National Control Of Foreign Business Entry:

International Business Handbook (RLE International Business) V.H. Kirpalani, 2013-02-15 The focus of the book is understanding international influences that affect international business and relevant aspects of the world environment. These aspects are economic, physical, sociocultural, political, legal, and technological and include the cultures of foreign business organizations. Each chapter is written by an expert in the field who has been involved in international business in that area. The purpose of each chapter is to enable effective performance in the international business arena. An integrated system view of the country or region and how managers can obtain success in that area is provided. Global in its coverage, this book provides information on global trends, different regions, and their consumer cultures and business customs, as well as methods of entry and global strategies.

The Pursuit of Nationalized Property M. Sornarajah, 2024-08-26 Ford and the Global Strategies of Multinationals Maria Isabel Studer Noguez, 2003-08-27 Today the Multinational Enterprise (MNE) is seen as a leading agent in the process of globalization. As they adopt global strategies, MNEs are seen to be creating stronger, deeper, and more lasting links amongst countries, thus shifting the balance of power inexorably in their favour to the detriment of the state. This book interrogates this idea by undertaking a historical analysis of the global strategies of Ford

Transnational Corporations and Regional Economic Integration Peter Robson, 1993 The Role of Multinational Companies in the Middle East Mamarinta P. Mababaya, 2002 This study investigated whether known economic and international business theories available in the literature are meaningful enough to explain the nature, existence, and role of multinational companies (MNCs) in the Middle East, particularly Saudi Arabia. Two sets of questionnaires were distributed in major cities of Saudi Arabia: one set for 100 multinational managers and another for 280 multinational customers. 234 questionnaires were collected: 45 from multinational managers and 189 from customers. This represents a total response rate of 62 percent, which is adequate for this study. The empirical results, supported with comprehensive secondary data, confirmed virtually all of the research hypotheses. The study found that joint ventures are the dominant form of multinational business in Saudi Arabia, both in manufacturing and service industries. The core roles of MNCs in the Saudi foreign ventures are evident in the cross-border value-adding activities of marketing, trading, manufacturing, consulting, contracting, project management, insurance, hotel operation, and banking. Likewise, MNCs provide licensing, franchising, financing services, and various auxiliary roles in the Kingdom. Therefore, the multinationality of a firm or a group of firms operating across national boundaries is not necessarily synonymous with international production, the main subject of contemporary multinational theories. The respondents generally perceived the competitiveness of MNCs operating in Saudi Arabia as a function of a number of economic, management, marketing, technological, and other variables. They also perceived the contributions of MNCs to the Kingdom's socio-economic developments as significant and positive. The study also found that understanding Islamic values and ethics is important for MNCs. In this regard, the researcher looked at some objective indicators of business success and related them to selected measures of MNCs local cultural awareness and responsiveness. The results indicate that the business success of multinationals operating in Saudi Arabia is positively related to their local cultural awareness and responsiveness. Along this line, this study covers some vital elements of Islamic culture which will help MNCs understand further the cultural needs, values and sensitivities of the Saudi people and Muslims in general.

Multinationals in Canada: Theory, Performance and Economic Impact A.M. Rugman, 2013-03-09. Multinational enterprises have become one of the distinctive institutions of our times. Controversy over their economic and political effects and over appropriate public policy responses has become common in home and host countries and in international agencies. Much of this debate is reminiscent of the role of large corporations generally, particularly in their interregional and intergroup effects. The multinational setting, however, would have raised distinctive issues even apart from the strong surges of nationalism and anti-imperialism which have marked recent history. Canada has a long and unusual experience with such enterprises. Foreign control of capital in the nonfinancial industries—manufacturing, petroleum and gas, other mining and smelting, utilities, merchandising—was already 20 percent in 1930 and 25 percent in 1948. It rose to 36 percent by the late 1960s but has since receded to about 30 percent. In 1975, fully 55 percent of the capital in manufacturing was controlled outside Canada, as was 72 per cent of that in petroleum and gas and 58 percent in other mining. These figures exceed those of other developed countries, although there have been striking increases in recent decades. About 80 percent of the direct investment capital in Canada is from the United States. Recently, Canadians have become aware of a surge of Canadian direct investment abroad which, on a flow basis, has exceeded inflows exclusive of retained earnings for most of the 1970s.

Multinationals in Latin America Robert Grosse, 2013-10-11. Multinational enterprises are particularly strong in Latin America and sensitive to political and economic changes there. The currently emerging debt crisis is likely to have far-ranging effects. This book considers multinationals in Latin America both those from inside and those from outside the region and discusses the major issues relating to them, e.g. transnational regulation and the government-business relationships. It sets the discussions against the background of other work and theories of multinational enterprise. Novel features include the development of the author's bargaining theory of multinational enterprise and the attempt to create a systematic method for evaluating MNE acceptability for host governments, an important consideration since the relationship between multinationals and governments, particularly the way a government perceives a multinational, is crucial. The book concludes by assessing current trends and likely future developments.

International Business Success in a Strange Cultural Environment Mamarinta P. Mababaya, 2003. The book focuses on the cultural aspect of the author's published PhD thesis entitled The Role of Multinational Companies in the Middle East: The Case of Saudi Arabia, which he has carried out at the University of Westminster. It explores the success of multinational enterprises doing business in Saudi Arabia vis-à-vis their cultural awareness and responsiveness. The empirical findings discussed in this book reveal that international business success in a strange cultural environment depends partly on the ability of multinational managers to understand the local culture The cultural subject in this book pertains to Islam in its entirety The findings may seem strange to many readers who are not familiar with Islamic culture in its purest form Many newcomers to Saudi Arabia especially non Muslim foreign investors businessmen and workers often find many things strange about the Kingdom its people and cultural values Some feel it odd that many Muslims give more importance to prayer than business Some are disappointed when they find commercial establishments like shopping centres closed as Muslim workers go to the mosques to attend to their daily prayers Business visitors find strange the fact that in the midst of their meetings with their Saudi or Muslim counterparts the latter excuse themselves for prayer They have these strange feelings due to their lack of understanding of true Islamic culture The cultural aspect of this book will help businessmen and concerned institutions worldwide gain understanding of Islam and reconcile their cultural differences with the Muslim world Through this book international companies will be able to have a better understanding of authentic Islamic culture which will help them gain greater competitive advantages in the Saudi marketplace

Private Direct Foreign Investment in Developing Countries Klaus Billerbeck,Y. Yasugi,1979 Knowledge Regulation and National Security in Postwar America Mario Daniels,John Krige,2022-04-25 The first historical study of export control regulations as a tool for the sharing and withholding of knowledge In this groundbreaking book Mario Daniels and John Krige set out to show the enormous political relevance that export control regulations have had for American debates about national security foreign policy and trade policy since 1945 Indeed they argue that from the 1940s to today the issue of how to control the transnational movement of information has been central to the thinking and actions of the guardians of the American national security state The expansion of control over knowledge and know how is apparent from the increasingly systematic inclusion of universities and research institutions into a system that in the 1950s and 1960s mainly targeted business activities As this book vividly reveals classification was not the only and not even the most important regulatory instrument that came into being in the postwar era Exploring the Global Economy Raymond Vernon,1985-08-12 This wide ranging collection of previously published articles by Raymond Vernon reflects a portion of the diverse subjects on which he has worked during his career In the past 20 years the author has pioneered the study of two major economic institutions which have played important roles in today s global economy the multinational corporation and the state owned enterprise His recent thoughts on these subjects are well represented in this volume Co published with the Harvard Center for International Affairs Catalogue of Copyright Entries ,1954
