

WHAT HAS TO BE DONE(Print this section in bold)

We must pay out way in the world and produce more wealth inside this country. Our target is an increase of a quarter in output by 1970. This is necessary if we are to enjoy the living standards we want, improve our social services and play our part in world affairs.

To achieve our objective action is to be taken on the following eight points.

1. A sharp brake is to be put on Government spending abroad, which has been rising much too quickly.
2. Private investment abroad is to be reduced to a level that we can afford.
3. Government spending in this country will be kept within our means and the money that is available will be spent more in ways that help to improve efficiency. More will be devoted to items like industrial training and technology, while the rise in defence spending will be brought to an end.
4. The Government are working together with managers and trade unionists, to put new zip into British industry. Nearly every industry is making its own plans for improving efficiency, pushing up exports, or saving imports. More help is already being given to exporters and work is going on to encourage longer runs, provide better training for managers and to improve efficiency in other ways.
5. Industry will need to step up its plans for buying more plant and equipment. The Government is looking at the incentives to do so; but firms themselves must look further ahead in making their plans.
6. Agreement has been reached on a policy for productivity, prices and incomes. Employers and trade unionists have undertaken to carry out their part in this policy and the National Board has begun to pronounce on individual cases. If necessary, the policy will be strengthened.
7. A programme is well under way to cover the human effects of industrial change. This includes redundancy compensation, wage-related unemployment benefits, and better industrial training. In return management and unions have promised an all-out effort to get rid of restrictive practices.
8. More work will be brought to those parts of the country where there are still not enough jobs. In providing more industry, transport and housing for a rising population, we aim to build up a country in which it is pleasant to live and work, and where all parts share in the growing prosperity.

The Government have not hesitated to give a lead and to act themselves. But everyone has a part to play in carrying out the National Plan if we want the benefits that its success can bring.

Research Office,1967 The Europe and Soviet Union Agricultural Situation ,1967 External Research List ,1966 External Research United States. Department of State. External Research Division, The City of London and Social Democracy Aled Rhys Davies,2017 The City of London and Social Democracy evaluates the changing relationship between the United Kingdom financial sector the City of London and the post war social democratic State The key argument made in Aled Davies s study is that changes to the British financial system during the 1960s and 1970s undermined a number of the key components of social democratic economic policy practised by the post war British State The institutionalization of investment in pension and insurance funds the fragmentation of an oligopolistic domestic banking system the emergence of an unregulated international capital market centred on London the breakdown of the Bretton Woods international monetary system and the popularization of a City centric anti industrial conception of Britain s economic identity all served to disrupt and undermine the social democratic economic strategy which had attempted to develop and maintain Britain s international competitiveness as an industrial economy since the Second World War These findings assert the need to place the Thatcher governments subsequent economic policy revolution in which a liberal market approach accelerated deindustrialization and saw the rapid expansion of the nation s international financial service industry within a broader material and institutional context previously underappreciated by historians British Planning J. B. Cullingworth,1999-10-01 Brings together Britain s leading analysts of planning to present a review and analysis of planning and policy Covers major issues in contemporary planning reviews the history of post war planning and considers the future for planning covering both policy and its impact on practice Includes case material and bandw photos and plans of houses and buildings Cullingworth is a professor of urban affairs at the University of Delaware and an associate of the Department of Land Economy at the University of Cambridge Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR External Research. ER List United States. Department of State. External Research Division,1966 British Trade Unions, 1945-1995 Chris Wrigley,1997 In this the first full length treatment of the child in Spanish cinema Sarah Wright explores the ways that the cinematic child comes to represent prosthetic memory The central theme of the child and the monster is used to examine the relationship of the self to the past and to cinema Concentrating on films from the 1950s to the present day the book explores religious films musicals art house horror science fiction social realism and fantasy It includes reference to Erice s The Spirit of The Beehive del Toro s Pan s Labyrinth Ma as s El Bola and the Marisol films The book also draws on a century of filmmaking in Spain and intersects with recent revelations concerning the horrors of the Spanish past The child is a potent motif for the loss of historical memory and for its recuperation through cinema This book is suitable for scholars and undergraduates working in the areas of Spanish cinema Spanish cultural studies and cinema studies British Railways 1948-73 T. R. Gourvish, N. Blake, 1986 Originally published in 1986 this is a business history of the first twenty five years of nationalised railways in Britain Commissioned by the British Railways Board and based on the Board s extensive archives it fully analyses the dynamics of nationalised industry management and the complexities of the vital relationship with government After exploring the origins of nationalisation the book deals with the organisation financial performance investment and commercial policies of the British Transport Commission 1948 2 Railway Executive 1948 53 and British Railways Board 1963 73 Calculations of profit and loss investment and productivity are provided on a consistent basis for 1948 73 This business history thus represents a major contribution not only to the debate about the role of the railways in a modern economy but also to that concerning the nationalised industries which have proved to be one of the most enduring problems of the British economy since the war
