National Attributes and Behavior Rudolph J. Rummel,1979      Resources in Education ,1981      14th National Computer Security Conference ,1991      National Choices and International Processes Zeev Maoz,1990-06-29 National Choices and International Processes will be of interest to students and specialists in foreign policy and international relations theory

The Power of Power Politics John A. Vasquez,1998 In this new and much expanded edition of his classic study John Vasquez examines the power of the power politics perspective to dominate inquiry and evaluates its ability to provide accurate explanations of the fundamental forces underlying world politics      International Relations in Contemporary Africa Michael O. Anda,2000 Although developing countries far outnumber fully industrialized states they are often neglected in the study of international relations especially with respect to the development of foreign policy theory International Relations in Contemporary Africa attempts to fill this void in the literature on comparative international relations while at the same time providing a detailed analysis of the economic development and integration of West African countries Michael Anda specifically focuses on the members of the Economic Community of West African States ECOWAS and their policies which encourage coordination on issues ranging from science and technology to diplomacy and mutual defense Tracing the diplomatic history of West Africa from independence to the present he assesses the various dimensions of cooperation among the smaller and less developed states of West Africa while revealing the precarious nature of the economy and security in the region Both detailed and comprehensive International Relations in Contemporary Africa represents a significant contribution to African studies that appeal to those with an interest in the foreign policy of smaller states      Proceedings of the National Outdoor Recreation Trends Symposium III ,1990      Counter-Hegemony and Foreign Policy Randolph B. Persaud,2001-03-29 It is not uncommon for scholars and policy makers to assume that small and dependent states must follow the lead of great or middle powers But is this always the case Drawing on the increasingly influential Gramscian approach to international relations this book shows the ways in which marginalized social forces in Jamaica were mobilized against the hegemonic practices emanating from the global political economy Persaud emphasizes the counter hegemonic cultural activities of these forces as well as the attempt of the Jamaican government to form a global trade union of the poor

Approaches to Long Range Forecasting ,1970      Long-range Forecasting and Planning ,1967      The Origin and Prevention of Major Wars Robert Gilpin,1989-02-24 This analysis of the origins of major wars since the development of the modern state system in Europe centuries ago also considers the problems involved in preventing a contemporary nuclear war

Political Culture and Foreign Policy in Latin America Roland H. Ebel, Ray Taras, James D. Cochrane, 1991-01-01 This book explores the impact of Latin America's political culture on the international politics of the region It offers a general account of traditional Iberian political culture while examining how relations among states in the hemisphere where the United States has been the central actor have evolved over time The authors assess the degree of consistency between domestic and international political behavior The assessments are supported by case studies American National Election Studies Data Sourcebook, 1952-1986 Warren Edward Miller, Santa A. Traugott, Santa Traugott, 1989 Who votes in national elections What are their preferences on issues How important is their party identification How does their demographic profile change over time Reflecting an unbroken record of eighteen studies of voter behavior conducted biennially since 1952 this volume presents data on hundreds of elements influencing voters that will interest political scientists journalists consultants and students of political history The information was obtained from face to face interviews with national full probability samples of all citizens of voting age as part of the University of Michigan National Election Studies conducted by the Center for Political Studies The data provide both an unrivaled occasion to gain a deeper understanding of congressional and presidential elections and a basis for making or challenging broad generalizations about American politics since World War II Major sections include personal characteristics age education gender religion occupation income union membership urbanism race ethnicity partisanship party identification open ended evaluations of parties and candidates issues ideological self placement issue preferences perceptions of economic conditions candidate traits thermometer ratings of individuals and groups voter preferences media exposure and voter turnout and political participation The editors present these attributes in terms of stability and change and the sequence in which the various elements acquire relevance for the voter's choice The book is organized to give time series distributions of data from all items included on three or more studies during the thirty four years covered and presents first level analyses through a logically structured series of bivariate tables It is the only book to include the basic data from National Election Studies National Security In The Third World Abdul-Monem M. Al-Mashat, 2019-03-13 For nations of the Third World national security poses serious dilemmas Unlike Western nations less developed countries must balance the complex and often contradictory requirements of socioeconomic and political development with problems of internal stability and the requirements of national defense For these countries a concept of national's The Foreign Policy and Intervention Behavior of Africa's Middle Powers Olumuyiwa Babatunde Amao, 2023-12-21 Based on a meta theoretical approach and insights derived from analytic eclecticism as a comparative instrument Olumuyiwa Babatunde Amao assesses Nigeria and South Africa's foreign policy and intervention behavior in

Africa with a special focus on the conflict episodes in Sierra Leone 1991 1998 and the Democratic Republic of Congo DRC 1997 2005 The Foreign Policy and Intervention Behavior of Africa s Middle Powers An Analytic Eclecticism Approach explores the relative merits of structural realism and social constructivism in explaining Nigeria and South Africa s motives and intervention behavior and why more than one theoretical perspective is required to sufficiently analyze the complexity of their intervention decisions and behavior It demonstrates the overlapping nexus between conflict intervention structural constraints relative power pursuit and the dynamics of regional complexes Amao demonstrates how Nigeria and South Africa s relative power positions identities as African actors de colonization and anti apartheid struggles and the existing values and bonds that their contiguous states share play a crucial role in their intervention behavior Using Sierra Leone and the DRC as case studies this book illustrates the advantage of applying a multi perspective eclectic approach to foreign policy analysis and provides an alternative to the theoretical turf wars that are all too prevalent in the discipline of international relations

Understanding Conflict and War: War, power, peace Rudolph J. Rummel, 1975      National Saving and Economic Performance John B. Shoven, B. Douglas Bernheim, 2009-02-15 The past decade has witnessed a decline in saving throughout the developed world the United States has the dubious distinction of leading the way The consequences can be serious For individuals their own economic security and that of their families is jeopardized For society inadequate rates of saving have been blamed for a variety of ills decreasing the competitive abilities of American industry slowing capital accumulation increasing our trade deficit and forcing the sale of capital stock to foreign investors at bargain prices Restoring acceptable rates of saving in the United States poses a major challenge to those who formulate national economic policy especially since economists and policymakers alike still understand little about what motivates people to save In National Saving and Economic Performance edited by B Douglas Bernheim and John B Shoven that task is addressed by offering the results of new research with recommendations for policies aimed to improve saving Leading experts in diverse fields of economics debate the need for more accurate measurement of official saving data examine how corporate decisions to retain or distribute earnings affect household level consumption and saving and investigate the effects of taxation on saving behavior correlations between national saving and international investment over time and the influence of economic growth on saving Presenting the most comprehensive and up to date research on saving this volume will benefit both academic and government economists      Inventory of Government-supported Research Projects on Foreign Affairs United States.
