Kohut, 2020-04-08 Empathy and the Historical Understanding of the Human Past is a comprehensive consideration of the role of empathy in historical knowledge informed by the literature on empathy in fields including history psychoanalysis psychology neuroscience philosophy and sociology The book seeks to raise the consciousness of historians about empathy by introducing them to the history of the concept and to its status in fields outside of history It also seeks to raise the self consciousness of historians about their use of empathy to know and understand past people Defining empathy as thinking and feeling as imagining one's way inside the experience of others in order to know and understand them Thomas A Kohut distinguishes between the external and the empathic observational position the position of the historical subject He argues that historians need to be aware of their observational position of when they are empathizing and when they are not Indeed Kohut advocates for the deliberate self reflective use of empathy as a legitimate and important mode of historical inquiry Insightful cogent and interdisciplinary the book will be essential for historians students of history and psychoanalysts as well as those in other fields who seek to know and understand human beings Imprisoned by History Martin L. Davies, 2009-12-04 This book analyzes what history does in contemporary culture It argues that contemporary society is in historical terms already historicized shaped by history and thus history loses sight of the world seeing it only as a reflection of its own self image By illustrating the ways in which history enforces socially coercive attitudes and forms of behavior the author argues that history is in itself ideological and exists as an instrument of political power Contending that this ideological function is the normal function of professional academic history he repudiates the conventional view that only biased or bad history is ideological By finding history projecting onto the world and getting reflected back at it the exacting history focused thinking and behavior on which the discipline and the subject rely he concludes that history's very normality and objectivity are inherently compromised and that history works only in terms of its own self interest Discursive Processes of Intergenerational Transmission of Recent History M. Achugar, 2016-04-12 Debates about how to remember politically contested or painful pasts exist throughout the world As with the case of the Holocaust in Europe and Apartheid in South Africa South American countries are struggling with the legacy of state terrorism left by the 1970s dictatorships Coming to terms with the past entails understanding the role different social actors played in those events as well as what those event mean for us today Young people in these situations have to learn about painful historical events over which there is no national consensus This book explores discursive processes of intergenerational transmission of recent history through the case of the Uruguayan dictatorship The main themes of the book are the discursive construction of social memory and intergenerational transmission of contested pasts through recontextualization resemiotization and intertextuality
