Brown, Cameron D. Siler, Carl H. Oliveros, Luke J. Welton, Ashley Rock, John Swab, Merlijn Van Weerd, Jonah van Beijnen, Edgar Jose, Dominic Rodriguez, Edmund Jose, Arvin C. Diesmos, 2013-02-07 Long celebrated for its more than 7 100 islands the Philippines is a country in Southeast Asia that shares only with Madagascar the distinction of having been designated as both a Megadiverse Nation and a Global Biodiversity Conservation Hotspot The terrestrial vertebrate fauna of the northeastern Philippines specifically Luzon Island has been the subject of intense interest since the first historical explorations Historically

numerous works considered the biodiversity of Luzon as depauperate in the sense that they were presumed to contain a reduced number of species shared with a continental mainland source. This view has persisted until recently when a renewed interest in faunistic studies of the northern Philippines has produced a series of notable discoveries drawing attention to high levels of species diversity and endemism in the northern reaches of the archipelago. We provide the first report on the herpetological biodiversity amphibians and reptiles of the northern Sierra Madre Mountain Range northeast Luzon Island Philippines. We combine new and historical data and the results of recent fieldwork to highlight at least 101 species present in this unique region of the archipelago. Not only is this fauna largely endemic (approximately 70%) but also our results add to a nascent body of literature suggesting that the northern portions of the archipelago may be substantially more diverse than currently appreciated.

Voices from the Forest Malcolm

Cairns,2010-09-30 This handbook of locally based agricultural practices brings together the best of science and farmer experimentation vividly illustrating the enormous diversity of shifting cultivation systems as well as the power of human ingenuity Environmentalists have tended to disparage shifting cultivation sometimes called swidden cultivation or slash and burn agriculture as unsustainable due to its supposed role in deforestation and land degradation However a growing body of evidence indicates that such indigenous practices as they have evolved over time can be highly adaptive to land and ecology In contrast scientific agricultural solutions imposed from outside can be far more damaging to the environment Moreover these external solutions often fail to recognize the extent to which an agricultural system supports a way of life along with a society s food needs They do not recognize the degree to which the sustainability of a culture is intimately associated with the sustainability and continuity of its agricultural system Unprecedented in ambition and scope Voices from the Forest focuses on successful agricultural strategies of upland farmers More than 100 scholars from 19 countries including agricultural economists ecologists and anthropologists collaborated in the analysis of different fallow management typologies working in conjunction with hundreds of indigenous farmers of different cultures and a broad range of climates crops and soil conditions By sharing this knowledge and combining it with new scientific and technical advances the authors hope to make indigenous practices and experience more widely accessible and better understood not only by researchers and development practitioners but by other communities of farmers around the world Defying Ocean's End Linda

Glover,Sylvia Earle,2012-09-26 If humankind were given a mandate to do everything in our power to undermine the earth s functioning we could hardly do a better job than we have in the past thirty years on the world s oceans both by what we are putting into it millions of tons of trash and toxic materials and by what we are taking out of it millions of tons of wildlife Yet only recently have we begun to understand the scale of those impacts Defying Ocean s End is the result of an unprecedented effort among the world s largest environmental organizations scientists the business community media and international governments to address these marine issues In June 2003 in the culmination of a year long effort they met specifically to develop a comprehensive and achievable agenda to reverse the decline in health of the world s oceans As conservation organizations begin to expand their focus from land issues to include a major focus on preservation of the sea it is increasingly apparent that we have to approach marine conservation differently and at much larger scale than we have to date What s also clear is the magnitude and immediacy of the growing ocean concerns are such that no one organization can handle the job alone Defying Ocean s End is a bold step in bringing the resources needed to bear on this vast problem before it is too late It offers a broad strategy a practical plan with priorities and costs aimed at mobilizing the forces needed to bring about a sea change of favorable attitudes actions and outcomes for the oceans and for all of us Bibliography of Southeast Asia Kim See Ch'ng,2003 TheBibliography of Southeast Asia A Decade of Selected Social Science Publications in the English Language 1990 2000 comprises 6 521 entries of published works The selection broadly represents the documentation of the
