of Vichy France communist Romania and apartheid South Africa Despite their specificities these contexts present us with an opportunity to analyze similar mnemonic dynamics and to recognize the political impact of dissenting artistic production Crossing disciplinary boundaries the book intervenes in debates over collective responsibility historical injustice and the aesthetics of violence within political theory memory studies social epistemology and transitional justice

Who's in Charge Here? Noel Epstein, 2004-09-27 Few Americans are aware that their nation long ago created a separate government for education supposedly to shield it from political interference Some experts believe that at the heart of today's school debates is a push to put the larger government presidents governors mayors in the drivers seat or even to dump democratic school governance entirely The results are mixed One clear result however is a vexing tangle of authority and accountability Whos in Charge Here untangles it all

Teaching History for the Common Good Keith C. Barton, Linda S. Levstik, 2004-07-13 In Teaching History for the Common Good Barton and Levstik present a clear overview of competing ideas among educators historians politicians and the public about the nature and purpose of teaching history and they evaluate these debates in light of current research on students historical thinking In many cases disagreements about what should be taught to the nation s children and how it should be presented reflect fundamental differences that will not easily be resolved A central premise of this book though is that systematic theory and research can play an important role in such debates by providing evidence of how students think how their ideas interact with the information they encounter both in school and out and how these ideas differ across contexts Such evidence is needed as an alternative to the untested assumptions that plague so many discussions of history education The authors review research on students historical thinking and set it in the theoretical context of mediated action an approach that calls attention to the concrete actions that people undertake the human agents responsible for such actions the cultural tools that aid and constrain them their purposes and their social contexts They explain how this theory allows educators to address the breadth of practices settings purposes and tools that influence students developing understanding of the past as well as how it provides an alternative to the academic discipline of history as a way of making decisions about teaching and learning the subject in schools Beyond simply describing the factors that influence students thinking Barton and Levstik evaluate their implications for historical understanding and civic engagement They base these evaluations not on the disciplinary study of history but on the purpose of social education preparing students for participation in a pluralist democracy Their ultimate concern is how history can help citizens engage in collaboration toward the common good In Teaching History for the Common Good Barton and Levstik discuss the contribution of theory and research explain the theory of mediated action and how it guides their analysis and describe research on children s and adults knowledge of and interest in history lay out a vision of pluralist participatory democracy and its relationship to the humanistic study of history as a basis for evaluating the perspectives on the past that influence students learning explore four principal stances toward history identification analysis moral response and exhibition review research on the extent to which children and adolescents understand and accept each of these and examine how the stances might contribute to or detract from participation in a pluralist democracy address six of the principal tools of history narrative structure stories of individual achievement and motivation national narratives inquiry empathy as perspective taking and empathy as caring and review research and conventional wisdom on teachers knowledge and practice and argue that for teachers to embrace investigative multi perspectival approaches to history they need more than knowledge of content and pedagogy they need a guiding purpose that can be fulfilled only by these approaches and preparation for participatory democracy provides such purpose Teaching History for the Common Good is essential reading for history and social studies professionals researchers teacher educators and students as well as for policymakers parents and members of the general public who are interested in history education or in students thinking and learning about the subject

Archaeologies of the Heart Kisha Supernant, Jane Eva Baxter, Natasha Lyons, Sonya Atalay, 2020-02-13 Archaeological practice is currently shifting in response to feminist indigenous activist community based and anarchic critiques of how archaeology is practiced and how science is used to interpret the past lives of people Inspired by the calls for a different way of doing archaeology this volume presents a case here for a heart centered archaeological practice Heart centered practice emerged in care based disciplines such as nursing and various forms of therapy as a way to recognize the importance of caring for those on whom we work and as an avenue to explore how our interactions with others impacts our own emotions and heart Archaeologists are disciplined to separate mind and heart a division which harkens back to the origins of western thought The dualism between the mental and the physical is fundamental to the concept that humans can objectively study the world without being immersed in it Scientific approaches to understanding the world assume there is an objective world to be studied and that humans must remove themselves from that world in order to find the truth An archaeology of the heart rejects this dualism rather we see mind body heart and spirit as inextricable An archaeology of the heart provides a new space for thinking through an integrated responsible and grounded archaeology where there is care for the living and the dead acknowledges the need to build responsible relationships with communities and with the archaeological record and emphasize the role of rigor in how work and research is conducted The contributions bring together archaeological practitioners from across the globe in different contexts to explore how heart centered practice can impact archaeological theory methodology and research throughout the discipline Cheyenne Captive Georgina Gentry, 2014-05-16 A beautiful blonde runaway falls for a handsome Native American captor in this epic historical romance series opener from a beloved author SCANDALOUS THOUGHTS When headstrong golden haired Summer ran away from home all she could think of was leaving her strict father behind But after a vengeance seeking Indian attacked her stage threatening her with a fate worse than death the tempestuous girl yearned for her parents overbearing rules until the savage's cruel grip changed to a tantalizing touch His sensuous caress banished all ties to the past the exciting things he did with his lips made her yearn for an unknown fulfillment From that moment the spirited innocent knew that her future was bound to his and she'd cherish whatever relationship the uncivilized brave decided to have with her FORBIDDEN DESIRES From the years he was forced to live in Texas the handsome half breed Iron Knife knew how deceptive palefaces could be Surely this creamy skinned blue eyed beauty was no different But even as he tried to brutally punish her for her heritage he was ensnared by the hip length strands of wheat hued tresses enchanted by the firm curves of her nubile white body Before the ruthless warrior could control himself he was whispering of love swearing there'd be no others He could never marry this ignoble slave but he'd sooner slay her than ever give up his bewitching CHEYENNE CAPTIVE One of the finest writers of the decade RT Book Reviews Contemporary Perspectives on Ecofeminism Mary Phillips, Nick Rumens, 2015-11-19 Why is ecofeminism still needed to address the environmental emergencies and challenges of our times Ecofeminism has a chequered history in terms of its popularity and its perceived value in conceptualizing the relationship between gender and nature as well as feeding forms of activism that aim to confront the environmental challenges of the moment This book provides a much needed comprehensive overview of the relevance and value of using eco feminist theories It gives a broad coverage of traditional and emerging eco feminist theories and explores across a range of chapters their various contributions and uniquely spans various strands of ecofeminist thinking The origins of influential eco feminist theories are discussed including key themes and some of its leading figures contributors include Erika Cudworth Greta Gaard Trish Glazebrook and Niamh Moore and outlines its influence on how scholars might come to a more generative understanding of the natural environment The book examines eco feminism's potential contribution for advancing current discussions and research on the relationships between the humans and more than humans that share our world This timely volume makes a distinctive scholarly contribution and is a valuable resource for students and academics in the fields of environmentalism political ecology sustainability and nature resource management Curriculum and the Life Erratic Leslie B. Nissen, 2013-10-30 Curriculum and the Life Erratic The Geographic Cure lays bare the untold damage done to children who are forced to endure the toxic combination of fermented parenting as author Leslie Nissen has termed it and frequent family moves at the hands of alcoholic parents who perpetually seek the elusive Geographic Cure While such parents deceive themselves that in the next new place sobriety will prevail their children know better Alcoholics who chronically uproot their families for a fresh start usually carry along every reason to drink For the school age children of such cure seeking alcoholics the torment of life with a volatile unpredictable and chronically intoxicated parent is intensified by the anguish of being the new kid who changes schools at the whim of the parent Highly mobile children bearing an alarmingly long list of prior schools may be part of a group which Nissen calls Geographic Cure Children whose chances of finding help are nearly non-existent despite their acute need for care The dilemma of this unique subset of Children of Alcoholics is examined via autobiographical psychoanalytic and fictional lenses Nissen also recounts her own urge to hit the road when diagnosed with cancer and explores the Geographic Cure writ large observing how the current testing frenzy and clamor for cures for low test scores dominate educational policy Could teachers panic about accountability cause them to resent new students who appear at their classroom doors mid year Is education encumbered because at the hands of policy makers educators are working the Life Erratic
