The Oxford Handbook of Assessment Policy and Practice in Music Education, Volume 1 Timothy S. Brophy, 2019-01-02 In the music classroom instructors who hope to receive aid are required to provide data on their classroom programs Due to the lack of reliable valid large scale assessments of student achievement in music however music educators in schools that accept funds face a considerable challenge in finding a way to measure student learning in their classrooms From Australia to Taiwan to the Netherlands music teachers experience similar struggles in the quest for a definitive assessment resource that can be used by both music educators and researchers In this two volume Handbook contributors from across the globe come together to provide an authority on the assessment measurement and evaluation of student learning in music The Handbook s first volume emphasizes international and theoretical perspectives on music education assessment in the major world regions This volume also looks at technical aspects of measurement in music and outlines situations where theoretical foundations can be applied to the development of tests in music The Handbook s second volume offers a series of practical and US focused approaches to music education assessment Chapters address assessment in different types of US classrooms how to assess specific skills or requirements and how assessment can be used in tertiary and music teacher education classrooms Together both volumes of The Oxford

Handbook of Assessment in Music Education pave the way forward for music educators and researchers in the field New Schools for a New Century Diane Ravitch, Joseph P. Viteritti, 1997-01-01 As we cross the threshold of a new century which approaches are likely to improve public education In this book distinguished scholars discuss recent innovations charter schools contracting arrangements and choice designed to liberate educators from burdensome bureaucratic controls and improve the level of opportunity for all children Focusing on the problems in cities where far too many children have been denied access to quality institutions the authors examine the lessons to be learned from Catholic schools site based management private entrepreneurs and specific developments in three cities New York Milwaukee and Chicago The authors though realistic about the political and institutional obstacles that stand in the way of meaningful change foresee the demise of the one size fits all approach to schooling They envision a system of schools that is dynamic diverse performance based and accountable one that is supportive of professionals responsive to creativity intolerant of failure and committed to high educational standards for all children Contributors Louann Bierlein Anthony Bryk John Chubb Chester Finn Paul Hill Valerie Lee Paul Peterson Diane Ravitch Joseph P Viteritti Priscilla Wohlstetter Accountability Frankenstein Sherman Dorn, 2007-03-01 To understand the current moment in school accountability one must understand the larger contradictions in education politics Accountability Frankenstein provides a broader perspective on the school accountability debate by exploring the contradictions inherent in high stakes testing Accountability Frankenstein explains the historical and social origins of test based accountability the political roots of accountability why we trust test scores while we distrust teachers the assumptions behind formulaic accountability systems and the weaknesses with the current carrot and stick approach to motivating teachers Accountability Frankenstein answers the questions of educators and parents who want to understand the origins of accountability This book challenges the beliefs of fierce advocates and opponents of highstakes testing It provides a rescue plan for accountability after the failures of high stakes testing a plan to make accountability smart democratic and real Internationalizing Teacher Education in the United States Beverly D. Shaklee, Supriya Baily, 2012-03-08 As countries become increasingly interdependent student populations in the United States are becoming more culturally diverse These students transnational perspectives present significant challenges to teachers but a disconnect exists between the skills teachers need and those provided to them by colleges of education As teacher preparation programs continue to cater to historic models of diversity the programs show a glaring lack of recognition for the recent changes in school and community populations Internationalizing Teacher Education in the United States examines the impact of globalization on teacher education in the United States explains the current barriers to teacher education becoming more internationally minded and presents possible solutions for teacher education programs to consider Other books address the multi national challenges faced by American education in the 21st century but this book takes it one step further offering teacher educators practical and theoretical explorations of their vital role in the education of contemporary student populations in the United States

Rethinking Online Education Bessie Mitsikopoulou, 2015-11-17 Rethinking Online Education analyzes online educational materials on the recent Iraq war aimed to be used by U S educators in elementary and secondary schools It is suggested that far from being ideologically neutral these educational materials weave together resources which provide a coherent view of the Iraq war theme and can thus be seen as constituting a kind of an informal curriculum Mitsikopoulou argues that the teacher resources adhere to different pedagogical discourses and constitute materializations of two broad approaches to education A number of pedagogical issues are also raised in the discussion What is the difference between critical thinking and critical pedagogy How is the genre of lesson plan realized in different teaching philosophies and how do curricular texts change when they are delivered online This important book highlights the need to explore the new forms of textuality which emerge from online curricular materials and to develop an understanding of the processes of text composition distribution and consumption

Who's in Charge Here? Noel Epstein, 2004-09-27 A Brookings Institution Press and the Education Commission of the States publication Behind the scenes a revolution is taking place in primary and secondary education Once thought sacrosanct the principle of local lay control has come under growing attack In the 1970s and 1980s governors sought greater influence by promulgating academic standards and even taking over failing schools Mayors soon followed with some wresting control of struggling local school systems Atop this the president and Congress greatly extended their reach into U S classrooms with enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 which requires annual reading and math tests in grades 3 through 8 tougher yardsticks to measure whether pupils are making sufficient progress and penalties for schools that persistently fall short The result is a spider's web of responsibility It is difficult if not impossible to figure out where accountability lies Not only have municipal state and federal authorities reasserted control over the separate education government that the nation long ago created but an array of other institutions including the courts community based organizations and education management companies are also deeply involved in school decisions These trends have created a growing gap between those who make education policy and those responsible for the results What's more they have contributed to widespread confusion about how to fix public education In Who's in Charge Here some of the finest minds in education cut through the confusion to analyze key issues such as the Constitution's role in allocating responsibility for education the pros and cons of growing federal control how to ensure a supply of talented teachers for the underprivileged the impact of the school choice movement and the expanding non academic role of schools Other chapters explore the history of U S education governance and propose principles for creating a new system that especially benefits the children who are most in need The question of who should be

Beyond Modernism and Postmodernism Maurice R. Berube, 2001-11-30 Berube examines the political matrix of intellectual and cultural America In a wide ranging series of essays from the rise of the postmodern intellectual to a modernist appreciation of the spiritual quality of the paintings of Jackson Pollock Berube stakes out his claim that all areas of human endeavor are rooted in a politics of culture The essay collection is divided into three sections The first two essays deal with the postmodern intellectual and the corporate university the second section plumbs the depth of a conservative school reform movement and asks whether we have not reached an end to education reform The last section contains essays pertaining to precarious state of arts education in the schools reflections on a modernist literary canon the contribution of Pollock and plumbing alternative views of Jesus as the penultimate revolutionary Of particular interest to scholars students and other researchers involved with cultural studies and education

Making it tangible.

Learning outcomes in science education Sascha Bernholt,Knut Neumann,Peter Nentwig,2012 One of the central features in current educational reforms is a focus on learning outcomes Many countries have established or revised standards to describe what teachers are supposed to teach and students are expected to learn More recently the emphasis has shifted to considerations of how standards can be operationalized in order to make the outcomes of educational efforts more tangible This book is the result of a symposium held in Kiel that was arranged by two science education groups one at the IPN Leibniz

Institute for Science and Mathematics Education at the University of Kiel in Germany and the other at the University of York UK The seminar brought together renowned experts from 12 countries with different notions of the nature and quality of learning outcomes The aim was to clarify central conceptions and approaches for a better understanding among the international science education community The book is divided into five parts In Part A the organizers set the scene describing the rationale for arranging the symposium Part B provides a broad overview about different approaches challenges and pitfalls on the road to the clarification of meaningful and fruitful learning outcomes The set of papers in Part C provides deep insights into different although comparable approaches which aim to frame to assess and to promote learning and learning outcomes in science education Smaller projects are presented as well as broad coordinated national programs The papers in Part D outline the individual historical development from different national perspectives reflecting the deficits and problems that led to current reforms Finally a summary of the organizers analyses the conclusions from different vantage points

Politics, Persuasion, and Educational Testing Lorraine M. McDonnell, 2009-07-01 Exploring the political struggles inspired by mass educational tests McDonnell analyzes the design and implementation of statewide testing in California Kentucky and North Carolina in the 1990s McDonnell draws lessons from these stories for the federal No Child Left Behind act with its sweeping directives for high stakes testing
