Sutherland, Stephen Fender, 2011-06-01 Love sex death boredom ecstasy existential angst political upheaval the history of literature offers a rich and varied exploration of the human condition across the centuries In this absorbing companion to literature s rich past arranged by days of the year acclaimed critics and friends Stephen Fender and John Sutherland turn up the most inspiring enlightening surprising or curious artefacts that literature has to offer Find out why 16 June 1904 mattered so much to Joyce which great literary love affair was brought to a tragic end on 11 February 1963 and why Roy Campbell punched Stephen Spender on the nose on 14 April 1949 in this sumptuous voyage through the highs and lows of literature s bejewelled past Love's Knowledge Martha C. Nussbaum, 1992-04-02 This volume brings together Nussbaum s published papers on the relationship between literature and philosophy especially moral philosophy The papers many of them previously inaccessible to non specialist readers deal with such fundamental issues as the relationship between style and content in the exploration of ethical issues the nature of ethical attention and ethical knowledge and their relationship to written forms and styles and the role of the emotions in deliberation and self knowledge Nussbaum investigates and defends a conception of ethical understanding which involves emotional as well as intellectual activity and which gives a certain type of priority to the perception of particular people and situations rather than to abstract rules She argues that this ethical conception cannot be completely and appropriately stated without turning to forms of writing usually considered literary rather than philosophical It is consequently necessary to broaden our conception of moral philosophy in order to include these forms Featuring two new essays and revised versions of several previously published essays this collection attempts to articulate the relationship within such a broader ethical inquiry between literary and more abstractly theoretical elements
