National Defence Headquarters Centre For Decision:

National Defence Headquarters Douglas Bland, Canada. Department of National Defence. Headquarters, Commission of Inquiry into the Deployment of Canadian Forces to Somalia, 1997 Explores the crucial aspect of civil military relations encompassed in the dynamic between policy making command and administration by focusing on the centre for defence decisions in Canada the National Defence Headquarters Basic concepts concerning civilian control of military forces military command and defence administration are first explained followed by a review of the law and its relation to the Dept of National Defence The following two chapters describe the responsibilities and formal relationships of various decision makers the Minister of National Defence the Chief of Defence Staff and the Deputy Minister the legal aspects of command the operational duties of the Chief of Defence Staff the defence decision making structure and the Defence Headquarters management system The final two chapters review problems with the defence system including overall structures ethics strategy and command and administration along with recommendations for reform of the defence structure Who Guards the Guardians and How Thomas C. Bruneau, Scott D. Tollefson, 2009-06-03 The continued spread of democracy into the twenty first century has seen two thirds of the almost two hundred independent countries of the world adopting this model In these newer democracies one of the biggest challenges has been to establish the proper balance between the civilian and military sectors A fundamental question of power must be addressed who guards the guardians and how In this volume of essays contributors associated with the Center for Civil Military Relations in Monterey California offer firsthand observations about civil military relations in a broad range of regions including Latin America Africa Asia and Eastern Europe Despite diversity among the consolidating democracies of the world their civil military problems and solutions are similar soldiers and statesmen must achieve a deeper understanding of one another and be motivated to interact in a mutually beneficial way The unifying theme of this collection is the creation and development of the institutions whereby democratically elected civilians achieve and exercise power over those who hold a monopoly on the use of force within a society while ensuring that the state has sufficient and qualified armed forces to defend itself against internal and external aggressors Although these essays address a wide variety of institutions and situations they each stress a necessity for balance between democratic civilian control and military effectiveness Another Kind of Justice Chris Madsen, 2000 This text provides insights into military justice in Canada the purpose of military law and the level of professionalism within the Canadian military It describes the statutes and regulations that govern Canada's armed forces and the institutions responsible for overseeing military law "Here Is Hell" Grant Dawson, 2011-11-01 For many Canadians events during the mission to Somalia in the early 1990s remain a stain on our reputation as one of the world's most respected peacekeeping nations Grant Dawson's analysis of political diplomatic and military decision making avoids a narrow focus on the shocking offences of a few Canadian soldiers deftly investigating the broader context of the deployment Dawson draws on interviews with key participants and documents made available under the Access to Information Act He shows how media pressure government optimism about the United Nations and the Canadian traditions of multilateralism and peacekeeping all helped to determine the level length and tenor of the country's operations in Somalia His findings will undoubtedly play a seminal role in informing scholarly debate about this important period in Canadian diplomacy and military engagement One of the first scholarly examinations of the Somalia operation Here Is Hell will interest military and Canadian historians policy analysts political scientists and those concerned with Canadian foreign defence and diplomatic history It will undoubtedly play a seminal role in informing further scholarly debate on this important period in Canada's military and diplomatic past

The Absent Dialogue Anit Mukherjee, 2020 In The Absent Dialogue Anit Mukherjee examines the relations between politicians bureaucrats and the military in India and argues that the pattern of civil military relations in India hampers the effectiveness of the Indian military Informed by more than a hundred and fifty interviews with high ranking officials as well as archival material this book sheds new light on both India's political and military history as well as democratic civilian control and military effectiveness more generally

Total Defence Forces in the Twenty-First Century Joakim Berndtsson, Irina Goldenberg, Stéfanie von Hlatky, 2023-12-15 Total defence as a concept combines and extends military and civil defence in a state of war or emergency all social institutions mobilize to defend the state Total defence forces led by a diverse workforce of defence and security professionals are critical to both national defence and international security goals Total Defence Forces in the Twenty First Century looks at the various groups that make up this workforce members of the military s regular force reservists defence civil servants and contractors working for private military and security companies When civilian staff and military personnel work towards a common goal their distinct professional cultures and identities can make integration challenging Despite the often high levels of partnership underlying differences affect the quality of the collaboration and ultimately organizational and operational effectiveness Defence ministries around the world are increasingly recognizing the importance of optimizing the ways in which they employ and integrate civilian and military personnel This volume focuses on a critical question what are the main challenges to workforce integration and collaboration and how can such challenges be overcome to deliver the full potential of the total defence force Together scholars and practitioners provide some answers

Campaigns for International Security Douglas Bland, Sean M. Maloney, Queen's University (Kingston, Ont.). School of Policy Studies, 2004 After more than ten years of effort by many states to control and redress conflicts in the Balkans Africa the Middle East and elsewhere Canadian political and military leaders are still struggling to adjust defence policies and to build armed forces relevant to the international security situation Canada faces today But the unending demand of what on the surface seem to be disparate operations and the absence of any overarching description of strategic reality confounds these efforts Policies drawn from theories appropriate to the cold war era and classic peacekeeping missions are out of step with the demands of the past ten years and the future and make it difficult to develop new ways of thinking about defence policy and force development to deal with the world we live in In Campaigns for International Stability the authors see a new pattern emerging from ten years of experience and seemingly different operations The post cold war era has been superceded by the stability campaign a continuous diplomatic and military endeavour by states in various types of coalitions to halt conflicts disarm belligerents and police lawless regions around the world to bring peace order and good government to international affairs Armed force and sometimes deadly force is the central and necessary component of this campaign but what type of force and what type of policies are appropriate to this new era The authors address this question in a discussion of defence policy and management in Canada since 1989 and their relation to the needs of the stability campaign They describe policy making in a Canadian context political and other domestic factors that shape Canada s military capabilities and the influence of the defence budgeting process on policy choices Finally the authors set out a new defence policy framework for rebuilding and transforming both policy and the Canadian Armed Forces over the next ten years to meet the challenges of the stability campaign case study addresses a wide range of questions such as the roles of the ministries of finance budget offices audit departments and external actors in the military budgetary processes the extent of compliance with standard public expenditure management procedures and how well official military expenditure figures reflect the true economic resources devoted to military activities in these countries

Trusting Records H. MacNeil, 2013-03-09 A trustworthy record is one that is both an accurate statement of facts and a genuine manifestation of those facts Record trustworthiness thus has two qualitative dimensions reliability and authenticity Reliability means that the record is capable of standing for the facts to which it attests while authenticity means that the record is what it claims to be This study explores the evolution of the principles and methods for determining record trustworthiness from antiquity to the digital age and from the perspectives of law and history It also examines recent efforts undertaken by researchers in the field of archival science to develop methods for ensuring the trustworthiness of records created and maintained in electronic systems Audience The target audience for this study is legal scholars working in the field of evidence law historians working in the field of historical methodology and recordkeeping professionals records managers information technology specialists archivists working on the design and implementation of contemporary organizational recordkeeping systems

Defence Policy of Nigeria: Capability and Context Charles Quarker Dokubo, Celestine Oyom Bassey, 2011-01-20 This Reader provides a structurally coherent explanation and review of the magnified role conception and organizational task expansion for the Nigerian military establishment in foreign policy It argues essentially that one of the most problematic and intractable areas of public policy in Nigeria since the Civil War concerns the development of a professional defence establishment adequate to meet the challenges arising from the altered parameters of our security environment The correction of this condition is the primary motivation of the Armed Forces modernization and augmentation program that touches upon all elements of Nigeria's military power This Reader is at once a review and a critique of the major facets of this modernization and augmentation process of the Nigerian armed forces within the operative context of the changing dimension of threat perception and the strategic parameters that have guided Nigerian military planning since the Civil War in 1970

Russia's Military Modernisation: An Assessment The International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS), 2020-09-29 This new IISS Strategic Dossier examines the recent development of Moscow's armed forces and military capabilities It analyses the aspirations underpinning Russia's military reform programme and its successes as well as its failures The book also provides insights into Russia's operational use of its armed forces including in the intervention in Syria the goals and results of recent state armament programmes and the trajectory of future developments This full colour volume includes more than 50 graphics maps and charts and over 70 images and contains chapters on Russia's armed forces since the end of the Cold War Strategic forces Ground forces Naval forces Aerospace forces Russia's approach to military decision making and joint operations Economics and industry At a time when Russia's relations with many of its neighbours are increasingly strained and amid renewed concern about the risk of an armed clash this dossier is essential reading for understanding the state capabilities and future of Russia's armed forces

The Routledge Handbook of Soviet and Russian Military Studies Alexander Hill, 2025-02-24 This handbook brings together historical and contemporary essays about Soviet and Russian military studies to offer a comprehensive volume on the topic. Comprising essays written by acknowledged specialists, the handbook examines the development of the Russian and Soviet armed forces from the Napoleonic Wars all the way through to the course and conduct of the Special Military Operation in Ukraine. Divided into thematic and chronological sections, the volume looks at wars fought by the Tsarist regime through to the First World War, the Soviet Union's Great Patriotic War from 1941 to 1945, the Cold War including the Soviet war in Afghanistan and Russia's post-Soviet wars and military development. In addition, the volume also includes a section that analyses a number of overarching themes including the development of Russian and Soviet airpower, partisan warfare, counterinsurgency and the role of women in Russian and Soviet armed forces. The volume concludes with an essay looking at whether, using the historical material and material on the conduct of the war in Ukraine, we can reasonably talk of a Russian way of war. This volume will be of considerable interest to students of the Soviet Union and Russia strategic studies and military history.
