The Identity of Christian Morality Ann Marie Mealey, 2016-03-03 This book argues that moral theology has yet to embrace the recommendations of the Second Vatican

Council concerning the ways in which it is to be renewed One of the reasons for this is the lack of consensus between theologians regarding the nature content and uniqueness of Christian morality After highlighting the strengths and weaknesses of the so called autonomy and faith ethic schools of thought Mealey argues that there is little dividing them and that in some instances both schools are simply defending one aspect of a hermeneutical dialectic In an attempt to move away from the divisions between proponents of the faith ethic and autonomy positions Mealey enlists the help of the hermeneutical theory of Paul Ricoeur She argues that many of the disagreements arising from the Christian proprium debate can be overcome if scholars look to the possibilities opened up by Ricoeur s hermeneutics of interpretation Mealey also argues that the uniqueness of Christian morality is more adequately explained in terms of a specific identity self that is constantly subject to change and revision in light of many often conflicting moral sources She advocates a move away from attempts to explain the uniqueness of Christian morality in terms of one specific unchanging context motivation norm divine command or value By embracing the possibilities opened up by Ricoeurian hermeneutics Mealey explains how concepts such as revelation tradition orthodoxy and moral conscience may be understood in a hermeneutical way without being deemed sectarian or unorthodox

Divine Flesh, Embodied Word Anne-Claire Mulder, 2006 What has Luce Irigaray's statement that women need a God to do with her thoughts on the relation between body and mind or the sensible and the intelligible Using the theological notion incarnation as a hermeneutical key Anne Claire Mulder brings together and illuminates the interrelations between these different themes in Luce Irigaray's work Seesawing between Luce Irigaray's critique of philosophical discourse and her constructive philosophy Mulder elucidates Irigaray's thoughts on the relations between becoming woman and becoming divine She shows that Luce Irigaray's restaging of the relation between the sensible and the intelligible between flesh and Word is key to her reinterpretation of the relation between woman and God In and through her interpretation of Luce Irigaray's thoughts on the flesh she argues that the relation between flesh and Word must be seen as a dialectical one instead of as a dualistic relation This means that incarnation is no longer seen as a one way process of Word becoming flesh but as a continuing process of flesh becoming word and word becoming flesh For all images and thoughts including those of God are produced by the flesh divine in its creativity inexhaustibility in response to the touch of the other And these images thoughts words in turn become embodied by touching and moving the flesh of the subject
