General Accounting Office,1998 Legal, Institutional, and Economic Indicators of Forest Conservation and Sustainable Management ,2005 This review looks at the Nation s legal institutional and economic capacity to promote forest conservation and sustainable resource management It focuses on 20 indicators of Criterion Seven of the so called Montreal Process and involves an extensive search and synthesis of information from a variety of sources It identifies ways to fill information gaps and improve the usefulness of several indicators It concludes that there is substantial information about the application of such capacities although that application is widely dispersed among agencies and private interests which in turn has led to differing interpretations of the indicators Individual chapters identify a need to further develop the conceptual foundation on which many of the indicators are predicated While many uncertainties in the type and accuracy of information are brought to light the review clearly indicates that legal institutional and economic capacities to promote sustainability are large and widely available in both the public and private sectors P vi

Who Is Minding the Federal Estate? Holly Lippke

Fretwell,2009-03-16 Sewage seeping into creeks crumbling cabins and disintegrating roads dilapidated visitor centers catastrophic wildfires these are some of the sights awaiting visitors to federal lands today Federal agencies in charge of the public domain call for more support in the form of taxpayer dollars while constantly seeking to add to their holdings environmental groups call for increased restrictions on land use and resource development private citizens call for a return to the good old days of crisply tended crime free and unspoiled national parks All it seems overlook the sad fact that the existing federal estate is in terrible shape badly maintained and managed and with no immediate hope for improvement Will more money more restrictions more regulations address the problems that plague America s public domain No Rather real improvement requires reform of the managing institutions Who Is Minding the Federal Estate is a book intended for any reader with an interest in improving the condition of our public lands It begins by examining the origins of the federal estate which though originally intended to be a temporary clearinghouse now comprises a third of the U S landmass The book describes the evolution of laws governing that estate and of the public conception of wilderness once thought to be abundant and in need of taming now considered to be inviolable and even sacrosanct In non technical prose that draws on economic theory and empirical analysis it systematically investigates patterns of federal land management and more to the point mismanagement The book closes by offering a set of alternatives that will improve stewardship of the federal estate both by incorporating more private initiatives and by freeing those lands from the grasp of politicians who come and go in favor of a sustainable long term management ethic These alternatives come unshackled by policies that lead to disasters such as the recent and ongoing epidemic of massive fires sweeping the forests of t
