Love and Ideology in the Afternoon Laura Stempel Mumford,1995 Why do I like soap operas Laura Stempel Mumford asks and her answer emerges in a feminist analysis of soap opera that participates in current debates about popular culture television and ideology She argues that the conventional daytime soap has an implicit and at times explicit political agenda that cooperates in the teaching of male dominance and the related oppressions of racism classism and heterosexism so that they seem inevitable All My Children General Hospital Another World One Life to Live Days of Our Lives The Young and the Restless a close reading of their texts will also answer some larger questions about television and its place in the broad landscape of popular culture

Real To Reel Jacob Palaparambil,2016-11-25 It is a known fact that in India more than one sixth of women are hooked onto Indian television serials Nowadays these so called serials are taking the place of Indian cinema These shows have attracted a huge number of audiences towards itself and are growing at an alarming rate The mega serials broadcasted all across India depict an ideal woman who has been exploited tortured and suffered for a long time and is shown as an epitome of self righteousness The present study was done with a view to ascertain the responses from men and women about Indian television mega serials and to study the impact of these serials on them Regarding the image and the portrayal of women shown in these serials it can be said that women are mostly projected as housewives or a glamorous figure each time any womans issue or a woman s story is presented two archetypes tend to emerge The stereotype is either that of a young professional beautiful super woman or of a relatively passive and traditional woman living mostly according to the rules set by her man

Television and Postfeminist Housekeeping Elizabeth Nathanson,2013 In this book Nathanson examines how contemporary American television and associated digital media depict women's everyday lives as homemakers, career women and mothers. Her focus on American popular culture from the 1990s through the present reveals two extremes: narratives about women who cannot keep house and narratives about women who only keep house. Nathanson looks specifically at the issue of time in this context and argues that the media constructs panics about domestic time scarcity while at the same time offering solutions for those very panics. Analyzing TV programs such as How Clean is Your House, Up All Night and Supernanny, she finds that media's portrayals of women's time is crucial to understanding definitions of femininity, women's labor and leisure in the postfeminist context. Watching Sympathetic Perpetrators on Italian Television Dana

Renga, 2019-02-11 This book offers the first comprehensive study of recent popular Italian television. Building on work in American television studies, audience and reception theory and masculinity studies, Sympathetic Perpetrators and their Audiences on Italian Television examines how and why viewers are positioned to engage emotionally with and root for Italian television antiheroes. Italy's most popular exported series feature alluring and attractive criminal antiheroes who offer fictionalized accounts of historical events or figures and highlight the routine violence of daily life in the mafia, the police force and the political sphere. Renga argues that Italian broadcasters have made an international name for themselves by presenting dark and violent subjects in formats that are visually pleasurable and for many across the globe highly addictive. Taken as a whole, this book investigates what recent Italian perpetrator television can teach us about television audiences and our viewing habits and preferences. Cosmopolitan Culture and Consumerism in Chick Lit Caroline J. Smith, 2007-12-12

Cosmopolitan Culture and Consumerism in Chick Lit examines the way in which the popular women's fiction genre of the late 1990s, known as chick lit, responds to women's advice manuals such as women's magazines, self-help books, romantic comedies and domestic advice manuals. Feminist Television Criticism: A Reader Brunsdon, Charlotte, Spigel, Lynn, 2007-12-01

Dissidence on Catalan and Spanish Television Series Silvia Grassi, 2016-09-23 Taking as a starting point an interpretation of the television medium as an Ideological State Apparatus, this book examines how gender roles and non-heteronormative sexualities are constructed in Spanish and Catalan television series. In the first part, which focuses on the construction of gender roles in Catalan soap operas, it applies the analytical paradigms founded by Anglo-Saxon feminist scholars for the content of soap operas to a corpus of material which has rarely been analysed through this perspective. In the second part, which focuses on the construction of non-heteronormative sexualities in Spanish and Catalan television series, the book challenges the rhetoric of normalisation and the essentialist paradigms which have so far dominated the examination of the construction of sexuality in television series. As such, this book addresses the role performed by television in the construction of meanings which surround gender issues and non-heteronormative sexualities. This is a timely exercise.

because gender studies and studies of sexual dissidence are fairly recent fields in Spanish and Catalan academia and television has been largely disregarded especially as far as the analysis of characters and storylines is concerned As a result this book represents a major contribution to these fields in the Spanish and Catalan contexts

Surrogacy and the Reproduction of Normative Family on TV Lulu Le Vay, 2019-05-23 This book examines the proliferation of surrogacy storylines on TV exploring themes of infertility motherhood parenting and family It investigates how despite reproductive technologies ability to flex contours of family the shows narratives work to uphold the white heterosexual genetically reproduced family as the ideal In dialogue with responses from a range of female viewers both mothers and non mothers the book scrutinises the construction of family ideology on television with studies including Coronation Street 1960 present Giuliana is homosexuality only acceptable when it echoes heterosexual norms Are female characters only fulfilled when they are genetic mothers Does heterosexual romance override technology in the cure for infertility While the answers to these questions may suggest that television still conforms to heteronormative narratives this book importantly demonstrates that audiences desire alternative happy endings that show infertile female characters more positively and recognise alternative kinship formations as meaningful
